PLUM TREES BLOOM—SPRING IN NOVATO?

It's hardly the time of year, but plum trees are in bloom outside the Mission Lodge in Novato. Such an event normally occurs in February or March, according to George Allen of the Novato Parks and Recreation Department, but the warmth of recent rains and mild temperatures may have had something to do with the strange show of spring.

Quentin Peninsula Plan Aired

By JEFF GREER

A plan for massive development of a major portion of San Quentin Peninsula was given its first public showing last night and appeared to jolt members of Larkspur's city council and planning commission, meeting in joint session for the special event. (Other Larcspur City Council stories, page 5.)

"The hand is laid too heavy on it," said Mayor William G. Fleckles of the intensive development proposed by Dan Coleman Associates for the 200-acre area east of Highway 101.

The proposal also resulted in renewed demand that the Coleman firm be fired from the job of planning the peninsula's future. Charles A. Brouse of the Larkspur Town Meeting urged the firing and said the Coleman plan "fulfills our worst expectations" and was "a plan for developers to make maximum use" of one of the two remaining large undeveloped areas of Larkspur.

"Mr. Coleman and his company are out of touch with the mood of the people of Larkspur," Brouse declared.

Mayor Fleckles and planning commission chairman Otto Hoeffler cut off public discussion of the plan, saying that the commission will hold a public hearing on it at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The council and commission met jointly last night to hear David Van Pelt, a member of the Coleman firm, explain the proposed general plan for the area, which now is in interim zoning.

Most of the land centering on the Hutchinson Rock Quarry is owned by T. I. Properties, a giant Los Angeles-based investment firm. A 25-acre parcel is owned by the Golden Gate Bridge District, which plans to build its Central Marin ferry terminal there; other parcels are owned by the Ross Valley Sanitary District, Marin Municipal Water District and private owners.

Van Pelt argued that the area was "a natural for intensive development" because it is at the intersection of the main traffic arteries of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Highway 101, as well as the county's future main ferry terminal.

He suggested that multistory apartments could be built in the quarry and still not intrude on the skyline, that the peninsula is near both the proposed Bon Air regional shopping center and the competing regional center planned by Corte Madera south of Corte Madera Creek, and that San Rafael's schools could easily absorb the 500 new students expected to come from the apartment development. Although the property is in Larkspur, it is within the San Rafael school districts, he explained.

He argued that the peninsula's crossroads location was "unique" and very exciting."

The general plan envisions commercial and recreational development near the ferry terminal, office and commercial buildings on the flatlands below the quarry, and open space along the ridgeline above the quarry.

Van Pelt noted that the countywide general plan now being discussed identifies the quarry area as "part of a so-called countywide activity center." He said that planned unit development controls on the land were "indispensible" and agreed that Larkspur's existing zoning laws were inadequate to do the job.

Coleman Associates developed the general plan after being hired by the city and paid

SAIGON REJECTS COALITION PLAN

Peace Condition Turned Down As Kissinger, Thieu Continue Talks

SAIGON (UPI)—Presidential adviser Henry Kissinger held two rounds of private talks with President Nguyen Van Thieu on ending the Vietnam War today and as they met, the Saigon government rejected a coalition with the Communists as a peace condition.

The South Vietnamese Information Ministry issued an unprecedented statement reaffirming Thieu's opposition to the Communist-proposed three-part coalition. Normally, official statements on talks between representatives of the allies are issued jointly at the conclusion of the conferences.

The statement was delibered to the Vietnamese press before the end of Kissinger's 3 ½ hour morning session at Independence Palace. Kissinger, Thieu and U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth C. Bunker held a second 1½-hour conference later today.

No statements were given to newsmen by participants in the discussions after eigher of the meetings. Kissinger returned to Bunker's villa after the afternoon session.

Kissinger arrived in Saigon Wednesday, a day after his latest round of secret peace talks in Paris with NorthVietnamese negotiators. The unexpected second trip to Saigon within two months heightened speculation in South Vietnam that major new developments had occurred at his private Paris talks.

But high level officials in Washington told UPI reporter Stewart Hensley that Thieu was "highly suspicious" of American contentions that "significant" progress at the Paris talks had been made that could lead at least to an interim peace pact.

The Washington officials told Hensley that Thieu doubted the sincerity of Hanoi's concession on a coalition government and said it was not adequate even if true. The officials indicated the Communists have dropped the demand that Thieu be barred from any interim coalition pending elections.

The statement issued by the South Vietnamese Information Ministry during the morning and given again to newsmen during the evening military briefing reaffirmed Thieu's opposition to a coalition.

The statement said "the Republic of Vietnam will not accept a three-part coalition government in Vietnam or any solution that is not accepted by the people of South Vietnam through democratic methods."

Thieu has said he would step down one month before internationally supervised elections in South Vietnam. The Communists have rejected the international supervision of elections or a cease-fire and instead proposed an interim coalition government including the Communists, neutralists and rightists.

NIXON AIDS EAGLES AND FHA LOANS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon signed a bill today giving the Secretary of Interior power to enforce prohibitions against the shooting of eagles, wolves or any other wildlife from aircraft. (See another legislative story, page 2.)

The act amends a 1971 law that did not designate an enforcement agency, therefore automatically leaving enforcement to a federal agency. That law prohibits killing or capture of any bird, fish or animal from a plane.

Nixon also signed a stopgap bill today, extending federal housing programs until June 30, 1972.

Nobel Literature Prize To German

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — West German novelist Heinrich Boell won the 1972 Nobel Prize for Literature today, the Swedish Academy announced.

The 54-year-old writer won the $100,000 award "for his writing which through its combination of a broad perspective on his time and a sensitive skill in characterization has contributed to a renewal of German literature," the Academy said.

Boell, who has been described as the best known postwar writer in both Germanies, became the first German to win the world's most coveted literary award since Thomas Mann got the 1929 prize.

German-born Hermann Hesse was a Swiss citizen when he won the prize in 1946.

Boell, a chunky man who cares little about his clothes and general appearance, has published a string of novels and short stories since World War II.

His best known works include "The Clown," "Billiards at Nine-Thirty" and "Doctor Murke's Collected Silences."

His last novel, "Gruppenbild mit Dame" (Group Portrait of a Lady), published in the fall of 1971, was a success both with the critics and the readers.

Boell, a Cologne-born Roman Catholic, published his first book in 1949. Since then he has written some 40 volumes.

Boell and his fellow countryman, Guenter Grass, who in contrast to Boell is an active supporter of Chancellor Willy Brandt's Social Democratic Party, have been among the leading candidates for the Nobel award in recent years.

Although Boell has refused to join any political party he has been closely associated with the left in postwar Germany. Earlier this year Boell touched off a political controversy by speaking out in defense of the Baader-Meinhof anarchist group in West Germany.

Thirteen of the 18 members of the Academy took part in today's prize-awarding meeting. Dr. Karl-Ragnar Gierow, permanent secretary of the Academy, made the announcement in his oak panelled office in the Stockholm Stock Exchange building just as the clock on the wall struck one.

Dr. Gierow read the Academy's citation but refused to answer newsmen's questions.

Academy members absent included poet Harry Martinsson and novelist Eyvind Johnson, both of whom had been mentioned as possible prize winners.

However, the choice of Boell was not controversial. Academy sources said it was in fact decided at earlier meetings and today's session was just a formal confirmation of the decision.

In a written commentary Gierow described "Gruppenbild mit Dame" as Boell's "most grandly conceived work—and that not only in size.

"His mastery includes the ability to bring his setting and its figures to life with scanty, sometimes barely suggested lines."

Nation's Economy Slowed; Big Drop In Real Output

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The nation's economy slowed considerably this summer, with inflation creeping higher and real output dropping by a third, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said preliminary figures showed the "real" growth in the economy during the third quarter was 5.9 per cent compared to an unusually robust 9.4 per cent in the April-June quarter.

At the same time, prices rose from a 1.8 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate in the second quarter to 2.2 per cent in the summer quarter —July through September.

The growth and inflation rates were reported in the Commerce Department's third-quarter preliminary estimate of the Gross National Product (GNP), which measures the value of the nation's total output of goods and services.

Although there was a marked and expected decline in "real" growth —output adjusted for the effects of inflation —real GNP has grown at a 7 per cent annual rate for the first nine months of 1972.

The administration thus appeared to have a good chance of bettering its 6 per cent annual growth rate estimate made last January.

Inflation has advanced at a 3 per cent rate for the first three quarters —and that is the maximum the administration set as its goal for price increases during 1972.

The GNP figures "show that the economy is continuing to expand at a rapid rate and that inflation has been held in check," according to Assistant Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer.

He said the report was "further confirmation of the sweeping impact of President Nixon's new economic program on the economy."

With the effects of inflation included, the GNP grew at an 8.3 per cent rate in the third quarter after gains of 12 per cent and 11.4 per cent in the first and second quarters.

GNP stood at an annual rate of $1,162 billion ($1.1 trillion) in the July-September period.

One Dies, Four Hurt In Accident On 101

A Petaluma youth was killed, a Fairfax man critically injured and three others were seriously hurt in a three-car accident yesterday on Highway 101 in Sonoma County near the Marin line.

The accident, in which Anthony Robert Lawrence, 20, of 1565 Adobe Road, died, occurred at 3:55 p.m. in the northbound lanes of the freeway, although the California Highway Patrol had few details.

The CHP said it has been unable to question the injured and no eyewitnesses were found.

Wreckage was strewn over a large area of the highway, and traffic was backed up more than an hour as crews cleaned up the mess.

A man tentatively identified as the driver of the second auto, Leland Dale O'Leal, 22, of 6 Sequoia Road, Fairfax, suffered severe head and internal injuries in the crash, and was reported in "very critical" condition today at Hillcrest Hospital.

Riding with O'Leal were his wife, Claudia, 18, and daughter, Lea, 18 months, both still hospitalized today at Hillcrest. Mrs. O'Leal, suffering from facial cuts and internal injuries, was reported in fair condition, with the daughter said to be "satisfactory," suffering from a deep scalp cut.

The driver of the third car, Beatrice S. Cohn, 51, of 140 Purrington Road, Petaluma, was reported in fair condition with a broken pelvis, both ankles broken and broken ribs.

Lawrence was the son of Veronica Green of Petaluma. He was born in Massachusetts and moved to San Rafael in 1964. After living there briefly, he moved to Novato and graduated from San Marin High School last June.

Lawrence had lived in Petaluma for a year and was employed as a food handler at Hamilton Air Force Base.

He is also survived by his stepfather, Dale Green of Novato; two brothers, Gerard Lawrence of Petaluma and Michael Lawrence of Pennsylvania, and a grandfather in Massachusetts.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma.

Collapse Cause Won't Be Told

PASADENA (AP) — Even if investigators find out what caused a section of a Foothill Freeway bridge under construction here to collapse, killing six workers, the public will never know, says a spokesman for the state Division of Highways.

"It is somewhat doubtful whether we ever will find out the cause and even if we do, it won't be released to the public because of likely litigation," Keith McKean, assistant district engineer in charge of construction for the Division of Highways, said yesterday.

Federal and state agencies launched an intensive investigation after the 60-foot middle section of the 580-foot-long bridge fell 90 feet Tuesday, killing the workers and injuring 21 others.

Reds Take Hamlet Near Saigon, Urged To 'Tighten The Siege'

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops early today captured the hamlet of Thanh Hoa, 10 miles from Saigon, in their deepest penetration toward the capital in three years, field reports said. Viet Cong broadcasts exhorted Communist troops to "tighten the siege around Saigon to win large, significant victories."

There were some clashes only seven miles from Saigon and U.S. and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers answered the challenge with 48 strikes Wednesday and today. Five waves of B52s dropped 450 tons of bombs on "enemy troop concentrations" within 33 miles of Saigon and others hit Mekong Delta targets, the U.S. Command reported.

The flareup of fighting near Saigon came as Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's security adviser, met with President Nguyen Van Thieu and top U.S. and South Vietnamese military officials on the issues of war and peace. Kissinger flew in from peace talks in Paris to meet with Thieu.

Field officers told a UPI reporter that an unknown sized Communist force penetrated Thanh Hoa early today and by midmorning was in full control of the hamlet. A reaction force of government militiamen and armored cavalry was organized but was slow in counterattacking.

In the pattern of the Vietnam War hundreds of residents fled the hamlet for the safety of nearby Lai Thieu district capital or Saigon itself. Military spokesmen said that the occupation of the hamlet was the closest penetration into the Saigon area since the Communist offensive in the spring of 1969.

New attacks were reported in the Central Highlands provinces of Pleiku and Kontum today, UPI reporter Matt Franjola said. The most significant was the ambush of a military convoy halfway between the two province capitals 245 miles north of Saigon.

Franjola said the Communists attacked the trucks with mortars, machine guns and rifles, halting it. There were no immediate reports of casualties.

October distribution of statewide sales and use taxes will include a $102,500 payment to the City of San Rafael, according to the state Board of Equalization.

Marin County will receive $26,250, and payments to other cities in the county will be Belvedere, $400; Corte Madera, $21,250; Fairfax, $4,000; Larkspur, $5,750; Mill Valley, $12,500; Novato, $23,250; Ross, $400; San Anselmo, $9,500; Sausalito, $18,000, and Tiburon, $5,750.

Parade, Ceremony Set On Monday For Veterans Day

A parade and ceremonies at the Civic Center Veterans' Memorial Building will highlight Veterans Day activities in Marin on Monday.

Color guards and marching units from the Army and Marine Corps, as well as police delegations from San Anselmo, Fairfax, Sausalito, the county sheriff's department and the California Highway Patrol will meet at the auditorium at 1 p.m. for a short march to the Doughboy statue.

Also participating in the parade will be American Legion posts and Veteran of Foreign War units, boy and girl scouts and the Elks Lodge. The Tomales High School Band will provide music.

Speakers at the event will include officers from Fort Cronkite in Sausalito.

The annual Veterans Day outing for wounded veterans at the Corinthian Yacht Club in Tiburon will not be held this year due to organizational problems, according to a club spokesman.

Public offices, schools, most libraries and some supermarkets will be closed in observ-

Federal Housing Kickbacks Bring Indictments To 18

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Eighteen men connected with the federal housing program in Philadelphia were indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on charges stemming from an alleged conspiracy which cost taxpayers $12.7 million.

Two of those indicted were top officials of the Federal Housing Administration (FHA) office here.

The indictments, returned in U.S. District Court, named the former deputy director of the office, the office's chief of property management, five realtors, 10 contractors and a certified public accountant.

The indictments charged that the five realtors, who were under contract with the FHA to provide low cost housing, accepted kickbacks from contractors in return for repair contracts on FHA-acquired houses. Costs of the kickbacks allegedly were passed on to the FHA.

The indictments further charged the two FHA officials received kickbacks from the brokers in return for exclusive rights to resell the homes.

The two officials were identified as John Boyle, 46, Collingswood, N.J., recently retired deputy director of the Philadelphia FHA office, and Michael J. Hughes, 54, Jenkintown, Pa., chief of the office's property management section.

Thomas J. Gallagher, the retired director of the office, was indicted May 11 on charges of taking $73,000 in bribes and on charges of income tax evaasion.

Secretary George Romney of the Department of Housing and Urban Development said in Washington the indicted officials and those doing business with HUD had been suspended.

The indicted real estate brokers were: Edward Kaplan, 66, Wyncotte, Pa.; Karl Coleman, 41, Philadelphia; David R. Allen, Philadelphia; George Thompson, Upper Darby, Pa., and Leo Bloom, 48, North Palm Beach, Fla.

The private contractors, all from Philadelphia, were: Robert Lawrence, Roque D. Petrone, Sol Klein, John A. Garrette, Walter Ciesielka, Neil Lazar, R. Barry Clements, Otto Nagel, Philip W. Naegele and John Scanlon. The accountant was Albert Gilbert of Philadelphia.

Threat Of Strike By Railway Clerks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Railway Clerks Union has threatened to strike the Railway Express Agency (REA) if an agreement on a new contract for 15,000 workers is not reached by midnight tonight.

The union and management scheduled a negotiating session late this morning with George Ives of the National Mediation Board acting as mediator.

Union President C. L. Dennis was not optimistic about a settlement, union sources said. The old contract expires Jan. 1, 1971, and union members have been working since then under an extension of the old agreement without any wage increases since 1970.

A Tax Charge

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Country singer Judy Lynn was named Wednesday in a federal tax lien of $1,256 for unpaid social security, unemployment and withholding taxes for the last quarter of 1971.

Congress Hands Nixon Defeats, Then Quits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 92nd Congress, battling with President Nixon to the end, killed about as many major bills as it passed.

Even before adjournment last night, the Democratic-controlled Congress had its two-year record thrust into the national political campaign.

Nixon accused the legislators of excessive spending and raised the issue again in his response to his twin defeat on the last day of the session.

Congress overrode his veto of a $24.6 billion water-pollution control bill and killed the $250 billion federal spending ceiling he sought along with unlimited power to make the cuts to achieve it. Nixon characterized the votes as an invitation to a tax increase.

Casting yes votes on the water pollution control override were Reps. Don Clausen, R-First District, and William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District.

Democrats replied that the President exaggerated the cost of the clean-water bill, that he has repeatedly vetoed funds urgently needed for education, health and other programs treating social ills, and that he has protected the Pentagon budget from their effort to pare what they call wasteful spending.

Nixon's only major domestic legislation to survive Congress was the $30.2 billion revenue sharing bill which he plans to sign in ceremonies tomorrow at Constitution Hall in Philadelphia.

But Congress killed the welfare-reform plan which Nixon repeatedly called his most important domestic proposal. It kiled antibusing legislation, all of the President's broad government reorganization proposals, and all of the various national-health-care plans.

Congress fought and lost battles with the President on foreign policy and military issues in both the 1971 and 1972 sessions.

Amendments calling for an end to U.S. involvement in the Indochina war cleared the Senate three times in 1971 and twice in 1972, but none ever got through the House.

A watered-down version of a proposal by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to fix a time for U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam did go to the White House last year, but Nixon announced he would ignore it.

Congress ratified the arms-limitation agreements worked out by the President with the Soviet Union.

Despite many objections, members generally approved funds for new weapons projects Nixon said were necessary despite the agreements.

It was in the domestic field that Congress balked at several key Nixon proposals, and tried to enact others he rejected. He vetoed some, including a broad new child-development program.

In the 1971 session, Congress did give the President the economic and tax legislation he said he needed to control and stimulate business.

Among the major bills cleared in this year's session:

A constitutional amendment barring discrimination on the basis of sex. Awaiting ratification by two-thirds of the states.

An $8-billion, 20-per-cent increase in Social Security benefits for 28 million Americans, together with the taxes to pay for it. This measure also provides automatic future increases tied to the cost of living index.

A $19.5-billion higher-education bill establishing a program of general federal financial aid for all colleges and universities and a system of basic grants for all needy college students. This bill also would hold up all school busing orders until Dec. 31, 1973, until all court appeals are exhausted.

A $6-billion Social Security-welfare bill increasing benefits for widows, all male Social Security recipients, the disabled, persons who work after reaching retirement age, and other groups.

These were important measures passed in 1971:

A $15.8-billion tax cut for individuals and business. Attached to this was a plan of government financing of presidential campaigns which takes effect in 1972.

Legislation authorizing the President to control wages, prices and rents through April 30, 1973.

A constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18. Ratified by the states.

A $250-million loan guarantee for Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

A requirement that all needy school children be given a free or reduced-price lunch.

A 10-per-cent Social Security increase plus higher taxes to pay for it.

A two-year extension of the military draft.

These were among major proposals rejected or not acted on by the 92nd:

Nixon's plan to reform the welfare program for families by establishing a guaranteed annual $2,400 income for a family of four, providing aid for the first time for the working poor, and tightening work requirements. Passed the House, rejected by the Senate.

A bill to impose strict limits on school-busing orders and to reopen previous cases under the new guidelines. Passed the House, failed in the Senate.

Legislation to create permanent machinery to settle national-emergency transportation strikes. The President abandoned support for this last summer.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Beef Prices Climb

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government survey released this week indicates consumers may find retail beef prices on a new upward trend in late December and the early months of 1973, Agriculture Department experts believe.

Department economists, in a new issue of their "livestock and meat situation" report, said beef cattle prices are not expected to move much from current levels through most of the remainder of 1972.

However, a survey issued this week after the "situation" analysis was written, showed the number of cattle moved into feedlots in July-September to begin fattening for market was down 2 per cent from a year earlier. Previously, experts had expected an increase in the figure, which covers 23 major producing states.

Black Power Salute

CHICAGO (UPI)—Four accused members of De Mau Mau gang raised shackled fists in a black power salute as they were led to a courtroom yesterday to answer charges of mass murder.

"Ain't this one hell of a thing," Mike Clark, one of the defendants, said, spitting into the pack of newsmen and cameramen. "We're gonna be famous."

Eight men, all said to be members of a black terrorist gang with roots among soldiers in Vietnam, have been charged in the murders of nine persons, including the execution-style slayings of two white families.

Circuit Court Judge Parul Ceaser postponed arraignment of the four until Tuesday. No pleas were entered.

Peace Talks Postponed

PARIS (UPI)—Officials postponed the 164th session of the Vietnam peace talks scheduled today for one week because the European summit has taken over the International Conference Center, the usual site of the peace conference.

The 164th session of the peace talks will be held Oct. 26.

Hits McGovern's Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Declaring Sen. George S. McGovern's proposals on the Vietnam War "would dishonor this country," the outgoing president of the largest organization of American prisoner of war families has endorsed President Nixon for reelection.

Mrs. Carole Hanson of El Toro, Calif., whose Marine major husband, Stephan, has been missing in Laos since June 1967, told a news conference yesterday she was "disgusted" with McGovern's plans to end the war.

Continues Cairo Snub

MOSCOW (UPI)—Leonid I. Brezhnev, general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party, expressed his displeasure with Cairo this week by refusing to receive Egyptian Premier Aziz Sidky, diplomatic sources said today.

Brezhnev's snub also is a sign the Soviet party chief has no intention of going to Cairo for the summit talks demanded by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, the sources said.

Soviet sources insisted when Sadat first raised his demand that Brezhnev had said all he had to say.

Phnom Penh Fighting

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Fighting broke out at three points on the outskirts of Phnom Penh early today, Cambodian authorities said.

Cambodia troops and local militiamen clashed with North Vietnamese forces six miles south, 10 miles south and 12 miles northwest of the Cambodian capital, the military High Command said.

Marriage Dissolved

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Actress Sandy Duncan, 25, who stars in her own television series, was granted an uncontested divorce Wednesday from actor Bruce Scott Zahariades, 26, ending four years of marriage.

The couple's holdings were divided. They have no children.

U.S., Russia To Resume Arms Talks Next Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The United States and the Soviet Union will resume talks Nov. 21 in Geneva on limiting strategic offensive nuclear weapons, the White House announced today.

The negotiations which already have produced agreement on restricting defense missile systems and a limited accord on offensive missiles have been held previously in Helsinki and Vienna.

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the U.S. delegation, headed by Ambassador Gerard C. Smith, would remain the same for the second phase of the talks.

A statement issued simultaneously in Moscow said:

"Pursuant to the agreement reached during the summit meeting in Moscow last May to continue active negotiations for the limitation of strategic offensive arms, the governments of the United States and the U.S.S.R. will resume talks on the subject on Nov. 21, 1972, in Geneva, Switzerland."

Ziegler said the site had been changed to Geneva to avoid the expense of moving between Helskinki and Vienna.

The first phase of the talks began Nov. 17, 1969, and culminated in the treaty signed during President Nixon's Moscow summit conference with Kremlin leaders last May limiting each country to two antiballistic missile sites.

McGovern Unveils Pension Plan

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI)—Sen. George S. McGovern said today the Nixon administration's pension reform plan "discriminates heavily" in favor of the rich and unveiled a proposal of his own to guarantee workers retirement pay after five years on the job.

The Democratic presidential candidate announced his new program for private pension plans backed by federal insurance in a statement for delivery at a labor luncheon in Philadelphia. Before leaving Toledo, he planned to hold a breakfast meeting with local union officials.

McGovern was buoyed by a turnout of several thousand fans at a rally here Wednesday night and scheduled appearances with black voters today at Cheyney State College in Pennsylvania and a rally at Bedford-Stuyvesant in Brooklyn with Rep. Shirley Chisholm, who sought the Democratic presidential nomination herself.

As outlined, his pension reform program would require the guaranteeing of 50 per cent of the benefits after five years of work and an additional 10 per cent for each year of service thereafter up to five years.

The guarantees would apply retroactively for workers over 40, he said. "Otherwise, these older workers will be deprived of a proposal as this if adopted," he said.

To avert personal hardships, he also proposed that a federal insurance program be established.

"Federal insurance already covers bank deposits, home mortgages, securities losses resulting from the failure of brokerage houses and the Lockheed loan," he noted. "Why should it not be extended to cover retirement income earned by working people and set aside for them in pension plans...

"More than 35 million American workers are enrolled in private pension plans, yet more than half of them will receive absolutely no pension benefits when they retire and many others will receive only minimal returns. The Nixon administration has largely ignored this injustice.

"For two years it had made no serious proposal for pension reform." he said. "Last year it finally made a proposal which fits neatly into the traditional Republican mold; discriminating heavily in favor of the rich and doing nothing for many of those in greatest need."

In a half hour television telethon Wednesday carried over stations which blanketed Ohio and parts of West Virginia, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, McGovern said taunted President Nixon to "come out and debate."

"If he keeps hiding in the White House, sitting there on his Gallup Poll, there's going to be a surprise," McGovern said.

CALLING ALL
CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard

CURING THE JIGGLES

Camera motion remains the No. 1 Enemy of good clear photographs. Ironically, it is also just about the easiest problem to correct. So if you're getting blurred shots, tune in.

One problem is trying to grip the camera very tightly to hold it steady. This only has the opposite effect, bringing tension to your muscles and encouraging the jiggles. Instead, hold the camera lightly.

Step two is not to jab or punch the shutter release with your trigger finger. The shutter won't operate any faster because you jab it, and the sudden jerk is almost guaranteed to cause the camera to jiggle at the instant of exposure.

The best cure is to put the camera on a solid support while you shoot. Fact is, there's almost always something you can use — a desk, table, fence railing, a low wall or even your car fender, either to rest the camera on directly or to brace your arms and elbows on for steadiness.

We'll be glad to help you analyze your pictures for errors you can correct. Bring in your films for fast, expert processing, and let's go over the results. For everything photographic, in sales and expert service, call on

DeMolay To Install Officers

Stewart Spencer of Terra Linda will be installed as master councilor of the Marin Chapter of the Order of DeMolay at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple in San Rafael.

Spencer is a graduate of Terra Linda High School and is now a freshman at the College of Marin in Kentfield.

He joined DeMolay in October, 1969, and has held six other offices.

Other officers to be installed are Michael Theodore (Ted) Stern, senior councilor, and Jack Martins, junior councilor.

Tomales Properties Devalued

For the second time in two weeks, the Marin County Assessment Appeals Board has slashed the value of Tomales Bay properties rezoned to the controversial A-60 designation.

Following the pattern of two weeks ago, the appeals board reduced the market value of two vacant landholdings about 50 per cent.

One parcel, totaling 261 acres and owned by Cypress Point Farm, was reduced in market value from $131,500 to a compromise figure of $73,000. The owners contended the land, located on the western slopes of the bay, is worth only $26,100 as a result of the rezoning.

The second parcel reduced was a 10-acre site owned by Tomales Bay Associates. It was cut from $8,500 to $4,000.

A third parcel, however, owned by cypress Point Associates, was denied any reduction by the appeals board. The 602-acre site, which has one home, is valued at $207,000 but the owners said it should be $73,000 because of the rezoning. The board ruled however that it could find no reason to reduce the value since the land had been improved.

Larkspur architect Van Norden Logan represented all three owners. He was listed as a general partner in the land.

Robbing Charge Is Dismissed

A charge of robbing a hitchhiker was dismissed for a 19-year-old Novatan because the man who claimed to be the victim lied, according to a deputy district attorney.

Vernon F. Smith asked that the charge against Robert Carl Gorski be dismissed in Marin Municipal Court after investigators learned Gorski had been seen with others in his car at the time he was allegedly robbing Reginald Bruce Johnson, 24, of San Rafael.

Gorski was arrested Oct. 8 after Johnson said he was robbed at knifepoint of $125.

Patrick Hit With $5.2 Million Suit

A San Rafael couple today filed a $5.2 million lawsuit contending that participation in a class of William Penn Patrick's Leadership Dynamics Institute not only didn't live up to its rosy billing, but actually caused them harm.

The suit filed in Marin Superior Court by San Francisco attorney Vasilios B. Choulos for Frank and Betty Buscaino asks an equal sum each from Patrick, cosmetics magnate; his Holiday Magic Co; Leadership Dynamics; eight employees and participants in the sessions, 20 unidentified persons and four unidentified companies.

The suit, another in a series of similar actions against Leadership Dynamics, contends that separate sessions the couple attended at Rickey's Hyatt House Motel in Palo Alto Dec. 16-19, 1971, were designed to "injure, batter, assault, defraud and deceive."

The three-day course, according to the suit, offered, among other things, a new vision of life and a way to surpass income goals.

Choulos said in the suit that his clients suffered body bruises, cuts that required stitches, injuries to the back, head, shoulders, arms and legs and mental and emotional injuries.

He said the actual purpose of the class was "to taunt, torture, pervert, agonize, torment, rack, beat, strike, kick, befoul, reproach, deride, jeer at, imprison, tie up, bound, embarass, sham, shock, hurt, gull, exhaust, overwork, terrify, threaten and traumatize."

In addition to $2 million punitive damages and $100,000 for injuries and distress for each, the suit asks that each be paid the $1,000 fee for the sessions, plus costs.

Named in addition to Patrick and the corporations are Flo Johnson, Emily Gates, John Hunt, Sharroll Shumate, Roland Nocera, Gary Reynolds, Harold A. Lipska and William Neibel.

Forecasters See End To Bad Weather

Though the skies hung gray over most of Marin today, weathermen were predicting an end to the nine-day rain that has deluged the Bay Area.

In a special forecast issued, the National Weather Service said it would be "mostly fair" through tomorrow, except for patches of fog.

The low pressure system that has hovered over the Bay Area creating the deluge has moved southeast, the service said.

A Marin Municipal Water District official who reported Monday that rains had dumped 1.8 billion gallons into district water supplies actually meant to give a figure of 1.8 million gallons, the district office reported today. To date, the storm had added 3.5 million gallons to district reservoirs, according to Dietrich Stroeh, district engineering manager.

Culture Expert To Lead Seminar

Dr. Marcus Bach — world traveler, author and commentator on the interrelation of cultures — will conduct a seminar Saturday in Alexander Hall on the San Anselmo campus of the San Francisco Theological Seminary.

The seminar is sponsored by Unity-in-Marin and registration details and other information may be obtained from the sponsor's office at 24 H Street, San Rafael.

Seminary subjects from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. are entitled "All That I Learned From Religions Around the World," "Spiritual Healing Principles and Techniques of Meditation" and "Psychism and Reincarnation."

Bach — founder of the Foundation for Spiritual Understanding which seeks methods of achieving social and spiritual goals — will also speak Sunday morning in Alexander Hall on "Serendipity, Your Seventh Sense."

Family Tennis Club Plan Set

The Marin County Young Men's Christian Association hasannounced plans to build a family tennis club on the YMCA grounds on North San Pedro Road.

James Looney, executive director for the YMCA, said a total of 140 families is being recruited to finance construction of four lighted courts. The initial contribution will be $250 per family, with annual family dues set at $60, he said. Individuals also may join, he added.

The courts will be ready for use by next spring, Looney said.

Hearing Is Set In Carpet Theft

A preliminary hearing for a 20-year-old San Rafael resident, allegedly caught burglarizing a San Rafael carpet store, was set yesterday for Nov. 2 in Marin Municipal Court.

Michael Allen Martini denied the count Tuesday. It stems from his arrest Sunday outside Canterbury Carpets, 1337 Fourth Street.

Police went to the shop after receiving a report of someone passing a rug from a second story window to an accomplice below.

Police said they found Martini in an alley and the carpet in a nearby garage, but no second person.

Kelly's Resignation Accepted

The Marin County Housing Authority board last night accepted the resignation of Keith E. Kelly, deputy director of the authority and Marin County Redevelopment Agency.

Board member Philip S. Ehrlich Jr. said the board agreed to the resignation, effective Dec. 31, after meeting in closed session for about a half hour.

Kelly, who resigned after he and Wallace K. Shepherd, director of both agencies, found it "difficult to work together," will remain in his job until the end of the yeer.

Shepherd suspended Kelly from his duties in May, but that action was rescinded by the authority and redevelopment boards. The groups ruled the executive director had no such power.

The 45-year-old Kelly was hired for the $16,000-year post in February of last year. Prior to joining the agency, he had been recreation director for the city of Vallejo for eight years.

In other action, the board approved a $581,331 leased housing budget for 1973 and a $416,000 spending program for its 500 units of public housing.

Ehrlich said the board expressed concern that federal subsidies for leased housing would not meet agency costs and thus create a deficit.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development plans to contribute $432,513 to the authority's program next year, approximately $150,000 less than the budget envisioned. The authority currently has 240 units of leased housing throughout the county and plans to add an additional 50 units by next year.

Under the program, tenants pay one-fourth of their salaries for rent of privately owned houses and apartments and the remaining cost is provided by federal subsidies.

PLAN

by T. I. Properties.

Brouse protested that "the Town Meeting wants to discuss the San Quentin plan Nov. 11," and "we want to work with a planner in whom we have confidence."

Fleckles replied that Coleman Associates was hired on the recommendation of Arthur M. Stout, city planning and community development director, after Stout interviewed five planning consultant firms.

As for T.I. Properties' $3,500 grant, Fleckles said, "we told those people 'we're delighted to accept your $3,500... but for $3,500 you don't buy the city'."

He called on the Town Meeting group to "attack the plan and the concepts rather than the planner."

Planning commissioners and audience members asked Van Pelt to bring topographical maps and maps of proposed land uses to Tuesday's meeting. The consultant said he had also planned to show slides of the area, but had been prevented by the weather from taking suitable photographs.

Pleads Innocent To 2 Felonies

A 19-year-old Woodacre resident, charged with burglary and concealing stolen property, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court. A preliminary hearing has been set for Oct. 31.

Judy Soga was charged with the two felonies following her arrest by San Anselmo Police near Park and Railroad avenues last Friday.

Originally held on a $48 traffic warrant, the more serious allegations were added after jewelry allegedly stolen two days before in the $1,555 burglary of a San Anselmo home were found in her purse.

Accident Victim Listed Serious

Doris Helene Knipscher of Santa Venetia, injured Oct. 9, in an auto accident that resulted in two deaths, was removed from the "critical" list today at Marin General Hospital.

Mrs. Knipscher, 48, of 826 Hacienda Way, remains in the hospital's intensive care unit in "serious" condition.

She suffered chest injuries when her car collided head-on with another auto near the Venetia Oaks senior housing development in Santa Venetia. The driver of the other car, Kirk Brian Beleen of Santa Venetia received only minor injuries, but his two passengers, Barbara Haydee Tapia of Santa Venetia and Maritza Rodrigues Trejos of Sausalito, were killed.

Selling Of Bus Depot Suggested

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce has suggested that the city council consider selling the Mill Valley Bus Depot, providing adequate restrictions are attached to safeguard its appearance.

The future of the bus depot has been thrown into some doubt recently with the cancelation of its right to sell commuter bus tickets.

At its meeting Monday afternoon, the chamber urged the council to consider a wide variety of possibilities for the building, rather than limiting the options to a bus station.

Recycling Mill Expansion Set

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Crown Zellerbach Paper Co. has announced it is expanding and improving its recycling mill at Antioch so that it will be the second largest such operation in the country.

When the $9.2 million, two-phase program is completed the plant will produce 600 tons daily of quality papers, mostly from consumer wastes collected in this area. It now has a capacity of 150 tons daily.

The first phase includes construction of a $2.5 million water treatment facility to insure that the mill does not violate pollution regulations.

Hirohito Will Shun Degree

TOCYO (AP) — The Imperial Household Agency said today Emperor Hirohito will probably decline an honorary degree which the faculty of San Francisco State University wants to give him.

An agency spokesman said this would be done because offers of similar degrees from other universities were declined in the past. He did not identify the universities.

In San Francisco, S.I. Hayakawa, president of San Francisco State, said Tuesday the honorary degree would recognize the emperor's research in marine biology.

Burglary Charge Hearing Is Set

A preliminary hearing for a 25-year-old Petaluman, allegedly found inside a Kentfield garage on Oct. 8, has been set for Oct. 31 in Marin Municipal Court.

Brian Richard Twoomey denied the felony burglary count Tuesday.

He was arrested by a sheriff's deputy who said he saw a man with a flashlight looking through a toolbox and an office in the garage at 848 College Avenue.

Pieta Repaired By Year's End

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The director of the Vatican Museum said today that repairs to Michelangelo's damaged statue of La Pieta will be finished by the end of this year.

"I hope to have it fully restored in time to make it a Christmas present," said Dioclesiano Redig de Campos.

The Brazilian-born director said the repairs will be undetectable because nearly all the fragments of the damaged work have been found and only minute gaps will have to be filled in with marble paste.

KNOW THE LAW

California Highway Patrol

Know When To Stop On Road

Many drivers are confused about whether they may stop on a freeway. The California Vehicle Code specifies when you may stop and any other situations are not permitted.

A driver may stop on a freeway (out of a traffic lane) when it becomes necessary in order to avoid injury or damage to persons or property. For instance: a person in the vehicle is hurt or ill and further movement will aggravate the problem or the vehicle is disabled and continued driving may cause permanant damage.

There are many situations where a law officer can direct a motorist to stop and then the motorist must comply. This also applies when the driver is confronted with a regulatory sign requiring a stop.

Stopping on the freeway and its on and off-ramps for the purpose of picking up or dispensing of passenger or pedestrains is prohibited. In addition, pedestrains are prohibited on freeways except for those from a disabled vehicle. The person walking on the freeway from a disabled vehicle may walk as far as the nearest exit or telephone for the purpose of summoning assistance, and must walk as far from the nearest traffic lane as possible.

Because most persons have little experience in being on foot on high-speed roadways and there are many hazards, it is suggested that you stay with your vehicle until help arrives. However, the seriousness of the situation will dictate the methods you should use.

Remember, you will be faced with the drunk driver, the speeder, the out of control car and you will be on foot if you get out of your vehicle. Whenever possible, drive off the freeway.

with Kissinger, Thieu scheduled meetings with South Vietnamese legislative leaders and politicians. The information ministry statement said Thieu prior to Kissinger's arrival held "wide consultations with legislators, justices of the Supreme Court and politicians."

Meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Phillip C. Habib left Seoul for Saigon the day after President Park Chung Hee proclaimed martial law in South The spokesmen said Habib was summoned to Saigon to see Kissinger.

The embassy offered no explanation of Habib's reasons for making the trip.

Reliable sources in Seoul said the ambassador was given one day's notice of Park's intention to impose martial law as a prelude to sweeping reforms of the Korean constitution.

In Washington, the U.S. State Department had expressed regret "from a philosophical point of view" on Park's action, although there was no open protest.

South Korea also gave advance notice to Japan, now its leading foreign aid backer, and the host under the U.S.Japan Security Treaty to American bases vital for South Korea's defense.

Earlier in the day embassy spokesmen had fended off requests by newsmen to see Habib with the statement that the ambassador was "unavai'able."

His departure in the midst of the Korean constitutional crisis was unusual, since ambassadors usually stay at their posts in such situations.

Two Jailed For Story On Burial

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Two men accused of participation in an alleged Communist plot to overthrow the government were jailed after telling a court how they secretly buried their brother, killed when a bomb went off in his hands.

Police went to the burial spot in a factory yard east of Mexico City and dug up the body after Angel and Jose Luis Pimentel confessed in Mexico City's Federal District Court Wednesday.

The brothers were accused of manufacturing bombs which damaged military installations, the national palace and several American companies between June and September.

Three Indicted In Casino Heist

MINDEN, Nev. (UPI) —The Douglas County grand jury today indicted three men on robbery and conspiracy charges in connection with Nevada's biggest casino heist.

Indictments were returned against Donald Rice, 35, Stateline, Kack Cozad, 27, Stateline, and Thomas Norman, 36, Reno. They already face trial in Federal court.

District Attorney Howard McKibben said the three will be arraigned as soon as they can be arrested. He said bail was set at $10,000 for Cozad, $5,000 for Norman and $50,000 for Rice.

Newsman Loses Bid For Freedom

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Newsman Peter Bridge, jailed Oct. 4 for refusing to answer an Essex County grand jury's questions, has lost another bid for freedom.

Superior Court Judge H. Curtis Meanor, the judge who ordered the reporter to prison, refused Wednesday to order Bridge's release. Meanor rejected arguments by Bridge's attorney, Edward Gilhooly, that the grand jury, after making its presentment last Friday, had finished its business.

Gilhooly said he would appeal the ruling.

San Marin Plans Halloween Parade, Prizes

Edward T. Ryken will be the master of ceremonies.

Drop In Funds Hurts Budget

SACRAMENTO (AP) — An unexpected drop in federal funds has meant a $26.18 million cut in the 1973-74 California highway budget.

State Public Works Director James A. Moe said Wednesday the new budget calls for construction or widening of 107 miles of freeways, including 45 additional miles of the interstate highway system.

A tentative budget adopted last April was based on expectations of 17 per cent more money than seems to be forthcoming, Moe said, explaining the cutback. In addition to the cut in federal highway funds, Moe said, repeal of the state transportation or truck tax also contributed to the drop in expected revenues.

A $96 Million Railway Project

SYDNEY (AP) — The state government has before it a plan to build an 11-mile private railway through a string of northern seaside suburbs between Pittwater and Manly.

The scheme estimated to cost $96 million provides for a major transport terminal at Manly.

Manly, which extends from the ocean to Sydney Harbor, already has a steamer harbor ferry service to the city.

The railway, mainly underground, would take commuters to and from the Manly ferry. The area at present is served by bus.

Glassphalt In First Airport Appearance

NEW YORK (UPI) — Glassphalt, which substitutes for crushed stones in the paving which in other respects resembles asphalt, has made its first airport appearance.

An experimental strip of two-lane roadway has been covered with the "ecological pavement" at John F. Kennedy International Airport by the Port of New York Authority in cooperation with the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute. More than 90,000 glass bottles and jars recovered from litter and solid waste were crushed to manufacture the glassphalt.

ance of the day.

City offices in Marin and Southern Sonoma will be closed, except for Belvedere City Hall, which will remain open.

Federal, state and county offices will be closed, including the courts.

All public schools will be closed, as well as post offices and libraries with the exception of the San Anselmo library.

Most retail businesses and all banks will remain open, though some supermarkets will close.

Parking meters will not be enforced except in Sausalito and Mill Valley.

Golden Gate transit buses will operate as usual with minor deviations from regular schedules.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual.

The holiday will be a three-day one for many — the second this month. The first was Columbus Day weekend.

An act of Congress two years ago shuffled several traditional holidays to create more long weekends. One of the results was designation of the fourth Monday in October as the new date for Veterans Day. The holiday had long been celebrated on Nov. 11 and was originally known as Armistice Day — in observance of the end of hostilities in World War I.

The following governmental meetings originally scheduled for Monday have been postponed to Tuesday: the Tiburon City Council meeting at 7:30 p.m.; the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m.; the Corte Madera Town Council at 7:30 p.m.; the Corte Madera Board of Design at 7:30 p.m.

Governmental meetings postponed to Oct. 30 include: Mill Valley School District board at 8 p.m.; Almonte Sanitary District board at 8 p.m., and the Marin County Planning Commission at 9 a.m.

The Monday meeting of the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors has been canceled.

A Trash Pickup By Homeowners

The Marin Country Club Homeowners Association will have its own trash pickup Saturday as one of two events for the day, according to James Sullivan, publicity chairman.

Trash bins will be installed throughout the area and prunings and clippings may be disposed in them from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The association has arranged for the mobile blood bank of the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank to be at the Church of Ignacio from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The country club homeowners have asked that residents of Domingo Canyon, Loma Verde and Bel Marin Keys participate with them in donating blood, he said.

Draft Evasion Arrest Is Made

Federal agents yesterday arrested a San Rafael man on suspicion of evading the draft, a Federal Bureau of Investigation official in San Francisco said today.

Jack Eugene Grebe, 23, of 1710 Lincoln Avenue, was held overnight in Marin County Jail and was to appear today before U.S. Magistrate David R. Urdan in San Francisco.

In an indictment handed down by a Los Angeles Federal Grand Jury Sept. 18, Grebe is charged with failure to report for induction in Los Angeles in 1970, and with failure to keep his draft board informed of a current mailing address, according to a federal agent.

Larkspur Works On Impact Rule

Larkspur City councilmen last night decided they must worry about the environmental impact of past and present, as well as future, building permits in the city. (Another Larkspur City Council story, page 1.)

The council, acting cautiously in the wake of a recent state Supreme Court decision, called a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow to review all current but uncompleted apartment house, professional office and light industry developments to see if they should be subject to environmental impact reports.

Arthur M. Stout, director of planning and community development, and City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst were instructed to bring data to tomorrow's meeting, on approximately a dozen apartment houses and a few nonresidential developments now under construction.

Councilman Neil R. Brixon and Peter B. Brekhus, acting city attorney, pointed out that the environmental impact law actually went into effect more than a year ago, but was overlooked by all cities and counties until the recent state high court ruling. Mono County was sued successfully by a conservationist group for failing to require an ecological study on a development.

On Oct. 4, Larkspur froze action on all pending building permits, until the council could adopt guidelines on which applications would need impact reports. Stout last night, gave the council a list of 16 proposed exemptions, similar to guidelines used by Novato, San Rafael, and other cities.

The council deleted exemptions proposed for all developments currently under construction and all planned projects already holding a valid, unexpired permit. Mayor William G. Fleckles also objected to a staff proposal exempting all "zoning ordinance text amendments not involving proposed development plans."

The council set a public hearing for Nov. 1 on the remaining guidelines. They would define as "trivial" or without environmental impact, construction of single one-family residences or duplexes — except in the North Ridge area proposed for open space preserve. Also exempted would be sign permits, excavations involving less than 25 years of material; conversion of existing buildings to condominiums where no enlargement is involved; razing structures failing to meet the building code; and minor alterations and repair projects to existing buildings.

The proposed city resolution followed the court ruling in requiring environmental impact reports on any project inconsistent with national, state or local environmental laws or having a substantial impact on air and water quality or on ambient noise levels for adjoining areas," endangering rare wildlife, causing increased congestions or that "disrupts orderly, planned development."

The city staff and council still must decide on fees to finance the impact studies, and who should make the reports.

Brixon, Stout and Brekhus reported that the impact report issue was discussed at length at a meeting of the League of California Cities earlier this week in Southern California.

Asks Benefits Over 'Molds'

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI)— A Jehovah's Witness filed suit in Polk County District Court Wednesday to obtain unemployment benefits after quitting her job because, she said, she was asked to make peace sign molds.

Mrs. Betty Curtis left her job at the Foam Molding Corp. March 8, contending that making the molds was against her religious beliefs. She charged the peace symbol was "Communist inspired and of pagan origin" and contended that helping manufacture the "idolatrous designs" violated her religious rights.

The Iowa Employment Security Commission has considered her appeals for unemployment benefits three times, saying in the final decision that the state should not "subsidize" religious beliefs and practices.

Europe Heads Clash On Political Unity

PARIS (UPI)—The chiefs of nine European nations met at the summit today and clashed immediately over whether Europe could become a political union as well as an economic one.

French President Georges Pompidou said political power must remain with national governments. But Dutch Premier Barend Biesheuvel, in what appeared to be a threat to stall economic progress, said The Netherlands would oppose growth in economic unity without growth toward political union.

West German Chancellor Willy Brandt backed up Biesheuvel and said economic and political unity "are closely interrelated."

"Political coordination of our endeavors...must continue to stay on an intergovernmental level," Pompidou said, ruling out a supranational approach. "Political control must remain in the hands of national parliaments," not the European Parliament.

British Prime Minister Edward Heath, who spoke after Biesheuvel and Pompidou but before Brandt, said "the political development of the community must keep in step with its economic consolidation."

He urged a "gradual evolution" of the European Parliament, without specifying what should be done, and called for "a full study of the subject."

Sicco Mansholt, President of the Common Market, said the summit must say clearly that "all we have built so far and all we shall be building from now on is aimed primarily at the progress of our community toward equitable union of our countries."

In the meantime, he said, the Common Market could recapture European imagination by eliminating customs checks at borders, framing a social policy, forging a common educational policy and taking other steps affecting daily life in Europe.

Expansion Of Plan Commission Viewed

The Larkspur City Council last night asked the city planning commission whether it wants to be expanded to seven members.

Four of the five commissioners met jointly with the council on a number of issues, including the commission's heavy workload since the recent collapse of the architectural review committee which had handled numerous minor chores.

Councilman Joan Sestak proposed increasing the planning commission from five to seven members. She said the commission's recent meetings have been attended by only three members "and it takes three to rezone" property in the city. A larger commission could use subcommittees to review the city's "faulty ordinances," she also suggested.

Mrs. Sestak noted that seven of the 10 city planning commissions in the county have seven members.

Planning Commission Chairman Otto Hoefler said the commission would consider the expansion and make a recommendation soon.

The Larkspur City Council Also:

POSTPONED — Put over to Nov. 1, discussions of a grading plan and bicycle path on the Vincilione property along Magnolia Avenue; proposed rezonings of two parcels on the San Quentin Peninsula, and rezoning of numerous parcels along Magnolia Avenue from apartment zoning to a study zone.

COMPLAINT — Referred to the city staff for investigation, a letter from a college co-ed complaining that she had been overcharged as a tenant of a "bootleg" apartment in a single-family residential area.

CLOSED SESSION — Met to discuss procedures for interviewing applicants for the city attorney's post. (The Brown Act on antisecrecy in government provides for closed meetings to discuss hiring or firing of specific individuals, but not for nonpublic duscussions of hiring procedures.)

CITY MANAGER — Asked City Mgr. Kent Bathurst to meet with the council Tuesday to discuss operating procedures in his office.

ADJOURNED — To 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bridge Panel Would Move Parking Lot

A committee of Golden Gate Bridge District directors yesterday recommended spending almost $55,000 over the next three years to move the downtown San Francisco bus parking lot five blocks closer to the financial district.

The new lot will cut the cost of getting evening commuter coaches through traffic to the downtown stops, traffic which also fouls up scheduling, the district's staff said.

The current lot at Third and Perry Streets is leased from the state at $1,800 a month. The new lot, at Main and Folsom streets, also owned by the state, would cost $2,235 a month.

Paving the new lot and installing utilities and portable toilets for the drivers would cost about $39,000, the staff estimated.

The unanimous recommendation of the building and operating committee will go to the full board on Oct. 27.

A San Rafael man has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on four felony counts of burglarizing San Rafael residences.

Judge David R. Baty ordered Richard A. Hickox to appear in the higher court Wednesday, but continued to today a hearing on codefendant Deborah Bronson, 17, of San Rafael for a prosecution motion to force her to provide handwriting samples.

Miss Bronson, whose case was rejected as unfit for juvenile court, is charged with burglary, forging a signature to use a credit card taken in the breakin and forging a check taken from the house of Dr. Thomas Zavattero at 323 Prospect Drive, San Rafael.

Hickox is charged with the Zavattero burglary on July 25 and three others July 16, 21, and 25.

The 1973 Vega Hatchback GT Coupe.

Vega is the kind of car that responds with perceptible enthusiasm whenever you nudge the accelerator, turn the wheel, or step on the brakes.

Vega enjoys being driven.

Therefore you'll enjoy driving Vega. Not just back and forth to work, but even on weekend and vacation trips. Even on turnpikes, winding backroads, around sharp bends, up and down hills. Wheeeeeeee.

Vega's low wide stance and independent front suspension help it hug the road and stay relatively flat on turns.

Vega's sizeable-though-economical overhead cam engine makes for respectable acceleration and easy cruising.

Vega has 10-inch front disc brakes, big coil springs at all four wheels, and a matched pair of comfortable front bucket seats to slip into. All standard, mind you, on even the most inexpensive Vega.

Some Confusion Over Exact Voter Turnout

Eighty-three per cent of Marin's 126,928 registered voters will ballot on election day next month — including some who mistakenly believe they are registered, County Elections Officer Peter C. Meyer predicted.

The actual turnout probably will be about 93 per cent because roughly 10 per cent of the total registered are usually found after elections to have already moved out of the county, he said.

Meyer reported that two types of errors resulted in giving some citizens the impression that they have registered, since the June primary, when in fact the elections office has too little or no information to prepare ballots for them.

Twenty-nine citizens, he said, failed to give their addresses on registration affidavits. His office has exhausted every means to find these persons, Meyer added. Their names appear below.

He urged these persons to contact his office in the Civic Center so an effort can be made to qualify them for the election. "We will determine in each case what happened," he said of their incomplete affidavits.

The other category of lost voters consists of those who registered in affidavit books that deputy registrars failed to return to the elections office. Some of the deputies went away on vacation before returning the books, and some could not be found, Meyer explained.

Each book has room for 50 persons to register, but Meyer speculated that only one or two were in each of the 11 missing books. Registrars who get a lot of affidavits inevitably turn their books because they are proud of their work, he noted.

The only way a potential voter can tell if his name is in one of the missing books, however, is if he still has his registration stub, which has a number corresponding to the range of the numbers in the missing books. The range of numbers in each is listed below. Anyone with a number in this range should call his office, Meyer said.

Citing a third problem, he discounted what he said was a "story in West Marin" that voters with incomplete addresses would not be allowed to ballot. Anyone can ballot "if the Post Office is able to deliver their sample ballot," he said.

As an example of an incomplete address, Meyer cited the name of a registered voter whose only address was "Bolinas, Calif."

Meyer cautioned that the penalty for vote fraud is a maximum fine of $1,000 and five years in prison.

The 29 citizens without addresses on their registration affidavits are:

Denis Carter, William E. Dupuy, Ed A. Edwards, Linda Ellinwood, Leslie B. Estabrook, Arnold Joseph Gallegos, Russel Guyon Grattan, Julie Graef, Marguerite H. Holmes, Paul R. Hutchings Jr., William M. Langley, Robert James Lawson, Steven A. Loomis, Thomas A. Matulis, June Elizabeth Muzzy.

James Hollis Nelson, Linda Marie Nelson, Richard W. Nickerson, Patrick A. Pattison, Cheryl Penney, Eugene B. Perry, David Rague, John E. Robitsch, Gerald Rook, Francine C. Rudolph, Jack Shorr, Richard A. Smith, Mary L. Updegraff, Robert Valadez.

The missing registration books have the following ranges of numbers: 550826 - 550875; 566376 - 566425; 567326 - 567375; 570726 - 570775; 571326 - 571375; 574626 - 574675; 576876 - 576925; 593276 - 593325; 598926 - 598975; 601676 - 601725; 621576 - 621625.

14 Treated At College Clinic

In its first office hours Tuesday night the College of Marin's new veneral disease clinic treated 14 patients, a college spokesman reported today.

Medical and volunteer staff were pleased at the initial response, the spokesman said, and predictions of 20 patients a week may prove low.

The free clinic, open to all members of the public, is at office center room 118 at College of Marin on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock.

Setback Variance Is Granted

Attorney James Michael has been granted a setback variance to build the loftiest house in Tiburon.

At a meeting Monday night, the Tiburon Board of Adjustments granted Michael's request for a renewal of a variance for his property on Sugarloaf Drive.

Michael's revised building plans now call for a smaller house on Tiburon's highest building site to be built within cine feet of the property line.

His plans will be reviewed by the board of design.

The board granted a use permit to Marshall B. Figari to pasture a horse at 40 Del Mar Drive.

Car Runs Off Road Into Petaluma River

A car tumbled into the Petaluma River at 7:40 a.m. yesterday after an oncoming car forced it off Petaluma Boulevard South near the Highway 101 overpass.

George Lucas, 36, of 958 Chieno Valley Road, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for face cuts and bruises. Hospital officials said Lucas was able to scramble out of the partially submerged car and was waiting on the river bank when police arrived.

Mailliard, Boas Get Funds From Same Major Law Firm

Five candidates on the November ballot filed required statements by yesterday's deadline detailing campaign contributions of $500 or more.

Complete statements will be due after the election.

Both Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, and his Democratic challenger, San Francisco Supervisor Roger Boas, reported contributions from the same major San Francisco law firm, Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro, with Mailliard getting $2,500 and Boas $2,000.

Reports also were filed by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, Michael R. Peevery and the Marin County Citizens for Fluoridation, which reported a $3,000 contribution from the Marin County Dental Society toward passage of Measure A.

Bagley reported an $800 contribution from the California Teamsters Legislative Council in San Francisco. Peevey, candidate in the Fourth Supervisorial District, reported, as he did in a voluntary statement last week, a $700 contribution of his own cash to his campaign plus a $4,000 bank loan.

Boas reported 20 contributions of $500 or more totaling $41,958, including $25,000 he borrowed himself. This is the maximum federal law allows candidates for federal office to spend themselves.

Mailliard reported 15 contributions of $500 or more totaling $21,350.

The largest single contribution Boas reported was $2,958 from the Business Executives Movement for a Vietnam Peace, based in Washington, D.C. Two contributions were listed by Marinites, $1,000 by William M. Roth of Ross and $500 by Proctor P. Jones of Stinson Beach.

Boas also reported a $750 contribution by Albert D. Elledge, who was identified as a San Francisco attorney. Elledge, a resident of Sonoma, as president of Harbor Carriers, objected to a $16.4 million federal grant to the Golden Gate Bridge District for ferryboats.

The largest single contribution reported by Mailliard was $3,850 by Christian de Guigne, identified as chairman of the board of Stauffer Chemical Co. The congressman also reported a $500 contribution from a San Francisco attorney who is a member of the firm of Pillsbury, Madison and Sutro.

Improvement Club Endorses Measure A

The Almonte Improvement Club last night endorsed measure A on the Nov. 7 ballot, a proposal to establish a regional park district in Marin.

The district would have the authority to levy property taxes for the acquisition of undeveloped land in the county.

Fire Pact For Hospital Is Approved

Kentfield Fire District directors last night approved a $9,455 annual contract for providing fire protection services to Marin General Hospital each year.

Chief Kenneth Kamp said the board signed a contract which now will go to Marin Hospital District directors for their consent.

Until this fall, Marin General Hospital had received fire protection from Kentfield for a nominal $1 a year.

The fire district originally asked for a $10,059 contract last month, but hospital district board members instructed administrator Ray K. Bolinger and its fire protection committee to continue negotiations.

Chief Kamp said the contract is retroactive to Sept. 1, and the hospital will make its payments monthly.

Warrant Issued In Concealment, Theft Case

A no-bail warrant has been issued for the arrest of a German national said by police to have been dealing exclusively in stolen Mercedes-Benz cars.

Judge David R. Baty ordered the warrant Tuesday after Steven Wolfgang Weigand, 29, of Pantaschow, Germany, failed to appear for a preliminary hearing on charges of auto theft, grand theft of a car and concealing stolen property.

San Rafael police arrested him July 17 after a Novato man asked them if a newspaper advertisement for a 1971 Mercedes offered at $1,000 less than the list price was legitimate.

The man arranged to meet Weigand, who gave his name as Ernst Miller, in San Rafael and police made the arrest.

WORD-A-DAY

Three Of Four Health Forum Speakers Absent

The first Marin Legislative Health Forum, which attracted about 350 persons from virtually all segments of the health field, turned into a minor disaster last night when three of four scheduled speakers did not appear.

Missing from the podium at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael were Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District; State Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, and Sen. John V. Tunney, R-Calif.

Only San Francisco Supervisor Roger Boas, Mailliard's opponent in the Nov. 7 election, appeared as scheduled.

(Mailliard had gone to Washington to help override presidential veto of a $24 billion water pollution bill.)

Out of what was left of the ambitious program termed the "first such ecumenical meeting in the Bay Area," came a marked lack of agreement on whether health needs of the public are being met or not.

Boas said people in this country now have a life expectancy five years less than people in many other industrial nations.

These statements were countered later in remarks by a physician, Dr. David Costanza, who said he thought Marin and San Francisco's health care compared favorably with any country in the world. It is in places like Appalachia, he said, where there are problems.

"The Duke of Windsor came here many years ago for gall bladder surgery," Costanza said in defense of American medicine.

Boas said that Medicare and Medi-Cal are not filling all the needs of the people using them and that he favors national health insurance as well as no-fault insurance.

He said there is a "malaise about government" and that people feel it is not responsive to people. "Nowhere is this greater than in the health field," he said.

One of the speakers who filled in for the absent legislators, Sausalito pharmacist Frederick S. Mayer, who spoke for Mailliard, complained of the time he spends filling out governmental forms as well as a lack of general practice physicians.

"We've got more psychiatrists per resident in Sausalito than at Napa State Hospital," he said, but, he claimed, it's hard to find a "primary care physician" in the town.

Another speaker, psychiatrist Martin G. Blinder, who said he couldn't speak for Tunney whose place he took, said that "doctors are going to have to turn in their Mercedes (cars) for Volkswagens."

At the end of the program, a chiropractor, podiatrist and optometrist each indicated his profession wanted a bigger cut of the national research scene. A nurse, Juliette Quinn, said nursing care in homes for the aged is often inadequate, and a dentist, Robert Hedquest, advocated fluoridation in Marin.

School Chief Will Not Leave Berkeley

BERKELEY (AP) — Dr. Richard L. Foster, the 54-year-old school superintendent who gained a national reputation as an early champion of school desegregation, has reversed a six-month-old decision to resign.

Dr. Foster told Berkeley school board members he decided to remain because his resignation would do nothing to eliminate factions which have split the board.

(Foster is former Marin County schools superintendent.)

" . . . It's obvious the board is not going to come together, so we will just have to live with certain divisions," he said.

Foster took the job in September 1968, just weeks after Berkeley became the first U.S. city of more than 100,000 population to integrate its schools completely.

Last April he abruptly announced he was giving up the $33,000 post next June because of repeated attacks by board critics.

At a meeting late Tuesday night, however, Foster reversed his decision following an appeal by three board members.

"A substantial segment of the community across all lines has indicated to me it is in total support of Dr. Foster," said board member Mary Jane Johnson.

After huddling with aides, Foster agreed to stay on.

Louise Stol, one of Foster's critics on the board, said her position remained the same.

"Nothing has changed in six months. I have lost confidence in the superintendent's leadership . . . it is difficult to get information from him. Board policy is not carried out," she said.

Mrs. Stoll was joined by board president Marc Monheimer in unsuccessfully opposing a motion to increase Foster's salary by $1,600 per year.

The National Wildlife Federation has proposed a ban on lead shot for waterfowl hunting throughout the United States by 1973.

$60,000 Asked On Cat Nabbing

Cat nabbing isn't nearly the criminal offense that horse stealing used to be, but it will cost a former landlord $60,000 if a San Anselmo woman has her way.

Julie Domac, 21, filed suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court against Steele Holman of San Rafael, her former landlord, saying he took her four-month-old calico cat from her apartment at 17 Warner Court, San Rafael, Sept., 3 or 4 and converted it to his own use."

Miss Domac has since moved to 204 Los Angeles Boulevard in San Anselmo, according to her attorney, Dann J. Meehan of San Rafael.

The suit admits, "this property had no market value but had a special value in that plaintiff had great love and affection for the described animal, whose loss deprives the plaintiff of both an adoring pet and a companion."

The suit asks $15,000 for "deprivation," $15,000 for punitive damages for alleged malice, $15,000 for causing her "great mental suffering and emotional distress" and a final $15,000 for punitive damages for maliciously causing the distress.

The suit claims that after the pet, named Hey Come Here, disappeared, Miss Domac "experienced fits of hysteria, became extremely nervous and suffered a recurrence of a skin disease with the result that her body and face broke out in painful and unattractive sores and blisters."

Final Test For Apollo Moonship

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—Engineers put the Apollo 17 moonship through its last complete electrical test today in a major step toward its night launch to the moon Dec. 6.

Apollo 17 is the final expedition in the nation's moon landing program. It will be flown by Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Dr. Harrison H. "Jack" Schmitt, a geologist.

Today's exercise, called a flight readiness test, was destined to give flight systems aboard the spacecraft modules a thorough checkout to make sure they are ready for flight. Key parts of the 13-day mission were being simulated electronically to test the spacecraft's response.

Burglary Confession Results In Arrest

A San Rafael man was arrested yesterday by San Rafael police after telling officers that he, and not an acquaintance, was responsible for the burglary of a San Rafael residence.

Police promptly released the acquaintance, Donald William Clausen, 23, of 171 Novato Street, San Rafael, and arrested Leonard Porter, 20, of 313 Irwin Street, on suspicion of burglary.

Porter was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $500 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, Clausen was arrested yesterday on suspicion of concealing stolen property after he reportedly tried to sell to a San Rafael couple a television set taken from the home on Tuesday.

Police released Clausen and arrested Porter after Porter said he had sold the set to Clausen, according to police. The television was part of household goods valued at $2,291 taken from the residence of Mari Grange, 189 Novato Street, police said.

Clear Weather Aids Boggs Rescue Search

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) —More than 70 planes and a ground rescue team tooc advantage of clearing weather to resume the search at dawn today for Democratic House leader Hale Boggs and three others missing since Monday in a downed plane.

Two Coast Guard radio-equipped C130 rescue planes and four Coast Guard cutters searched the area from Anchorage to Juneau all night for any trace of the twin-engine Cessna 310 which vanished withBoggs, Alaska congressman Nick Begich, Begich's aide Russell Brown and pilot Don E. Jonz.

The Air Force said 73 planes would search for 50 miles on each side of the plane's flight path today, while the ships would continue to cruise among the many uninhabited islands along the coastline of Alaska's southern peninsula.

An 11-man ground search party was searching the rugged Portage Pass near Anchorage for the missing plane.

The weather in southern Alaska was the best since the search began, with scattered clouds predicted.

Ships and planes also checked out reports by ham radio operators who said they spoke with the pilot of an aircraft which had smashed on a beach near Juneau. But Sgt. John Engel, public relations officer at Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, said the reports "just didn't jell with what we had."

He noted that the missing plane did not have a radio which could operate on the citizens' band frequency on which the amateur operators heard the distress calls.

Nonetheless, he said, searchers "spent a good deal of time" checking out the area but found no trace of a disabled plane.

While the massive air and sea sweep went on in clearing weather, an Army rescue team hiked into rugged Portage Pass to begin the first ground search for the missing plane.

A fleet of military and civilian aircraft and four Coast Guard cutters have criss-scrossed more than 15,000 square miles of territory without a sign of the plane, the Air Force spokesman said.

At least one C130 Hercules transport filled with electronic gear was aloft day and night in the hope of picking up some signal. Two more of the four-engine C130s—one from Hamilton AFB, Calif., the other from Pease AFB, N.H.—joined the searching planes Wednesday.

Weathermen predicted a lessening of snow, rain and cloud today and "we are planning on getting in the air everything that we can to make a visual search of areas where we haven't been able to get in before," the spokesman said.

Temperatures during the night have been slightly above freezing, he said, and "we've found people in good shape even weeks after they've been missing."

Four ham radio operators in the northern California community of Nevada City said they picked up distress calls transmitted over an emergency channel. Police Chief James Moon said at the request of Alaska authorities he checked the operators and he found all were respectable citizens who would not fabricate the reports.

Al Miller, a retired painting contractor, said he picked up a radio report: "I'm out of gas. I'm head down. This is it."

"He had eight minutes of gas," Miller said. "He could not make the hump because of the storm and had 70 miles per hour headwinds and couldn't get into Juneau."

Miller said that during intermittent, broken radio transmissions the pilot identified his aircraft as a twin-engine Cessna 310 and its registration number was "N and a 1 and a 2." The Air Force said the twin engine Cessna carrying Boggs was N1812H.

Roy Harris, another citizens band radio operator, said he also monitored the conversation and heard the pilot broadcast part of the plane's identification number.

Underground Pipelines Said Lost

OAKLAND (AP) — Up to 10,000 miles of California's underground petroleum pipelines may in effect be lost, says an official of the State Water Resources Control Board.

"It's almost impossible to get a network chart showing where all the pipelines are," said Pete Rogers yesterday. "I'm not even sure the companies know where their own pipelines are."

Rogers, an executive assistant to the board, joined Colin Garrity, assistant chief gas engineer for the state Public Utilities Commission, in an appearance before the Assembly Committee on Environmental Quality.

Garrity told the committee there are 66,000 miles of underground natural gas lines in the state. Rogers said the liquid petroleum lines would at least equal the figure for natural gas lines and could run as high as 100,000 miles.

"There are no accurate figures available," Rogers admitted, "but I would estimate only about 75 per cent of underground pipelines are on maps of any kind."

He said the location of up to 10 per cent of the underground petroleum lines is completely unknown.

Noting that many liquid fuel pipelines are 60 to 70 years old and long since abandoned, Rogers added:

"One illustration that nobody knows where a lot of the pipelines are is the number of accidents where a construction crew accidentally cuts into a line. All the maps and charts were studied before the excavation but there are lines that just aren't charted."

Behavior Institute Sets Music Program

Cash Taken From Marinwood Store

A burglar who broke into one Marinwood shop, then cut through two walls to enter another, took $633 from the Bourbon Shop at 197 Marinwood Drive Thursday or Friday, according to sheriff's deputies.

The burglar entered through an air vent at a nearby beauty parlor, then drilled through the walls of a vacant store between the parlor and the liquor store between 10 p.m. Thursday and 12:54 a.m. Friday.

The money was taken from a desk drawer, deputies said.

Bales Softens Position On Plea Bargaining

By LARRY MOWELL

Marin's district attorney, who has professed to be a hardened foe of plea bargaining, softened his position before a luncheon gathering in San Rafael yesterday.

Bruce B. Bales supported the theoretical justifications given by the U.S. Supreme Court when it ordered bargaining in federal courts last year and said that in Marin sentence negotiations for first-time offenders usually produce results acceptable to him.

But that was the extent of his approval of the pretrial conference in which the prisoner, his attorney, the judge and the prosecutor discuss the case and reach an agreement on what the sentence will be if the prisoner chooses to plead guilty and make unnecessary a trial and other time consuming legal steps.

In an address to 26 Marin Court Watchers and officials of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce — sponsor of the group whose members record court results and compile judges' records — Bales said he disagrees with supporters of the time-saving sessions that violent offenders and repeat criminals receive the same sentence from plea bargaining they would after trial.

Whereas a first offender who plea bargains receives about the same sentence as he would after trial, Bales said, "I don't think this is really so in the area of violent crimes and the multiple offender crimes. The bargain is there."

Bales usually recommends prison for kidnappings, robberies, violent rapes and first degree burglaries and in cases where defendants have long felony records. In most of those cases, the defendant receives jail time and probation instead.

"I know state prison versus county jail is a real deterrent," the district attorney said. He added a long jail term is more effective than a short one and any jail time more deterrent than a fine.

"It seems to me that if we made no recommendations at all the sentences would be reduced to the level of the most lenient judge on the bench," he said.

But in defense of negotiating sentences he said local criminals are not allowed to plead guilty to offenses less serious than they committed just to get them off the busy calendar, a common practice, he said, in New York and the Midwest.

Echoing the supreme court, he said plea bargaining cuts the time between crime and sentence, thus increasing the deterrence, and by providing a more rapid disposition, protects the public from criminals on the loose while awaiting trial.

He compared the long wait between crime and judgment to disciplining a child for a wrong done 10 months ago. "It wouldn't make a hell of a lot of sense," he said.

Olema Water Study Report To Be Made

Results of a study on supplying water to Olema and Point Reyes National Seashore will be reported at 8 p.m. today at a public meeting at the park headquarters in Bear Valley by the North Marin County Water District board.

Manager Eugene Churchill said this will be a report on a study ordered on Oct. 19 last year by the Olema Improvement District formed within the North Marin County Water District. The study was expanded to include the Bear Valley headquarters at National Seashore.

The report concluded that the best way to meet the future water needs of the area would be to construct 7,000 feet of four-inch pipe to connect the Olema System to the Point Reyes Station system.

The Olema Water Co., a private company, now supplies service to 30 residents in the Olema area and the Olema campground.

Summer water shortages have plagued the customers, and the residents asked the North Marin Water District, already involved in the water problems of West Marin, to make a study.

Olema Creek could supply the water, but the iron and manganese contents are in excess of the limits set by the public health service, according to the report.

The recommended improvements, including a 100,000-gallon storage tank would cost $136,270. This could be repaid on a 40-year federal housing authority loan at 5 per cent which would cost 85 cents per $100 assessed valuation or a 25 year government obligation bond at 7 per cent at $1.20 per $100.

If the district receives sufficient protest, it can either abandon the project, or order an election to decide on the approval of bond financing for the improvements.

Income Up, Expense Down For Water District

The North Marin County Water District had greater income and less expense last year than was budgeted, it was reported to the board Tuesday night in a review of the books.

The district had an income of $909,385 at the end of fiscal 1971-72 or up $24,591. Its total operating expenses were $599,278 which was $7,087 less than the $606,366 budgeted.

The district had an inventory of $11,905,910 in plants and equipment.

North Marin County Water Board Also:

CONTRACTS — Awarded a $12,673 contract to Empire Tractor Co. of Santa Rosa, lowest of two bidders, for a backhoe, and a $4,005 contract to I-R Equipment Co. of Oakland, the only qualified bidder, for an air compressor.

SITE — Heard a report from Mgr. Eugene Churchill that the district is nearing completion in negotiations with Harold Genazzi for a site south of Point Reyes Station for its sewage disposal plant. He also reported that the environmental impact report would be completed soon.

SEWAGE — Approved purchase of a $1,300 laboratory sewage electronic sampler.

GRAZING — Renewed for three years, the grazing rights on district land to George Grossi for $892 per year and to Clarence Leveroni for $120 per yaar.

LAKE — Heard a report that recent rains have raised the level of Stafford Lake by eight inches or 250 acre-feet. The lake now has 1,700-acre feet of water while its capacity when full is 4,500-acre feet.

Galleries Combine In College Exhibit

Three San Francisco art galleries are cooperating in a painting exhibit now hung at the College of Marin Art Gallery in the fine arts building until No. 10.

The galleries are Quay, William Sawyer and Vorpal, and paintings by 24 artists are represented. The exhibit is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and 6:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Fridays.

Mrs. McGovern Is Ill Again

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Eleanor McGovern, hospitalized for four days last week, became ill again Wednesday night and canceled plans to resume campaigning with her husband.

Mrs. McGovern remained here overnight while Sen. George McGovern continued on his campaign tour to Toledo, Ohio. Campaign aides said Mrs. McGovern was suffering from a headache and was feeling tired. She was to return to Washington today.

Drug Center Ordered In Pot Case

A 24-year-old San Francisco man returned from the California Rehabilitation Center to Marin after marijuana was found under his bunk has been sent to a San Francisco drug rehabilitation center.

Calling it "the best drug program that I know of around here," Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court ordered Paul Kenneth McSweeney to enroll in the 18-month program of the DeLancey Street foundation. McSweeney had agreed to enter the voluntary program in lieu of jail.

Gardiner also placed him on probation for three years and ordered him to undergo testing for drug use.

McSweeney was sentenced to the state drug treatment facility in March for robbing a pregnant woman in Corte Madera Jan. 18, but he was rejected this month after 19 pot cigarettes were found in a violin case under his bed.

Three Killed In Peat Bog Blaze

MOSCOW (UPI)—Three Red Army soldiers died fighting a peat bog fire near Moscow in late August, the Communist party newspaper Pravda said today.

The three who died were posthumously honored with the Order of the Red Star.

They were among six soldiers trapped in a firestorm after they sought to save tractors. The others survived.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

NUMBERS GAME? Yes, you can win easily. Just fit these figures to the famous folks below and you've guessed their ages today: 38, 40, 50 and 73.

1. LLOYD HAYNES, handsome black TV star, is the kids' favorite teacher in "Room 222." He plays the part of Pete Dixon, Whitman high school's trouble shooter. Haynes is a regular guy in real life, too, a licensed pilot who flies his own single-engine Bellanca. So studio work doesn't keep him grounded in Southern California. Last winter he took off for Aspen, Colo., just to pursue his favorite sport, skiing. He was born in South Bend, Ind.

2. JACK ANDERSON, syndicated columnist, is another year older today. The protege of Drew Pearson, he carries on the tradition of exposing graft and corruption in government and is read by 40 million every day. This fearless muckraker was born in Long Beach, Calif. and got his start in chasing after facts as a reporter for the Salt Lake City Tribune. A strict Mormon, he neither smokes nor drinks and goes to church twice on Sunday.

3. ROBERT REED, dad to "The Brady Bunch" on the ABC-TV series, grew up on a ranch in Oklahoma. But did Hollywood cast him as a cowboy? No, because he plays that role on "Mannix," too. Reed is an only child, and the father of an only child. On TV, he has six! He lives in Pasadena.

4. JED HARRIS, Broadway's boy wonder of the 1920s and 30s, earned a reputation and a fortune as a producer and director of hit plays. His credits include "Coquette," "The front Page," and "Our Town." His bank account took in more than $35 million from these successes.

ANSWERS

1. Haynes is 38;
2. Anderson, 50;
3. Reed, 40;
4. Harris, 73.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Ducking Is Simple, But The Time Is Most Important Part

Ducking at bridge may help you keep the dangerous opponent out of the lead. The method is very simple: You play a low card instead of winning the trick, but you must choose the right way to do this simple thing.

Both sides vulnerable

NORTH
♠ 8 2
♡ A K 6 4
◇ 8 7 4 2
♣ A Q 5

WEST
♠ K J 9 6 3
♡ J 10 8
◇ J 10 5
♣ 7 4

EAST
♠ Q 7 4
♡ Q 9 3
◇ Q 6
♣ 9 8 6 3 2

SOUTH
♠ A 10 5
♡ 7 5 2
◇ A K 9 3
♣ K J 10

South	West	North	East
1 ◇	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ 6

REFUSE TRICKS

West opens the six of spades and East plays the queen. You refuse the first and second spade tricks, holding up your ace until East plays his last spade.

You have eight tricks in top cards and your problem is to develop an extra heart or an extra diamond without allowing West, the dangerous opponent, to gain the lead. You plan to duck a trick to East, the safe opponent.

Diamonds are your main hope, but you must reach dummy to lead diamonds through East. If you lead a low diamond from your hand, West will win the trick; and if you lead a high diamond from your hand, East will get rid of his queen of diamonds like a hot potato.

LEAD A HEART

You lead a heart to dummy's king and return a low diamond. If East plays the queen, you are ready to duck — allowing East to win with his queen. Assume that East plays low; you win with the ace of diamonds.

Now you get back to dummy with a club and lead another diamond through East. This time East is obliged to play his queen. You play low from your hand, allowing East to win the trick.

PLAN OF ACTION

The idea is to give up one diamond trick, but to make sure to give it up to the safe opponent. This puts you in position to take the next diamond with the king, after which your last diamond will be good for your ninth trick.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♥ - K J 9 6 3
♠ - J 10 8
♦ - J 10 5
♣ - 7 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades.

Despite the magnificent trump support, the hand is not strong enough for a jump to four spades.

Boy Charged In Sister's Death

BARRINGTON, Ill. (UPI)— James Gallagher, 12, the son of a wealthy Bell & Howell executive, was charged Tuesday with involuntary manslaughter and reckless conduct in connection with the fatal shooting of his 19-year-old sister.

Eileen Gallagher, a student at Harper Community College, Palatine, was found shot to death Monday in the master bedroom of her family's $80,000 mansion. The bedroom featured a display case of guns assembled by the youngsters' father, John A. Gallagher, gun collector.

Sheriff Orville Clavy said the boy broke down during questioning "and orally admitted to me he killed the girl."

Bagley And Moore Join In Anti-Watson Stance

Incumbent Assemblyman William T. Bagley and his Democratic opponent, Harry J. Moore, today joined in strong opposition to the Watson tax shift initiative but disagreed on other ways to lighten property tax burdens.

In a debate on station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" Moore said Proposition 14 would "wreak havoc with most Marin County school districts" and Bagley said it would lead to "anarchy in the state."

Bagley, a Republican from San Rafael, further called the proposition a "boondoggle for businessmen." He said homeowners, who would pay less property taxes but more sales taxes if Proposition 14 passes, would come out about even.

Renters would gain no relief, he said, but would pay about $300 million more in sales tax. The only beneficiaries, according to Bagley, would be those who own business and commercial property (far the greater percentage of the parcels in the state) who would pay some more sales tax but would stand to gain $1 billion.

Bagley and Moore, who will vie on the Nov. 7 ballot, agreed that welfare and school costs must be shifted more toward the state and away from the local property owner but disagreed on the methods to be used.

Moore, a Novato junior high school principal, called for an additional 1 per cent sales tax to be distributed to needy school districts throughout the state.

Bagley, tax expert in the Assembly, said it would not be "arithmetically possible" to finance such items as schools or welfare from a set source.

He said revenues and needs would not fluctuate at the same rate.

Bagley described himself as a "catalyst" in state government who has been instrumental in bringing about tax and welfare reforms.

"The public has given us a forced marriage between a Republican administration and a Democratic Legislature. Sometimes the public expects a love child from that forced marriage," the assemblyman said.

Although "progress in democracy is slow. . . the future is not as bleak as it sounds," he said. The combination of the new withholding tax, welfare reforms and an improvement in the state's economy had caused the "state to be in good shape."

Since the state now is faced with a surplus instead of a deficit as in past years, Bagley said he was confident government could find ways to shift more of the welfare burden to the state as well as to bring about equality in school districts.

As for "busing," both men said they did not favor a proposition on the ballot which would halt such transfers of children, but they considered the measure a last resort to achieve integration.

Moore thought that "using our children to desegreate" society should be the last possible way and Bagley said that real solutions lie in fair employment and housing and better education.

"The political problem is that the same people who oppose busing also oppose efforts to bring society together," Bagley said.

As for other propositions on the November ballot, the two men found agreement on rights for women and the local school board proposal but had opposing views on the death penalty and obscenity proposals.

"I don't think the state should become involved in the business of killing people," Moore said in opposition to reinstatement of the death penalty.

Bagley, however, said he viewed the death penalty with "mixed emotions." "As societies mature, the punishments lessen," he said. Eventually the death penalty will disappear, Bagley said, but he implied he didn't know whether California is mature enough yet and wants a legislative decision on the matter rather than leaving it to the courts.

Moore said the obscenity matter is a "chaotic area" in which "people don't know what is obscenity." For this reason he favored Proposition 18, in grder "that this can be sifted through the courts again."

Bagley said the measure, "if applied literally, would be complete censorship" and cause "unbelievable confusion."

They both said they favored Proposition 5, but said it did not bring that much more independence to local school boards.

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

Proposition B Endorsed By Health Council

The Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County yesterday endorsed Proposition B, the measure to provide fluoridation in the water supply.

The vote was unanimous, according to council president Michael Harris.

He said members had been presented with material both for and against the measure and decided that it was a positive step toward present and future health of Marin citizens.

The Council also elected Mrs. Judy Horne of Corte Madera to the board of directors and decided to make a comprehensive study of health facilities and health needs in Marin.

Dr. Harris said he and his colleagues feel they cannot make recommendations on any health programs or revisions until the present status of health in the county is assessed. Procedural plans for such a study will be discussed at the next meeting Nov. 15.

20-Mile Walk Set For Oct. 28

A 20-mile Walk for Development sponsored by the American Freedom from Hunger Foundation will take place on Saturday, Oct. 28, not yesterday, as reported in the Independent-Journal of Oct. 11.

Two thousand walkers are expected to take part in the walk which will begin at the College of Marin's gymnasium parking lot at 8 a.m., according to coordinator Leslie Lind.

The route will wind through Greenbrae, San e,Rafael, San Anselmo and Ross before returning to the college, and is one of 10 such events planned for that day around the Bay Area.

Mileage cards for sponsored walkers are available at the foundation's office at 819 A Street, San Rafael.

Hiring Of Minorities Said Slow

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A report says the state's two-year community colleges are making progress in enrollment of students from minority groups but are lagging in employment of minority teachers, staff workers and administrators.

Commenting on the report at a meeting of the Community College Board of Governors yesterday, board president James C. Dodd said the two-year schools have achieved "good balance" in the ethnic make-up of their student bodies.

The report said minority groups, which represent 28.9 per cent of the population available for college, make up 22.7 per cent of the enrollment at California's 68 community colleges.

Of the colleges' 37,793 employees, the report said 4,832, or 12.8 per cent, are from ethnic minorities. That represents only a slight improvement from the 1970 figure of 12.5 per cent, the report said.

In a report to the Marin Community College District board on Oct. 4 Supt. President John A. Grasham said the district employed 11.9 per cent minority staff in the 1971-72 school year.

He said minority students were enrolled in similar proportions to community representation, but district publicist Earlene Jones said today the college doesn't have exact figures on how many minority students there are this year.

In October 1971 there were 101 minority students enrolled in vocational education programs at College of Marin, out of a total of 1,623 students.

Trail Use Proposal Meets Objections

A proposal that West Marin's fire roads be used as motorcycle trails received a lukewarm greeting yesterday from the Marin County Park and Recreation Commission.

Gerald M. Diaz, chairman of the county's ad hoc motorcycle committee, also told the commission it should consider off-road vehicle trails when planning and developing public recreational areas.

His comments summarized a proposed policy statement drafted last month by the motorcycle committee, which was appointed in 1971 by the Marin Board of Supervisors to aid in developing motorcycle recreational areas.

Diaz urged the riding areas be established where motorcycles would have a minimum effect on the land and community. He suggested a system of trails in West Marin, using the county's network of fire roads.

Several commissioners objected to using public open space and recreational areas for motorcycles, which they claimed would be incompatible with the quiet atmosphere desired in those areas.

Pierre W. Joske, director of parks and recreation, and his assistant, Donald Rolph, noted that miles of fire road exist in West Marin which possibly could be used for motorcycle trails.

Joske noted, however, most of the fire roads are on private land with access restricted to fire fighting equipment.

Commission Chairman Albert J. Boro said he considered the proposal sketchy and urged the motorcycle committee to develop more specific details on trail locations and costs.

In other action yesterday, the commission authorized release of $2,135 to Sleepy Hollow Homes Association for community landscaping and improvements to the Sleepy Hollow School baseball diamond.

Make Mine Shubat —A Wondrous Drink

MOSCOW (UPI)—A wondrous drink made according to a recipe of ancient Asian nomads from the milk of Kazakhstan's two-humped camels is all the rage in Alma Ata.

Known as "Shubat," the drink "slakes thirst, relieves fatigue, is used by popular medicine as a tonic, and is superior to cow's milk for its nutrient value," the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

North Vietnam Health Care Called Superb

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A California physician, returning from a trip to North Vietnam, says the health care delivery system in that nation is "superb."

Dr. George J. Roth told a news conference Wednesday that he "found the level of health care delivery to be superb."

"In that country, the emphasis is on prevention and prophylaxis, compared to medicine here which concerns itself more with curing," Roth said.

He was in North Vietnam with three other doctors from Oct. 7 to Oct. 14.

U.C. Enrollment At A New High

BERKELEY (AP) — More students than ever are enrolled at the University of California's nine campuses, UC officials report.

Fall registration figures released Wednesday place the record enrollment high at 113,427 students — 4,323 more than last year's enrollment and 34,000 higher than the state Department of Finance projected in its budget recommendations for the university.

A record 28,138 freshmen and transfer students enrolled. The overall 13.4 per cent growth consisted mostly of undergraduates with graduate enrollment up by only 325.

Shockley Heredity Plea Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The National Academy of Sciences rejected Tuesday a motion by Nobel laureate William Shockley that it act to resolve his theory that Negroes, by reasons of heredity, are intellectually inferior to whites.

The academy, at its fall meeting, also urged that religion be kept out of public school science textbooks.

Shockley, co-inventor of the transistor and professor of engineering science at Stanford University, has been trying since 1966 to get the academy to tackle his theory that the Negro race is inferior to the white race in intelligence because of heredity.

He has said his research "led me inescapably to the opinion that the social and intellectual disadvantages of American Negroes arise primarily from genetic causes."

But in his formal resolutions, he has avoided mention of race, asking the academy only to check his contention that heredity "dominates environment" in determining I.Q. (intelligence) "with a strength of more than two to one."

At Tuesday's private business session, academy president Philip Handler reported that a committee is now organizing a one-day seminar on "behavioral genetics" by experts in the field.

In view of that, academy members present voted by a show of hands to table Shockley's motion. Shockley afterward estimated the vote at 21 to 6 with half the members present.

Handler said recently that academy members, in view of past rejections of Shockley's motions, "simply refuse to be used for his purpose."

Shockley said after Tuesday's action that "If the National Academy of Sciences members had taken these problems as seriously as they deserved, the nation could have had an answer at least 18 months ago."

At a private business session the academy members took note of a vote coming up Nov. 9 in the California state Board of Education.

The issue is whether to require that school science textbooks give equal weight to both the Darwinian theory of the evolution of species and the theory that living things are the result of "special (divine) creation."

Academy members held that "it is not proper to associate both religious belief and scientific theory in the same context," a spokesman said.

So they adopted a resolution urging that "public school science text be limited to explanation of scientific matter."

Wounded Envoy Back In Paris

PARIS (UPI)—A French government Caravelle carrying Pierre Susini, France's delegate-general to North Vietnam who was wounded in a bombing raid on Hanoi Oct. 11, landed at Orly Airport Tuesday. A helicopter transported Susini directly to a suburban military hospital.

A spokesman at Percy hospital, southwest of Paris, refused to give any details on the 52-year-old diplomat's condition.

Susini was wounded seriously and at least four Vietnamese employes killed when the French mission was wrecked by bombs during a U.S. bombing raid near Hanoi.

Youth Sentenced To Institution

A 19-year-old Southern California youth has been sentenced to the California Youth Authority for kidnaping and robbing a man who gave him a ride, then stealing the driver's car.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner ordered David Wyatt Miley of Venice, Los Angeles County, committed Monday to the state facility for young offenders as part of a plea negotiation.

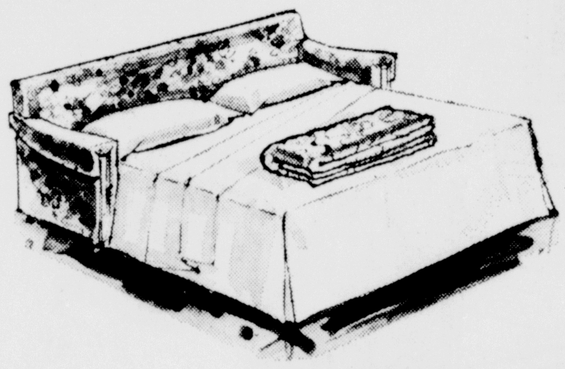

Miley told his probation officer he was high on methadrine when he robbed Terry M. Schenebert, 20, of Petallma outside Novato on July 16.

BONNIE LEMAN, who is the editor of Quilter's Newsletter and the author of several books on quilting, came from Denver to attend the "Patch In Time" exhibit displayed by the Mill Valley Quilting Authority at the Mill Valley Recreation Center last Saturday and Sunday. She is admiring a black and white quilt, called "Photographer's Abstract," made by Margy Rutledge of Mill Valley.

FROM DENVER

Quilt Exhibit Draws An Expert

By BETTY FROST

"Because quiltmaking in California is growing fast and quilt-ers here are so creative," Bonnie Leman, national quilting expert came from Denver to attend the "Patch In Time" exhibit arranged by the Mill Valley Quilting Authority and displayed at the Mill Valley Recreation Center last weekend.

Mrs. Leman is the editor of The Quilter's Newsletter, a monthly magazine with a circulation of over 10,000. It is distributed in all 50 of the states and a number of foreign countries. The editor is also the author of several books on the subject of the growing hobby. The most recent one, "Quick and Easy Quilting" has just been released by Hearthside Press, Inc.

In "Quick and Easy Quilting," Mrs. Leman emphasizes no-frame quilting techniques. Freed from the traditional method of using a large quilt-size stationary frame, quilters can develop individual squares or use quilt-as-you-go techniques.

"Quilt-making is one of the most economic needlecrafts anyone can practice," the Denver woman said. "With an investment of from $4 to $15 even the beginning quilter can make a quilt that is worth $100 or more."

IN EARLY America quilts were made from scraps. "Now that we are recycling everything, why not use scraps for quilts again?" she asked. For the beginner, she suggests cotton prints, suitable for dresses, and purchasing quilt batting in either cotton or dacron. Synthetic fabrics are too hard for beginners, she advised.

Most people work from a pattern. Quilt pattern collecting is a hobby in itself. The Quilter's Newsletter runs a "Pattern Collector's Exchange." Some collectors have accumulated thousands of patterns. It is an interesting sidelight to history, and collectors are trying to preserve some of the old patterns before they are lost.

Quilting, always practiced in this country, has become very popular during the recent revival of interest in handcrafted items. Quilting clubs are being formed everywhere and quilting classes are so crowded that anyone who can teach this skill is in great demand, Mrs. Leman explained.

Quilting bees are a great fund-raising activity for churches and women's organizations throughout the United States. In Goshen, Ind., a group of church women recently raised $30,000 on their quilts, Mrs. Leman said. These events often attract collectors who buy the quilts for resale.

"Many people are interested in quilting because of the sentimental attachment of a special quill made by a grandmother, but they don't think of it as something they can do. Actually anyone can learn to quilt. It is fascinating, relaxing, and even therapeutic," according to Mrs. Leman.

A NATIVE of Misouri, Bonnie Leman has always enjoyed needlework. She is a graduate of Park College in Parkville, Mo., where she majored in home economics. She is the wife of George Leman, a teacher of special education in the Denver School System. Their home is in Wheatridge, Colo., a suburb of Denver. They have seven children, ranging from 17 to 3 years of age.

The busy career woman finds that her own quilting is now confined to what she calls "mini-quilts," made to test new designs and techniques.

Over 2,000 people attended the showing of antique and contemporary quilts and patchwork, arranged by the Mill Valley Quilt Authority last Saturday and Sunday.

Miss 220, Five Feet Five Brought Most Mail Response

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

"Miss 220, Five Feet Five" who wondered why nobody loves a fat girl, got the Aching Feet of the Month award from Norm, our friendly, strong-backed mailman. Amazingly, more than half our correspondents here were male, and the majority insisted they COULD love a fat girl — in fact some already did.

Examples:

RAP:

This letter concerns "Miss 220." I am a 29-year-old man. I eat all I want and stay thin, and I am married to a so-called "Fat Girl" whom I adore!

Not all men love skinnys — it's predictable that you two advise reducing, as you're probably both thin, but a lot of people do look for other things in persons besides their shapes.

I've seen people lose their health from drastic diets — not to speak of their good dispositions. My advice to Miss 220 is this: As long as a woman is neat, cheerful, kind, happy, her shape can be overlooked. When the right man comes along, he won't care how much you weigh. — HAPPILY MARRIED TO A FAT GIRL

HELEN AND SUE:

Maybe it wouldn't be so tough, staying with a diet if everyone didn't ask, "How are you doing with your diet?" "How much weight have you lost?" Then I get dicouraged and start eating. I tried dieting secretly, but people thought I was sick 'cause I didn't eat. Won't you please tell well meaning friends and relatives to keep quiet? — W.O.W.

W.O.W.:

Will do:The best help for dieters is silent reinforcement: like having carrot sticks instead of candy bars handy in the refrigerator. — SUE

RAP:

This is the very first letter I've ever written to a columnist, but I was so moved by Miss 220, Five Feet Five's distress that I had to send her some cheer.

I've always been large — so fat as a baby my mother couldn't carry me. It's true: people raised fat have terrible problems trying to get thin. I tried every kind of diet, probably lost 500 pounds in all, and gained them all back. Finally I decided to eat what I felt I needed for health — and I haven't gained a pound in four years —but I still weigh 210. Luckily, my husband is a great guy who says, "There's just that much more of you to love."

I've made my size pay off. I now design dresses, bridal gowns, etc. for the Size 20-up crowd, and my creations can make heavies look almost slim. It's an art. I'm happy with my career, my marriage —and, finally, my weight. — EMILY

DEAR OVERWEIGHT READERS OF RAP:

The best way to reduce is to join a "reducers club" and there are many in almost every town, from "Overeaters Anonymous" (free, but you can offer contributions if you wish) to T.O.P.S. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly, a dues-paying organization) to Weight Watchers, which charges a fee for each meeting. Also you can go to a health salon where for around $15 a month you get a program of exercises, calorie budgeting, etc.

None of these programs push the "crash diet" which just turns you into a yo-yo, because it doesn't retrain your eating habits. Remember a sedentary 120-pounder should eat no more than 1440 calories a day ((multiply 12 times your ideal weight, which means if you want to maintain at 135, your calorie intake can jump to about 1620 — and you must stick to this the rest of your life.

It isn't easy, but it's rewarding. — A WEIGHT WATCHER

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

PARENT AND CHILD

How Sense Of Feel Helps In Learning

By CYNTIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

As many as two out of every 10 children learn more by feel than they do by sight or sound. And this includes primary pupils learning to read.

Statistically, more little boys than little girls learn kinesthetically. Educators attribute this to the type of play little boys indulge in as different from the talking games of little girls.

A little chap who has manipulated a whole garage full of toy cars, taking ever so many of them apart, and who has been encouraged in the use of tools, often has developed a feel for learning, sometimes called "learning by doing."

Now, when these kinesthetic learners get to school, they often leave behind the world they knew and are expected to learn only by sight and by sound. Yet few make the transition without a mighty struggle. And it need not be.

UNTIL, THOUGH, teachers adapt their techniques to help these children, parents will need to help their own children learn to read.

And this means letting little children write what it is you expect them to read. Tracing is another method for helping kinesthetic learners.

You might write a word with black crayon on a sheet of paper. The word should be written large enough so that your pupil can trace over it with his finger. Since it is the word you are teaching, and not the letters of the alphabet, have the child say the whole word over a couple of times as he traces it with his writing hand.

That is, left handers should trace with the left hand, not the right.

After your pupil traces a word and sounds it out simultaneously, and once you think he knows it well, pave him turn the paper over and write it from memory. It is important that he not do this incorrectly. Hence, you must be right there to watch and if a mistake is coming, stop him from writing, and suggest he trace the word again.

Another good method for helping these children is to have them dictate a simple story to you. Write it down as it is told, only changing it when absolutely necessary to make sense and to have it close to grammatical correctness.

TYPE OR print the story and ask the pupil to read it back to you. Now, while the story is still fresh in thought, have him illustrate the story on a facing page.

If there are some words in the story which the pupil has trouble reading, put them on separate sheets of paper with a wax crayon and have him trace them over and over until he knows the words by feel and sound.

If you will keep these word sheets until you have 20 or 30, you can ask your pupil to pick out some to make his own story. Try not to add more than one or two new words the first time.

Have him arrange the slips of paper with single words on each — already traced and committed to memory — in rows making sentences. Have him copy the story on a separate sheet of paper and illustrate it.

The next step for many children is to type the story themselves.

And, of course, putting a cover on and securing at the edges makes a handy book which can be read to interested adults.

BE SURE you don't try to limit your learner to first- or second-grade words. It may be that the story will have to be about an elephant or the last Olympiad.

It is always well when helping a child learn to read to let him choose the words he wants to learn. The usual vocabulary included in commercial school materials is not very exciting. Of course, all children must learn this basic vocabulary, but a greater variety keeps a pupil's interest.

Very Long Distance Ceremony

DENVER, Colo. — When Stephen White, 21, and Barbara Moran, 18, planned their marriage, Stephen said he'd like his father to perform the ceremony. Trouble was, Rev. Mr. Wallace White was 8,000 miles away in New Guinea.

But that didn't deter a determined bridegroom. He had the phone company install special equipment in the First Church of the Nazarene to amplify the call he was to put in to his father.

An overseas operator in Oakland, Calif., was asked early in the day to reserve a line for the 8 p.m. call. At that hour, contact was made — with a little static interfering — and the pastor of the church said, "I now present to you the father of the bridegroom, Rev. Wallace White."

Then White administered the vows, the couple was formally united and everyone said goodby to young White's father and mother in far-off New Guinea.

Before returning to their classes at Mid-American Nazarene College in Olathe, Kan., the newlyweds took off on a honeymoon. To New Guinea, of course. (Los Angeles Times Syndicate)

Vibrant V Seaming PRINTED PATTERN

The Sweater Look Via Italian Designers

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

FLORENCE, Italy (UPI) — Girls can be great sweater girls next spring and summer, thanks to Italian designers.

The secret lies in the sweater, a loose, long cardigan, worn over a little shirtwaist dress with pleated skirt. The dress should have a matching floppy artist's bow at the neck, half-concealing two or three strands of beads reaching almost to the waist. The most popular beads are large tinted pearls.

Shirtwaists, sweaters, broad-brimmed hats and coats in nothing but double-faced wools was how the Italian ready-to-wear picture shaped up after three days of shows.

SHOES ARE teetering back toward the sensible, with few of those two-inch platform soles to be seen. There are still a number of half-inch platforms and enough three-inch or higher heels to keep the podiatrists happy. But you can see mere inch and one-half heels once more and if you hate sandals but like room to wriggle your toes, there are plenty of open-toed shoes available.

Perhaps the single most important fabric note is printed flowers — small ones, lifelike, and scattered all over, especially on white backgrounds.

White is inevitable and so are long stints at the ironing board — designers just love linen for little white suits and coats next year.

TIZIANI WRAPS up a number of his favorite themes in a summer jumper outfit. It has a white linen skirt with a few pleats, a pink and white candy-striped jumper top, cut low on the sides, and raglan sleeves in a blouse of white cotton voile printed with tiny pink and green floral sprigs. "This is my best-selling coat," he said, trotting out a grass green number in double-faced wool with a matching two-inch drawstring sash and raglan sleeves.

Roberto Capucci, who like Tiziani is showing only in the salesroom and not on the runway, liked beige and white. He did simple little hemp pantsuits whose slim, straight jackets had insets and cuff trim of matching hemp colored knit.

For evening he loved plisse fabrics — like a lavender organza, every inch of which was pressed into tiny pleats. It was used for a simple little dress with unpleated short sleeves, a jewel neckline, and an unpleated flat self-belt with hidden closure.

Record Sum For Painting By American

NEW YORK (UPI)—An 1881 painting by the little-known Philadelphia artist Thomas P. Anshutz brought $250,000 at auction Wednesday, setting a record for an oil by an American artist.

The painting was bought by a Tennessee private collector with Kennedy galleries, a New York dealer, acting as agent at the Sotheby Parke-Bernet auction galleries. The Kennedy bidder would not disclose the buyer's name.

The previous record for an American oil was $210,000 for Thomas Eakins' "Cowboys in the Badlands" in 1970 and John Singleton Copley's "General Wade" in 1971. Experts had estimated the Anshutz would bring $180,000.

Anshutz, who died in 1912 at the age of 61, was a Philadelphia artist of limited renown who is best remembered as a teacher of several of New York's "ashcan" school of social realist artists. The painting which set the record price, "Steelworkers — Noontime," is a powerful study of seminude males excercising in bright sunlight against the dark background of a steel mill.

The painting was one of 62 American works put up for sale by a Huntington Woods, Mich., physician, Irving F. Burton, and his wife. The $930,800 auction also broke the record for an American watercolor— $65,000 for Charles Burchfield's "Sun Setting in a Bank of Smoke" dated 1917.

The work by Burchfield (1893-1967)Kennedy Galleries for a private collector from Georgia. Kennedy also paid $50,000 for one of Edward Hopper's definitive watercolor "Light at Two Lights," a lighthouse scene painted in 1927, and a Houston dealer paid $37,500 for Winslow Homer's watercolor still life "Adirondack Catch" painted in 1889.

The previous record for an Americn watercolor was $36,000 paid for a Hopper at a 1970 auction.

Turner On Stand In Own Defense

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI)—Glenn W. Turner, describing himself as a "retired motivator," took the stand in his own defense today at his securities sales violation trial and said he wanted to "tell it like it is."

In a surprise move, the 38-year-old Orlando promoter was the first witness called by the defense.

Turner was asked by defense attorney James Russ what his occupation was and said: "I am retired. I retired in March. Just call me a motivator. I own several companies and I go around the country marking speeches."

Prosecution attorneys objected frequently throughout his testimony as Turner attempted to tell about his Dare to Be Great philosophies.

After about 30 minutes, Judge Robert L. Williams sent the jury out and then instructed Turner not to discuss his background or his philosophy.

Turner, who said he first conceived the idaa for Dare to Be Great "back in 1959 when I was washing diapers" said he didn't know how to answer the questions.

Then, with his temper showing, he said:

"I don't understand why the state didn't come to me and we could work this thing out and not even have a trial.

"It looks like the government is supposed to help business not knock it down." With the jury back in the room, Turner told of how the Dare to Be Great program was begun and how he got his points across.

Turner said the salesmen in the program are "independent businessmen who had their own licenses and are paid strictly on a commission basis. No working, no eating."

When asked how commission checks are distributed he said:

"I believe the home office mails him a check direct, but I'm not sure about that."

Turner was called to the stand after the judge denied a defense motion that the contents of the Dare to Be Great program be placed back into evidence. He had ruled Wednesday the contents and philosophies were not at issue and ordered any reference to them stricken from the record.

Russ told the judge the ruling "left me in the position of the man in the boat when the tide went out. It left me high and dry in the sand."

"That's their ball of wax," assistant State Attorney Richard Mensh argued. "Just because he has no evidence to present is his problem."

1,500 At Concert By Lombardo

Guy Lombardo and his Royal Canadians drew 1,500 persons to the Veterans Memorial Auditorium last night, including many young people attracted to what the Lombardo entourage describes as "the sweetest music this side of Heaven."

The Lombardo orchestra, which is in its 58th year, received enthusiastic applause and responded by playing several encores.

The one-night performance was part of a tour of Northern California.

Agency Decision To Be Discussed

The Marin County Redevelopment Agency's project area committee, meeting at 6 p.m. today at the Manzanita Center, Marin City, will discuss the agency's decision last week to select a developer for Marin City before it had received a recommendation from the committee.

The agency board has chosen Mid-City Developers Inc. to complete development of the community.

The area committee, a citizens committee formed to advise the agency in redevelopment matters, had not recommended a developer from the five who submitted proposals when the selection was made.

Pleads Innocent To Burglary

A 29-year-old San Rafael resident, cornered Saturday by a hammer-wielding shopkeeper, has pleaded innocent in Marin Municipal Court to a felony burglary count.

Preliminary hearing for Donald Gilbert Kennedy was set for Oct. 31.

Courtney Cole, owner of the R and J Beauty Salon at 1449 Fourth Street, San Rafael, allegedly found Kennedy crouching behind a desk in his shop and held him at bay with a hammer until police returned.

Only 35 minutes before the discovery at 6:35 a.m., police had responded to a silent alarm at the shop and found no one.

Season At Opera House Set By Ballet Company

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The San Francisco Ballet, homeless orphan of the city's artistic establishment, will try the big Opera House again for its three-week summer season next year, artistic director Lew Christensen announced Wednesday.

The first "Summer Festival Season," beginning June 6, will feature new, full-length ballets of "Cinderella" to the music of Prokofiev and of "Don Juan" to the music of Joaquin Rodrigo. Both will be choreographed by Christensen.

The return to the Opera House for the spring—in this case early summer—season comes after a financially and artistically disastrous series this year at the Palace of Fine Arts. The company tried the Palace, which has only 1,000 seats and inadequate stage facilities, because of scheduling problems at the Opera House, where it must squeeze in between the Opera, the Symphony and special concerts.

Christensen said the Ballet Association decided a late season, in June, would be preferable to another year at the Palace.

The plans were announced at an association luncheon launching a fund-raising drive to make up a $750,000 deficit in the company's $1.3 million budget for 1972-73.

'Pot' Proposition Lacking In Merit

On the night of Oct. 14, 1968, agents of the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau raided the De Silva Island home of Frank Werber.

They found approximately 400 pounds of marijuana in the house and 27 marijuana plants growing between rows of corn in the back yard.

Werber was charged in Marin Superior Court with possession and cultivation of marijuana.

He pleaded innocent on the claim that the marijuana was used for religious purposes, and was for his own use. He was never charged with selling it.

AFTER MANY delays, he was convicted on the two counts in February, 1970. During his closing argument in the trial, Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales figured on a blackboard that the marijuana found in Werber's home would have made 17,892 cigarettes — enough to provide Werber with three a day for 17 years.

Appeals kept Werber out of jail until late last year, when he finally went behind bars to serve six months.

We sketch the Werber case today because it provides a clear example of what would be legal in California if Proposition 19 is passed at the Nov. 7 election.

PROPOSITION 19 provides that "no person 18 years or older shall be punished criminally or denied any right or privilege because of his planting, cultivating, harvesting, drying, processing, otherwise preparing, transporting, possessing or using marijuana."

In sum, it removes all penalties connected with marijuana except that for sale — which is the hardest to prove in court.

Werber, for instance, would be committing no crime by having 400 pounds of the stuff in his house and 27 plants growing in the backyard, were Proposition 19 in effect. He and his guests — who might number in the hundreds — could legally smoke the pot to their hearts' content for whatever "religious ecstasies" they might experience.

PROPOSITION 19 is in conflict with federal law which makes it a crime to plant, cultivate, harvest, dry, process, transport or possess marijuana.

Its passage would thus leave marijuana enforcement entirely to the federal government, with its limited number of agents. Those with long memories know how well that system worked when the federal government tried single-handedly to enforce the prohibition on alcoholic beverages with a much larger army of agents.

When Prohibition was abandoned and alcoholic beverages legalized, an extensive system of inspections, licensing and controls was set up. No such system is proposed in Proposition 19. "Bootleg" marijuana would be legal. There would be no control of any kind.

Such a proposal is without merit. We urge a "No" vote on Proposition 19.

Justice Tries To Justify Ruling On Death Penalty

By EARL G. WATERS

Contained in the current issue of the California Law Review is the text of a lecture delivered at Boalt Hall School of Law by California's Chief Justice Donald R. Wright.

It is an exposition of the role of the court in maintaining a balance of power in a democracy. It is also revealing in that it suggests the reason for the California Supreme Court's decision striking down the death penalty.

For Wright goes to some length to bestow credit upon the state supreme court for pioneering landmark cases: "... and the California Supreme Court has traditionally accepted its responsibility to protect the rights of citizens, and especially impotent minorities, by invalidating legislation which contravened constitutional standards," he said. "In fact, many of the court's opinions have marked the paths which the high federal bench and other courts have subsequently followed."

PERHAPS IT WAS this burning desire to maintain this posture of being ahead of the U.S. Supreme Court which prompted Wright, as the new state chief justice, to lead his court to the decision striking down the death penalty. At the time California reviewed the death penalty, the U.S. court already had before it cases on the same question. Still it rendered its decision with a dispatch which assured it of coming to the attention of the U.S. court before the latter handed down its decision.

It is somewhat unusual for a member of the supreme court to give post mortem explanations. There is ample opportunity to set forth its reasons in the decision. Yet, in his lecture. Wright labors reasons for the death penalty decision. In fact the entire theme is woven to that end.

Wright sits as Governor Reagan's only appointee to the state supreme court. In view of the governor's strong feelings on the death penalty it is inconceivable that he could have named Wright without a firm understanding with him on this issue.

IT CAN BE concluded that Wright's squirming now on the court's decision that he wrote is caused more by the secret knowledge that he failed to keep faith with the governor than by the bitter criticisms which have followed the action.

But he chose the lecture to inject a slap at "some commentators and political figures" who "have criticized thisdecision by saying the court usurped the legislative function" and declared "this criticism in my opinion is incorrect and misleading."

What is misleading and incorrect is Wright's statement. The inference is that the criticisms originated with the commentators and political figures. What were these criticisms?

"Retention or abolition raises a question of legislative policy which under our system of division of powers falls within the competence of the Legislature or electorate," was one. "However, to yield to my predilections would be to act willfully in the sense of enforcing individual views instead of speaking humbly as the voice of the law by which society consents to be ruled," was another. "It is the duty of the Legislature of the electorate not the judiciary to decide such an issue," was a third.

They were not said by commentators or political figures. Those are the words of Louis H. Burke, Stanley Mosk and Marshall McComb, all justices of the very court over which Wright presides.

Fortunately, the electorate still has the opportunity to decide the issue on Nov. 7 when they will vote on Proposition 17, which would restore the death penalty and contravene the court.

"Worse still, senator, suppose they make it into a movie?"

What caused the new Agnew? Did they take away Spiro's speech writer — or amputate his adjectives?

The other candidates may be hard to understand but they're easy to characterize.

In addition to a "new" Agnew, Republicans are stuck with the "same old" Nixon.

The Democrats have to make do with a "substitute" Veeper and an "ever-changing" McGovern.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Prison Sentence Infuriates Reader

Witness the case of federal Judge Conti who several days ago sentenced a Bolinas woman, a first offender, to six months in jail because she was caught smoking marijuana in her kitchen, with the empirical pronouncement that "there is no rehabilitation without punishment". Certainly this is near insanity.

Is this the Nixon administration writhing in a final spasm of moral venom?

This man should be removed from the bench by national edict.

Chlorine, Yes — But Fluorine, No

I have recently moved to Mill Valley from San Francisco but unlike Ms. Hsu (Letters, Oct. 13) I am very glad that Marin's water is not fluoridated. I cannot afford to buy bottled water.

I like to think that the people who have been against fluoridation all along now have additional good reason when they bring up that Sweden, West Germany and Denmark have just discontinued it. If artificial fluoridation is really as beneficial as some people say it is, why would these progressive countires discontinue it?

We don't ever hear anyone questioning the addition of chlorine to the water Every knows and agrees it is safe and necessary. Also fluoride is completely tasteless and odorless. A mistake in the amount added could never be detected.

Fluoride should not be added to the entire water supply and I will certainly vote against it by voting No on B.

'Imposing Array' Does Not Impress

"Fight Pollution - Vote NO on B-Bad" appears to be a valid slogan for those of us who in the past have been, and still are, unalterably opposed to adding any more "junk" to our public drinking water. I personally have the constitutional right to bodily protection against known toxic poisons, sodium fluoride being one of them. The facts of toxicity and pollution cannot be abrogated by the minute percentage involved, nor by the valid concern of parents for the health of their children's teeth . . .

A recent letter to the editor listed an imposing array of medical and dental associations favoring fluoridation. This imposing array does not impress me, excepting to confirm my suspicions that the same array of professional promoters "are at it again" because they tend to profit from the chemical companies who provide the "scholarships" and the financing of the dental and medical schools.

Why Penalize Soft Drink Industry?

In answer to Mrs. Walter Del Tredici's article of Oct. 12, many soft drinks contain no sugar, and why should one industry be singled out for a special tax when other industries utilize sugar in very substantial quantities to satisfy the public's demands? Is this really a rational approach to the problem of tooth decay?

From a financial standpoint the dentists and pharmacists stand to lose considerably if Measure B passes in November. I don't think these groups are complaining, as a matter of fact, man for man with one or two exceptions they believe in fluoridation. Dr. Sheldon Schwebel recently listed some 43 national health organizations endorsing fluoridation of public water. The answer, in spite of the merchants of doubt and fear, is pure and simple; this is the most effective, inexpensive, and consistent method of dealing with the problem until such time our health authorities can provide us with an alternative method of control.

Front Page Reminder Of Meetings Proposed

I would like to suggest a service you could provide, as our only daily paper, which would greatly benefit Marin. I sense an increased concern of people with the actions of their governing agencies. Perhaps this is because of issues like open space, county master plan, redevelopment, etc., and a general feeling that citizen participation does make a difference.

Too many times a person forgets a particular council or planning commission meeting they meant to attend because of daily or momentary concerns.

I realize your "Marin Calendar" is a very complete and important daily log of what is occurring but unfortunately it is like a dictionary and buried on page 43.

How about reserving the lower right hand box of the front page for notice of the more important meetings? Restrict it to city council or county planning commission meetings of the major areas with a footnote that all meetings are listed on page 43. This would be only on nights when one or more of these meetings occurs. It would be like a front page headline of your "Calendar" on the inner pages and feature meetings of importance to all of us.

Proposition 15 'Good Legislation'

It is quite evident that the San Rafael Independent-Journal is confused about many of the important aspects of Proposition 15.

In Thursday's (Oct. 12) editorial, you claim that Proposition 15 would establish "a union shop" in state public employment. This is false.

First of all, salary and other economic aspects of employment would not be subject to negotiation and arbitration. The State Personnel Board, the University regents, and the State University trustees would be mandated to set a wage scale equal to only the average paid in other branches of public service or private industry; no more, no less. The legislature still would be free to reduce any wage package if they felt it exorbitant. In addition, the governor can reduce the total budget for any department and consequently retains fiscal control over the number of workers employed in state service.

Proposition 15 is good legislation that is necessary if Californians wish to preserve the excellent caliber of state service.

(The analysis by the legislative counsel in the booklet accompanying sample ballots says of Proposition 15: "This measure would add a constitutional requirement that matters of employer-employee relations and the terms and conditions of employment, other than salaries and civil service matters otherwise controlled by the constitution, would have to be resolved by written agreement between each appointing power and an organization representing a majority of affected employees." — Editor.)

McGovern Confident Of California, Helped By Registration Drive

SAN FRANCISCO — In light of the chorus of doom for the Democrats coming from virtually every corner of the country, it is surprising to find a different tune here in President Nixon's home state. Democratic workers are saying not only with an air of confidence but a willingness to make a few bets (given proper odds) that the McGovern-Shriver ticket will carry California. And underscoring this was perhaps the most enthusiastic reception of McGovern's entire campaign when he came to San Francisco the other night.

The reason for the confidence is the remarkable success of the voter registration drive just ended. An estimated two million new voters have been added to the Democratic rolls. This brings Democratic registration up to 57 per cent of the total, the highest since 1948.

The drive has been spectacularly successful in Norther California. An ambitious goal was exceeded with 440,000 new Democrats on the books. In Southern California, due to a slow start, only 400,000 were added in recent weeks.

The Republicans did well with their registration in the south and especially in Orange County, the heart of Goldwater country. Whether this is a substantial offset to the Democratic drive, only election day will tell. And whether the newly registered Democrats go out to the polls on Nov. 7 is another imponderable.

But the workers, many of them young, can come up with good reasons for their confidence. Black registration has picked up greatly and the black vote is overwhelmingly Democratic.

COMPELLING REASONS are cited in at least two of the laundry list of measures on the ballot thanks to California's initiative and referendum. One would prohibit strikes by farm workers during the harvest season. Caesar Chavez of the Farm Workers Union is turning out his Chicanos to register and vote.

(Editor's note: Columnist Childs apparently has not read the Agricultural Labor Relations Act proposed in Proposition 22. It does not prohibit strikes during harvest time, although it has a provision for 60-day court restraining orders which might have that effect in some cases.)

Another proposal deals with marijuana, stopping short of legalizing it yet permitting possession, use and almost everything else. The suppression of pornography is the subject of still another proposal. This is said to have scared the daylights out of Playboy magazine and Playboy's imitators and the young being recruited to vote "no" on this proposition would presumably vote Democratic.

SO MUCH HAS been reported about the rivalries and conflicts in the McGovern organization that the registration drive is a stunning contrast. It has been directed by Anne Wexler, one of the ablest McGovern staffers. Should the outcome be different, in degree if not in totality, from what has been so universally predicted by the pollsters and the pundits, a lot of the credit will be due her.

In Arizona, registration is higher than ever and it has reached a new high in New Mexico. Mrs. Wexler cites the addition of 100,000 new Democrats to the rolls in Connecticut.

All true, perhaps, but how to get around the lopsided polls in virtually all states, California being one of the exceptions? Mrs. Wexler, who is very knowledgeable in the abracadabra of polls, explains it as follows: The polls may be fresh, new canvasses, but the samples were set up many months ago. And while there may be individual variations, the samples polled do not take into account the newly registered voters and the activity on the campuses.

If this seems like whistling past the graveyard, the confident McGovernites look to the faith of their candidate. George McGovern says he will be elected President of the United States' and he really believes it. Without such a conviction he could hardly endure the ordeal of a national campaign which comes for him on top of a whole year of campaigning in the primaries. In any event it goes down better in California than in any of the other big-city states he must carry if this is to come true.

JOSEPH C. HARSCH

Distorted Foreign Policy Map Drawn From Campaign Rhetoric

Fortunately, United States foreign policy is not being made for the long term on the current American hustings. There is bound to be an adjustment afterwards — no matter which candidate wins.

It is fortunate, because if post-election foreign policy were in fact being made now, the post-election result would resemble one of those maps in which everything near the point of departure is magnified and everything more than 50 miles away diminishes to progressive insignificance.

Thus a map of post-election foreign policy based on Nixon rhetoric would show an enormous Israel, an almost equally enormous South Vietnam, an insignificant Western Europe, a minute Japan. Russia and China would be on the border with flourishes as tourist pictures.

A map based on McGovern rhetoric would equally show an enormous Israel. Western Europe and Japan would be visible but vague in outline. Russia and China would appear more or less coequal with North Vietnam. South Vietnam would have disappeared.

THE WORLD ISN'T really like that, and American foreign policy after election day will get back into something like reasonable proportions. Israel will still be big and important, of course, but not bigger than everything else combined as it looks right now through American political eyes.

Western Europe is bound to expand in appreciated importance. So too will Japan. Whether they will ever again be the twin pillars of Amrican policy as in the pre-Lyndon Johnson era is less certain. In the new world, according to Henry Kissinger, Russia and China are the biggest things, and presumably will again be so after election day —if Mr. Nixon wins.

No one really knows how much Kissingerism would survive in a McGovern world. His advisors include George Ball, the leading apostle of the Western Europe-Japan pattern. But would Mr. Ball's concepts have a revival or do they already belong to the past?

The answer there of course depends heavily on what happens in Western Europe over the next few years. If it progresses from economic unity to closer political and military unity, then Washington will inevitably become newly aware of the importance of its old allies in what is still the American motherland.

And Washington can never ignore for long the most vigorous people and the most prosperous economy in Asia. Japan is the first country of Asia even though China is in size and population enormously larger. It seems reasonable to assume that under a second Nixon or a first McGovern administration, Japan would once more become a major factor in American thinking about Asia.

THE BIG DIFFERENCE between a Nixon or McGovern policy is in attitude towards Indochina. Mr. McGovern is determined to end the American commitment in Vietnam regardless of the fate of the Thieu regime and its supporters in South Vietnam. Mr. Nixon feels a serious responsibility to them and to their survival in the future. He is just as determined as Mr. McGovern to get the United States ground forces out from Indochina in the end. The difference is over air and sea power, speed of withdrawal, and consequences.

There would be a second important difference in emphasis on military power and its use. Mr. Nixon is still using it as a major instrument of American policy in Vietnam. Mr. McGovern is committed so heavily against military size and use that he would undoubtedly try harder than Mr Nixon has to contract that military establishment.

Mr. McGovern could at most shrink it a little more. And he would use it less as a tool of policy.

Israel cannot expect to have everything its own way in the post-election world. Either Mr. Nixon or Mr. McGovern is bound to use just a little persuasion on Israel to offer some concessions toward Egypt.

Right now, of course, Israel can have virtually anything it wants from Washington. Not an ounce of pressure is being applied. And no concessions are being made. But the post-election pressure is not likely to be too oppressive. Israel does have the most effective lobby in Washington since the British went out of the Washington lobbying business.

Who Is In Pay Of Whom In Dirty Trick Campaigning?

WASHINGTON — The most damaging part of the revelations concerning the Dirty Tricks Department of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President is the paranoia it has caused in the American voter. He doens't know whom or what to believe any more.

A chance meeting with Havelock M. Honeycomb confirmed to me the nervous state the electorate is in.

HAVELOCK SAID, "I don't know whom to have faith in. You think one thing and then it turns out another thing."

"Please be more explicit," I begged.

"Okay, you were down at the Republican convention in Miami. They had about 700 or 800 'Veterans Against the War.' They threw eggs at the Republicans and let air out of the tires of the delegates' buses and shouted obscenities at Ronald Reagan. I was as horrified at their behavior as anybody. It made my American blood boil."

"Mine, too," I admitted.

"But now I read there was a secret slush fund and agents of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President were sent down to the Republican convention to cause trouble there. Suppose all the demonstrators throwing eggs at the delegates were really Republicans themselves?"

"I NEVER THOUGHT of that," I said. "They would have more to gain throwing eggs than the Democrats."

Havelock continued, "Every time Agnew goes out to make a speech there are hecklers in the audience trying to shout him down."

"Yes," I said, "and I think that's a terrible way to treat the vice president of the United States."

"Yeah," said Havelock, "if they were really hecklers. But suppose they're on the payroll of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President? Suppose they're heckling just to get sympathy for Agnew?"

"I can't believe it," I said. "Agnew would never allow paid Republican hecklers to attend his speeches."

"Suppose Agnew doesn't know they've been hired to heckle? Suppose he thinks they're legitimate?"

"I NEVER THOUGHT of that. It makes Agnew's reactions to the hecklers so much more sincere. But it is hard to believe any political party would go to such extremes."

"Look," said Havelock, "Maurice Stans has a safe stuffed with money and he has to spend it on something. One of the things I read in the newspapers was that the Committee for the Re-Election of the President had ordered its agents to infiltrate the McGovern staff. Suppose all the gaffes made by the McGovern people were engineered by the Republican agents?"

"Now wait a minute, Havelock. You can't tell me the Republicans were responsible for most of McGovern's goofs."

"It would explain why he's doing so badly in the polls," Havelock said.

"You're absolutely paranoiac," I said. "I can see the Republicans bugging Democratic headquarters, I can see them financing demonstrations against Nixon and Agnew and I can see them forging letters and screwing up the Democrats' schedules. But it's hard to believe that they would have put their people in high places in the McGovern campaign to make blunders in the candidate's name."

"How do we know McGovern doesn't work for THEM?" Havelock asked.

"Good God, man! Have you gone out of your mind?" I screamed.

"Well," Havelock said, "he IS short of money."

Sadat Trying To Patch Relations With Moscow

By JOHN K. COOLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

BEIRUT, LEBANON — Egyptian Prime Minister Aziz Sidky's efforts in Moscow to improve Egyptian-Soviet relations take place amid growing difficulties at home for President Anwar al-Sadat.

Israel's new declared policy of unannounced air strikes against Palestinian guerrilla targets in Lebanon and Syria — inaugurated with surprise Sunday afternoon raids on October 15 — has also heightened insecurity on Egypt's northern flank.

Mr. Sidky met President Sadat for a final briefing before flying to Moscow early October 16.

In a speech to Egypt's Peoples' Council (Parliament) just before Sidky's departure, Mr. Sadat abandoned the relatively cautious attitude he has adopted during recent months toward the United States.

He referred to "making the United States pay dearly" for "insane and incessant aid" Israel which he said was "not simply part of the American political and electoral game."

Mr. Sadat said the Arabs must "strike in depth" against U.S. interests, but he did not explain this further nor did he mention oil.

Mr. Sadat indicated the Sidky mission to Moscow was part of a maximum effort to overcome what he called "emergency conditions in our relations with the Soviet Union" following removal of Soviet military advisors last July.

He referred to this removal as "an objective pause with our friends," but did not repeat last summer's explanations that the Soviets had been unwilling to deliver arms Egypt needed.

Paraphrasing the late Sir Winston Churchill's World War II slogan of "blood, sweat, and tears," Mr. Sadat said he could offer Egyptians only "blood, sweat and hope."

Analysts here believe Mr. Sadat is anxious to restore security to his relations with the Soviet Union, though without accepting again massive Soviet presence in Egypt, because of several military political, and psychological factors:

(1) Russian experts took with them a large amount of sophisticated equipment.

Egyptians were training on the equipment and beginning to master it, such as MIG 23 aircraft, and computers and guidance systems needed for air defense.

Spare parts for Russian arms appear to have grown scarce since July. Lieutenant General Muhammad Ahmed Saddek, the war minister, is said to have complained recently that Egypt had spares, fuel and ammunition for only about a week of all-out fighting.

(1) The Egyptian general staff has been trying to obtain Russian spares from Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and India.

(2) Unrest has reappeared recently among Egyptian students and the armed forces.

University students returning to classes during the current Muslim holiday month of Ramadan have forecast strikes and demonstrations after Ramadan ends around November 10. In August a group of university students in Cairo published a communique in Cairo charging the government with lack of any coherent foreign policy.

There are unconfirmed but persistent reports that an Egyptian army battalion stationed at Suez mutinied about September in protest at President Sadat's failure to retaliate against Israel for its attacks against Lebanon last month. Other units had to disarm the mutinous one, the reports say. Mr. Sadat recently excused his inaction by saying he lacked sophisticated arms, such as the MIG 23.

(3) Neither Mr. Sadat's hopes that the United States would respond to his gesture of removing Russian advisors, nor that he might build solid new relationships with Western Europe have been fulfilled.

A few Cairo-Washington exchanges have indicated no change in the U.S. policy of preserving the status quo with Israel occupying and consolidating new settlements and investments in the Arab territories it conquered in the 1967 war.

Hijacker From Reno Is Guilty

SEATTLE (UPI) —A federal court jury today found Frank M. Sibley Jr. guilty of air piracy in the Aug. 18 hijacking of a 727 jetliner at Reno, Nev., and demanding $2 million ransom while ordering the plane to fly to Vancouver, B.C., and Seattle.

The jury deliberated only about 45 minutes.

While waiting for the jury to return, Sibley said he expected to be found guilty.

Conviction carries a minimum of 20 years and a maximum of life imprisonment.

The trial judge had instructed the jurors that Sibley's motive for the hijacking should have no bearing on their decision.

Sibley's court-appointed attorney, Irving Paul Jr., had told the jurors in his final summation that Sibley hijacked the plane as a form of protest against the war in Southeast Asia.

Sibley told the jury Tuesday when the jurors reach a verdict "My mission will be 100 per cent complete. The truth will reach the world."

Voters' League Gives Senator Perfect Score

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was the only senator to chalk up a perfect score on 19 key environmental votes during the 92nd Congress in rankings released today by the League of Conservative Voters.

The issues selected for making the rankings ranged from the Supersonic Transport (SST) through nuclear testing and reactor licensing to water pollution control.

While Nelson was the only senator to score 100 on the league's weighted scale, seven senators scored zero. They were Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.; Norris Cotton, R-N. H.; Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.; Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz.; John L. McClellan, D-Ark.; John C. Stennis, D-Miss.; John G. Tower, R-Tex.

Senators scoring 90 or above included Adlai E. Stevenson, D-Ill., 96; Clifford P. Case, R-N. J.; 95; Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

McGovern Losing Traditional Support

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's support among such traditionally heavy Democratic groups as Catholics, Jews, union members and the young has eroded, giving President Nixon a 14 per cent edge among California voters, the independent California poll said yesterday.

The poll showed Nixon gaining 9 per cent and McGovern losing 5 per cent between May and early October and said support for the South Dakota senator among these groups "is running at greatly reduced levels."

Overall, Nixon's support among California Democrats is at 27 per cent, a 9 per cent gain since May, while McGovern's popularity among Democrats has slipped from 63 per cent to 56 per cent for the same period, according to pollster Mervin D. Field.

At the same time, the poll said McGovern is "making much smaller than usual inroads into traditional GOP voting blocs such as the elderly and Protestant voter ground." Some 86 per cent of Republicans say they support Nixon, while only 7 per cent are backing McGovern, Field said.

In total, the poll gives Nixon a 50-36 lead.

Among Democrats McGovern is leading the President by a 56-27 margin, Field reported.

The most significant shift to Nixon occurred among labor union members, said the survey, in which 1,275 registered voters were interviewed between Sept. 29 and Oct. 7.

While previously union members have gone about 75 per cent for the Democratic presidential candidate, McGovern leads Nixon among this group by only a 44-42 margin, Field said.

Catholics, who also traditionally have voted Democratic, are now divided evenly 43-43, the poll said. Among Jews, McGovern has a 41 to 34 per cent edge, Field reported.

Among Protestants, Field said Nixon's lead is 59 to 30 per cent over McGovern.

While blacks and "Spanish-Mexicans" still favor McGovern by a substantial margin, Field reported that "even here there has been an increase in Nixon support."

Among voters 18-24, the South Dakota senator has "only a narrow edge" of 47-43 per cent the survey said.

Pathologists Told Street Drugs Impure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Drugs sold by street pushers are rarely pure and often don't contain what they are supposed to, the American Society of Clinical Pathologists was told Wednesday.

Two University of Southern California researchers reported on an analysis of 572 samples of street drugs, mostly gathered in the Los Angeles area.

"As likely as not, the drug you buy on the street contains other drugs that could easily cause unexpected toxic effects and bad trips," they said.

The researchers, Drs. Ramesh C. Gupta and George Lundberg, said 54.8 per cent of the drugs tested did not contain any of the substance they were supposed to be.

Almost all specimens represented as mescaline turned out to be LSD, PCP or a combination of the two. The same was true of purported psilocybin pills.

Marijuana, hashish and amphetamine samples usually, but not always, were properly identified.

Dr. Lundberg defined drug abuse as the use of drugs in a manner likely to cause harm, and said drug abuse will always be a problem.

"A substantial case could be made for letting people have access through legal, controlled channels to whatever substance they wish and for teaching them to know their poison," he said.

Thurmond, Wife Parents Again

GREENWOOD, S.C. (UPI)— The 26-year-old wife of Sen. Strom Thurmond gave birth yesterday to the couple's second child, an eight-pound, three ounce boy.

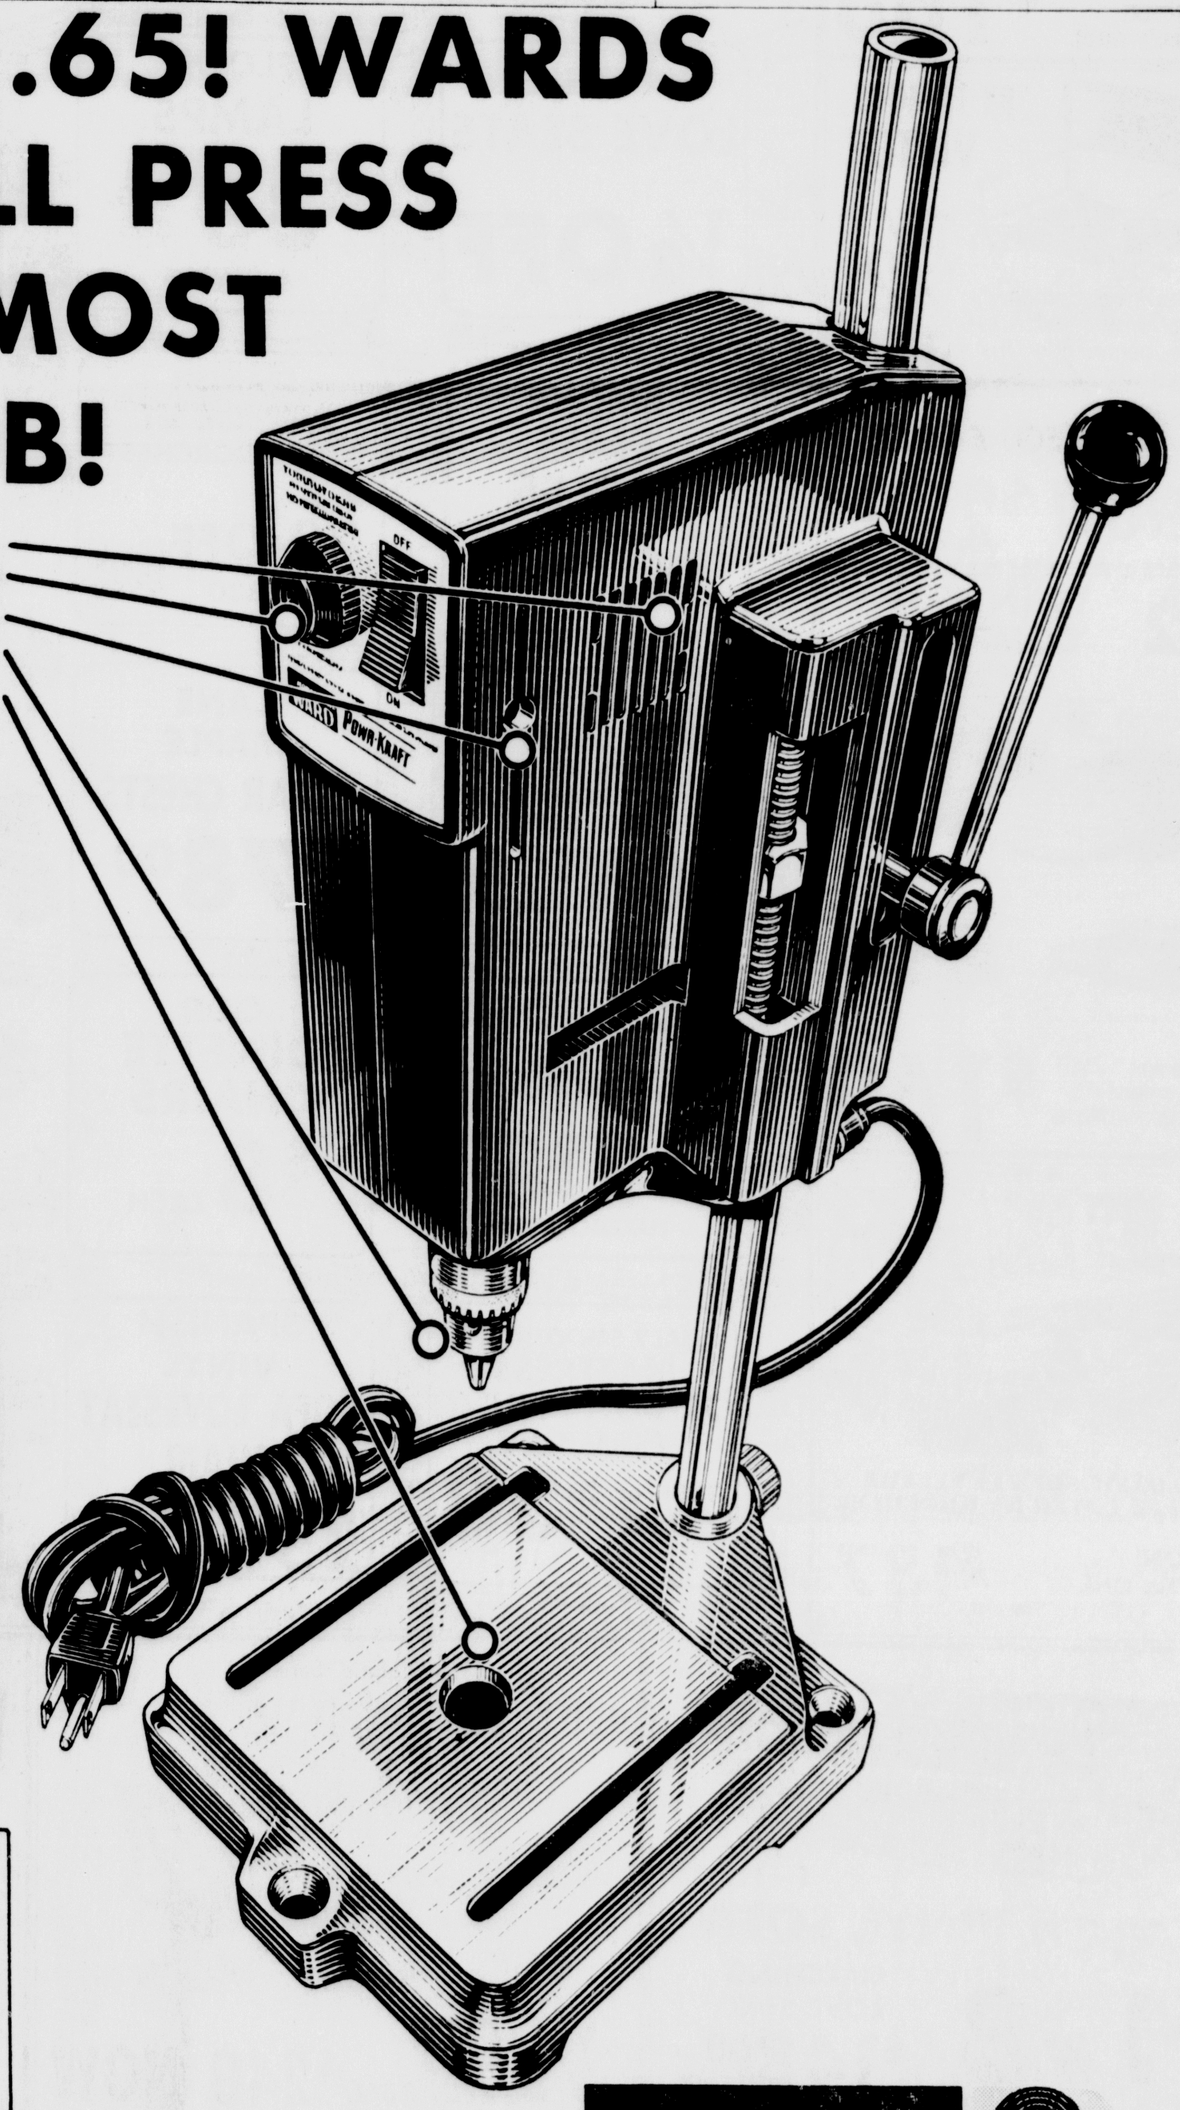

An aide for the 70-year-old senator said both mother and child were doing fine.

"I'm sitting on top of the world," Thurmond said. "We're just so proud. Now we've got a fine baby girl and a fine baby boy."

Thurmond and his wife, the former Nancy Moore of Aiken, were married Dec. 22, 1968. She was a former beauty queen and once held the Miss South Carolina title.

The couple's first child was born March 30, 1971.

Capote Revisits Quentin; Finds It Vastly Changed

By JEFF GREER

Truman Capote revisited San Quentin Prison this week and found it vastly changed since his last visit five years ago.

"San Quentin is so incredibly quiet now," Capote exclaimed yesterday. "I remember the constant noise, the uproar" of the yard, the cellblocks and Death Row, said the author of the best-selling book, "In Cold Blood."

This week as in 1967, Capote was making a television film at San Quentin. He spent three days inside the prison interviewing convicts, correction officers and prison officials for the premier segment of a new show called "On Location" for the ABC television network.

The dwindling inmate population was a far cry from the thronged yard he saw five years ago. Death Row stood empty and cellblocks echoed hollowly.

"On Location with Capote" will be telecast Dec. 7. Later segments will feature other widely known figures, traveling to unusual places. Producer of the San Quentin segment was Zev Putterman of Mill Valley.

Capote visited San Quentin and several other prisons five years ago, to make a documentary film on men awaiting execution. His sponsor refused to telecast the film, and it has been shown only at film festivals, Capote explained.

The famed writer relaxed after his filming stint yesterday, to chat about his new film, the convicts he'd talked to, the failings of women writers and his own views of himself.

Everything he's written has been "reportage, really," the soft-voiced author insisted. "Even the fiction ... somewhere inside it there's a true story."

Reminded of controversy over whether he had fictionalized passages in "In Cold Blood," his chilling tale of the murder of a Kansas family and the fate of the slayers, Capote firmly said, "every word of it was true. I interviewed everyone again and again. I got them to repeat their stories time after time, tell me what they said and all the little things they could remember."

He started as a reporter for New Yorker magazine, writing "On the Town," Capote said. He credited himself with originating "new wave journalism" but said he could never work as a newspaper reporter confronted with deadlines. "I have to think a story over and over, finding new things to bring out, new twists."

Tom Wolfe — Capote's competitor for "new wave" founder's honors — gets between the readers and the story with his "zok, wham, zow" style, Capote complained. "I want to write clearly and simply, but with style," declared the author of "Other Voices, Other Rooms," and "Breakfast at Tiffany's".

Women writers have even worse stylistic failings than Wolfe, Capote added. "If they're any good at all they become unreadable." He admitted that Catherine Ann Porter was an exception, but argued that her "Ship of Fools" tended to become unreadable.

Subjects of his nonfiction writings seldom object to his sometimes unflattering portraits, Capote said. "They'll tell their friends it's outrageous, but they'll go back to their rooms and hug the book to themselves and pore over every adjective."

He made good friends in Garden City, Kan., the scene of his long research into the Clutter family's massacre, Capote insisted. Among them he named detective Alnin Dewey, who investigated the slayings, and who later was a guest at Capote's widely publicized, $20,000 masked ball in New York City that made nationwide headlines.

One longtime Death Row inmate he interviewed at San Quentin this week criticized "In Cold Blood" as exploitation of the two convicted killers, Capote recalled. "He didn't like me," the writer said.

Nathan E. Eli, San Diego vacuum cleaner salesman convicted of slaying a Navy officer's wife, told Capote "you made millions" from the story of the Kansas slayings.

"Hell, I told him I'd spent five years of my life on that book ... and $18,000 of my own money" for legal aide to the cillers," the author recalled. "I even went to the governor again and again" to seek help for the youths, he added.

"So I interviewed Eli on camera for the show" hoping he'd bring up the argument again, Capote said. "But he chickened out."

The interview was filmed in a cell in an otherwise deserted cellblock. For Capote, Eli repeated claims he had made in other press interviews, that "Death Row was a hell ... where men's minds are warped," that the guards "are rejects from the labor market" and that prisons fail to prevent men from repeating crime.

Throughout the interviews in the prison, Capote followed his custom of working without notes or script. Notetaking interferes with his effort to get his subjects to "trust me as well as like me," the writer explained.

Capote said he was asked to revisit San Quentin by the new show's producers because "I have a lot of background" in "reportage" of crime and convicts. The project temporarily interrupted work "on the longest book I've ever written ... it'll be more than 800 pages."

Capote suddenly grasshoppered the conversation to his worries whether to accept an invitation to the Johnny Carson show.

"People tell me I shouldn't appear," he fretted. "I don't understand why not.

"Of course, Johnny may find out I've just been in San Quentin. Last time I was on his show I had just gotten out of Santa Ana."

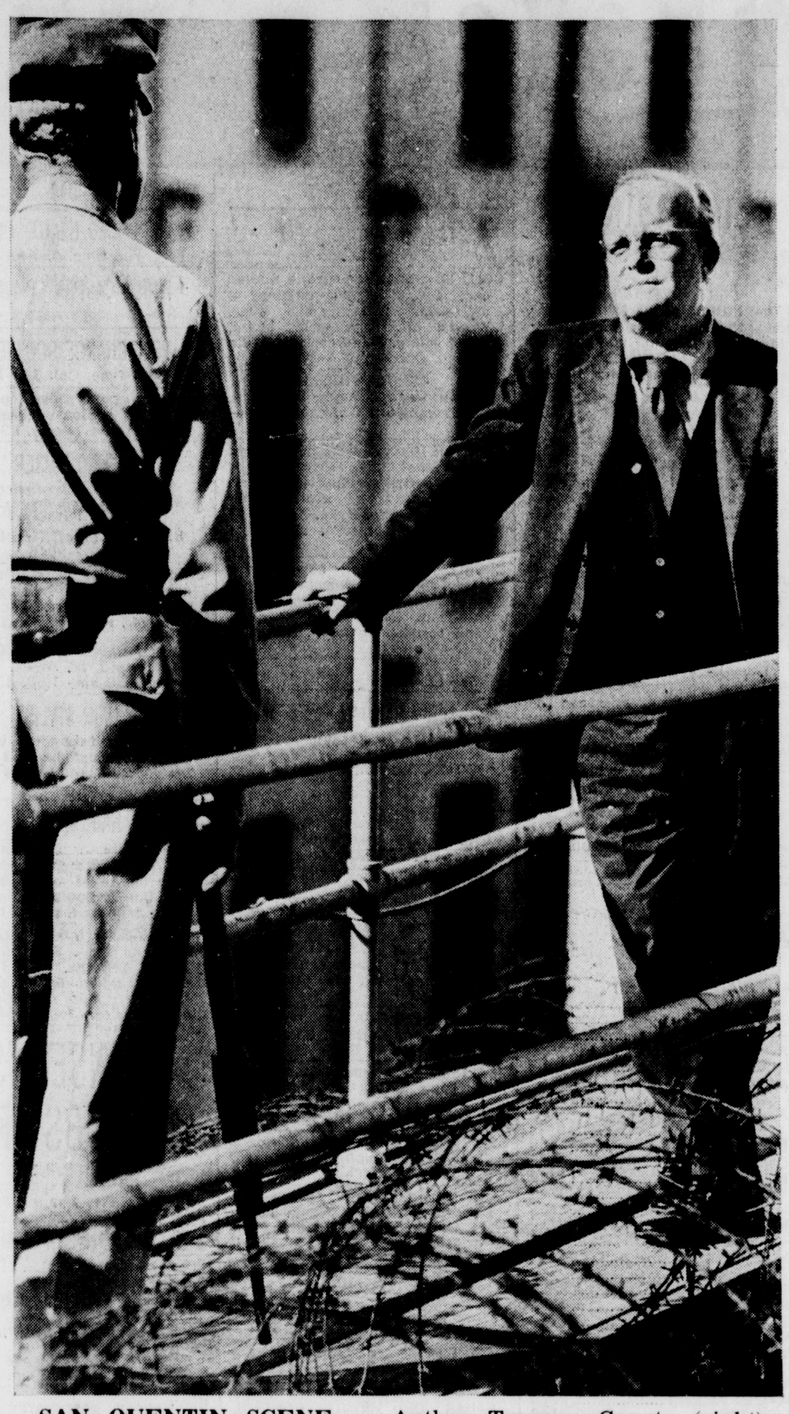

The writer was jailed for three days for contempt of court in 1970, after failing to appear as a subpoenaed witness in a convicted murderer's penalty trial. Capote had interviewed the killer on Death Row in 1957. The writer said no one told him he had been ordered to appear at the trial.

"Maybe Carson will ask me why I'm always just getting out of jail," Capote decided, chuckling.

A woman passerby overhead Capote talking as he was leaving a San Rafael restaurant after his interview. "I'd know that voice anywhere," she exclaimed.

Capote laughed, and squeakily parodied his own piping voice:

"A la Mickey Mouse."

'Trash Fish' Kill Off Due To Rain

Recent heavy rains have forced the state Department of Fish and Game to abandon plans to eliminate "undesirable trash fish" in Nicasio Reservoir.

The department had intended to kill all fish in the Marin Municipal Water District facility to get rid of growing numbers of large, bony carp.

Plans called for employees to dump liquid rotenone into the water, killing the fish by suffocation. Rotenone, a plant substance, constricts capillaries in fish gills.

But James Farnkopf, MMWD manager of water treatment and distribution, said recent rainfall has increased Nicasio capacity to 1.2 billion gallons, making the cost of the treatment "prohibitive." The treatment would be economically feasible, he said, only if the lake contained less than a billion gallons.

Farnkopf also said two creeks flowing into the reservoir had been swollen by the rains and their increased flow of fresh water might dilute the rotenone, rendering it ineffective.

This means that the fish kill will not take place this year at least, according to Farnkopf.

Felony Counts Are Reduced

Felony counts of concealing stolen property and buying a tire with an invalid credit card against a 21-year-old Mill Valley resident have been reduced to misdemeanors by a Marin Municipal Court judge.

After hearing the evidence against Daniel John Pasquale, judge Gary W. Thomas reduced the counts and set a pretrial conference for Nov. 1. Trial was set for Dec. 7.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Pasquale in Strawberry Sept. 13 after he allegedly tried to buy a tire from a Texaco service station there. He allegedly had stolen license plates in his car, deputies said.

Higher Court Due Theft Case

A San Rafael man arrested after his home was burglarized has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on two counts of receiving stolen property and is to appear Oct. 30.

Judge Robert A. Smallman ruled there was enough evidence to try Donald Lawrence Hall, 42, arrested by San Rafael police Sept. 14 after they arrested a teenager who admitted breaking into Hall's home in March.

Among the goods recovered from the youth and Hall's home were two stolen rings valued at $450 and a $500 typewriter stolen from San Rafael High School.

Part-Time Faculty Gets One Request

The Marin Community College District board last night agreed to consider letting part-time teachers participate in the district's fringe benefit plan, but took no action on a request for salary hikes.

District publicist Earlene Jones said spokesmen for the part-timers asked the board to delay consideration of their plea for a pay raise from 60 per cent of the full-time rate to 80 per cent.

The spokesmen said that because only two trustees — Francis Compton and Theodore C. Wellman — attended Monday's workshop session on the salary request, "the other board members hadn't had the opportinity to become fully informed on the issue."

Trustees didn't agree that they were ill informed, said Mrs. Jones, but agreed to delay considering the salary request until their Nov. 1 meeting. Judy Gartman, a full-time communications teacher, offered three tape-recordings of Monday's workshop, said Mrs. Jones, and these were accepted by Trustees Robert E. Oliver and Charles R. Best.

The board voted unanimously to explore ways of letting part-timers get into the district's fringe benefit program, said Mrs. Jones, and instructed Supt.-President John A. Grasham and Business Mgr. Norman D. Bird to develop a proposal with the insurance carrier.

The district contributes $906 a year per person for full-time employee benefits said Mrs. Jones, including medical plan, disability, dental and life insurance.

The proposed plan for part-timers would limit the district's contribution to $226 each for instructors teaching less than 7.5 units, and $453 for those teaching 7.5 units or more. The teachers could choose whether they wanted the contribution applied toward medical, dental, life insurance or disability.

Carroll Darrow, assistant dean for the evening program, asked that adult education teachers be included in the proposed fringe benefit program for part-timers.

Part-time teachers make up nearly half of College of Marin's instructors, numbering 105 compared to 155 full-time teachers. A group called the Part-Time Faculty Association for Equal Status has claimed that many of its members qualify for food stamps and government aid because of their low salaries. They get no fringe benefits.

The Marin Community College District Board Also:

PLAN — Approved the district's 10-year construction plan which has to be revised annually. The only alteration on unanimous vote was to triple initial physical education space at Indian Valley Colleges from 1,200 square feet to handle the 1,200 students expected to enroll when the first cluster opens in late 1974.

MOTORBIKES — Approved using a paved area near the data processing center on the Kenftield campus as a motorcycle parking lot.

TUBERCULOSIS — Changed the frequency of mandatory tuberculosis tests for employees from each year to every four years.

WINTON ACT — Approved a Winton Act policy covering negotiations with the Certificated Employee Council.

LEAVE — Voted to allow only two administrators to be on leave at any one time, and permitted hiring part-time substitutes for administrators on sabbatical leaves at 80 per cent salary.

TRAVEL — Were told a proposed policy on district travel wasn't ready yet. Mrs. Compton said the policy under consideration "isn't the type" sought in the Tamalpais High School District, but did not elaborate.

PROPOSITION 14 — Expressed concern that passage of Proposition 14, the Watson tax shift Initative, would "devastate" the entire California Community College system, but took no formal vote on the issue.

ACCREDITATION — Was told the College of Marin will undergo a full accreditation check from Oct. 9 to 11 next year.

BUDGET — Approved a new budget calendar which moves up dates for submitting departmental budget requests. Salary proposals will have to be given to the business manager by Dec. 15 and the board will get the 1973-74 working budget on Jan. 3, with approval of a tentative budget set for June 20.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to the next regular meeting Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. in Room 101 of the Science Building at College of Marin.

College Official Due At Two Schools

Al Perry, admissions representative from Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, Wash., will visit two San Rafael high schools next Tuesday to meet prospective students.

He will be at San Rafael High School at 10 a.m. and Terra Linda High at 11:30 a.m.

Burglary Case To Superior Court

John Milton Ellis, 23, of no known address has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on charges of attempted burglary and assaulting a sheriff's deputy with a knife.

Ellis was ordered to appear Tuesday on the charges resulting from his arrest Oct. 5 outside a Sausalito bait shop. He allegedly tried to flee when deputies arrived, but was restrained after pulling the weapon, deputies said.

Hayward Woman Is Being Held For Welfare Chisel

A Hayward woman, who may have obtained as much as $1,200 a month in a complex web of reported welfare frauds in several counties, was arrested by a Marin investigator yesterday at the Alameda County Welfare office in Hayward.

Booked into Marin County Jail on a $5,000 warrant was Lia Culcleasure Stahrlite, 27, whose aliases include Lia Cucleasure, Alicia Stephenson and Lia Stanton, according to Deputy Dist. Atty. Milton M. Hyams.

Hyams said her welfare activities over the past couple of years are so complex he is not even sure of her real name and does not yet know the full extent of her alleged wrongdoings or even ifthe person in custody is indeed the person who received welfare in Marin from January 1971 to September 1972.

However, Hyams said, she apparently was receiving aid in Alameda totalling $190 a month, both Aid to Families With Dependent Children and aid for the disabled in San Francisco and welfare in Marin. She also held a job in San Francisco, paying $125 a week from August 1971 to June 1972.

Hyams said all the aid may have pushed her income as high as $1,200 a month in June this year, but he had no idea how much aid she may have obtained illegally in the bay area.

In Marin alone, she received $3,523 she was not entitled to, Hyams said.

Hyams said she would be charged with felony welfare fraud and with receiving $46 in food stamps she was not eligible for in July. She was to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Hyams said possible fraud was uncovered by the new state earnings clearance system which checks Social Security number of aid recipients against earnings.

A Columbus Day Honor To Franco

MADRID (UPI)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco received a plaque from the U.S. National Columbus Day Committee Wednesday. Mariano A. Lucca, chairman of the committee and a retired newsman from Buffalo, N.Y., said he presented the plaque "to show the debt of gratitude the United States owed Spain for sponsoring Christoper Columbus' epic voyage."

"Franco brightened when I said this and said he was deeply moved and thanked us from the bottom of his heart," Lucca said.

Student Loans Popular

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federally-guaranteed loans are most popular with middle-income parents looking for ways to finance a college education for a child. A student can borrow up to $1,500 a year at seven per cent interest and start repayment nine to 12 months after graduation. He can take 10 years to repay.

San Francisco Man Leaps To His Death

A 25-year-old San Francisco man plunged to his death from the northern approach to the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday.

Two fishermen said they saw the man, Richard Leonard Thude, jump off the bridge's east side between the north tower and north anchorage point at about 9:30 a.m., the California Highway Patrol reported.

The body was recovered by military police at Fort Baker.

According to Marin Coroner's Deputy Donald L. Cornish, Thude was a native of California. He was unemployed.

Funeral arrangements will be handled by Gantner-Felder-Kenny Mortuary of San Francisco.

Top Rock Singer Is Involved In Fight

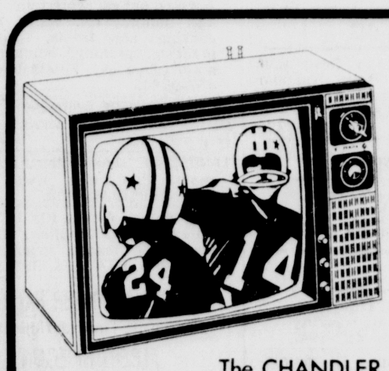

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — English singer Joe Cocker and his band returned to their Chateau Commodore hotel after a Wednesday night concert to find the manager wanted them to leave. Scuffles broke out and police eventually dragged away the bare-chested, barefoot rock singer. He was charged with 10 counts ranging from assault to offensive language.

Last week, Cocker and six other members of his group of 30 were charged with drug possession and fined a total of $2,880. Immigration Minister Alexander Forbes said after the fines were paid that the seven had to leave the country by Friday—or be forced out.

ISN'T GOOD SERVICE WONDERFUL?
Our service is "late" but nice. Marin commuters have found it very convenient that our service department is now open till 7 pm. Monday thru Friday. In most cases we can give your VW a maintenance or tune-up by 7 pm if you come in by 5 pm. Call our private service line 388-5230 and give us a vote for "late" service.

Crash Hearing Ends On Air Safety Note

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has no air safety regulations aimed at protecting the safety of persons on the ground, an accident inquiry panel investigating last month's Sacramento ice cream parlor plane crash was told.

Furthermore, the FAA has no authority to enforce the airport obstruction safety criteria it does have on the books, a federal official told the National Transportation Safety Board yesterday.

The FAA sets safety criteria only for landings, but not takeoffs, said Paul W. Robinson, the chief of the FAS's air space obstruction branch.

Under questioning by safety board members, Robinson said the Farrell's Ice Cream Parlor where a privately owned, Novato based F86 jet crashed on takeoff killing 22 persons was not considered an air safety hazard by FAA standards.

The 5,000-foot-long runway where the Korean War vintage jet attempted to take off Sept. 24 pointed directly at the ice cream parlor, just 700 feet from the end of the runway pavement across a four-lane street.

Even if the shopping center housing the ice cream parlor had been considered a hazard to air safety, the FAA could not have stopped construction because the FAA airport hazard orders are only advisory, Robinson said.

"They are not enforceable. They are not binding on the people who receive them. We do not have authority to deny or halt construction," he said.

Robinson was the last of 23 witnesses called in three days of testimony on probable causes of the Sept. 24 crash.

He told the panel the ice cream parlor "violated the air space requirements" for visibility for landings on the short runway, but that a review before construction determined the building was not a hazard to air safety.

Under questioning from board members, Robinson added that the obstruction safety rules "address themselves to the safe and efficient use of air space" and contain no criteria for considering the safety of persons on the ground.

"Certainly we are concerned with the safety of people on the ground," Robinson said.

But when asked to cite regulations which would authorize him to act if he determined a project might threaten the safety of persons on the ground, Robinson replied, "I cannot cite you any, sir."

Earlier he had testified that he could issue no air hazard report "that does not have a basis in regulations."

Other witnesses testified that both state and airport officials opposed permits for the shopping center in 1964, but that the county granted permits after the FAA issued a "no hazard" report.

Inquiry officer Alan Brunstein also criticized the FAA airport obstruction standards.

"Everything I read has to do with approaches. Nothing pertains to departures," he said.

"We are looking forward to putting departure criteria in," Robertson replied, but said he did not think it would be soon.

Gerald Barbar of the state Department of Aeronautics said the state opposed the first unit of the shopping center as a hazard, but raised no objection to an expansion which included the ice cream parlor "because we felt the damage had been done" with the first building permit.

Barbar also said there were "several other areas we are seriously concerned with" in California where shopping centers are located near airport runways similar to the layout in Sacramento.

Barbar said the state has no power to act because "if we were to prohibit construction, there would be a taking of property and inverse condemnation."

"We don't have funds available for such purposes," he added.

Other FAA officials said they had no authority to bar specific types of aircraft, such as jets from any specific runway.

C.O. Miller, director of the federal Bureau of Aviation Safety, said he considered that "rather a key issue" in the accident probe, but other board members declined comment.

Earlier witnesses criticized Spectrum Air pilot Richard Bingham's certification to fly the jet after just one 40-minute flight, his flight technique in the fatal takeoff, and how air traffic was handled at the air show which had concluded a few minutes before the crash.

Bingham also testified from a wheelchair and said he heard and felt an unfamiliar vibration during the takeoff.

Francis H. McAdams, chairman of the inquiry panel, said the report of findings "will be expedited," adding, "I hope we could get a final report out within six months."

HEW Secretary Ask Studies By NATO Group

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliott Richardson has urged a NATO group to undertake new studies of health manpower and population control.

"By not giving sufficient priority to the population issue, we would be neglecting one of the most transcendent health and social issues of all time," he told NATO's Committee on the Challenges of Modern Society Wednesday.

He said physician shortages and the maldistribution of health manpower are problems common to all nations.

At a news conference in Seattle, Richardson said a debate between President Nixon and Democratic nominee George McGovern would not be a proper forum.

The request for a debate was made this week by the McGovern camp.

Antiwar Group Wins An Order

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A federal judge has ordered San Francisco's Veterans Day parade committee to show cause why an antiwar group should not be permitted to participate.

Judge Stanley Wiegel's ordered Wednesday came on a request for a preliminary injunction by the Vietnam Veterans Against the War.

The committee has refused permission for antiwar groups to take part in the annual parade which is scheduled for next Sunday.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, light air pollution.
Smoke particles, clean air.

Other areas:

San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, significant air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Today is Thursday, Oct. 19, the 293rd day of 1972 with 73 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

American novelist Fannie Hurst was born Oct. 19, 1889.

On this day in history:

In 1781, the American Revolutionary War neared an end as British general, Lord Cornwallis surrendered at Yorktown, Va.

In 1814 "The Star Spangled Banner" was sung in Baltimore for the first time.

In 1936, an around-the-world airplane race by three newspaper writers ended at Lakehurst, N.J. H.R. Elkins won over Dorothy Kilgallen and Leo Kiernan with a time of 18 days, 11 hours, 14 minutes and 33 seconds.

In 1967, the American space vehicle Mariner 5 swept past Venus.

A thought for the day: German author Thomas a Kempis said, "Be not angry that you cannot make others as you wish them to be, since you cannot make

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Long Hair On The Job Can Be A Problem For Many Men

P.C.C. writes: "My son got a new job in an industrial plant and had to take a course in the hazards of long hair. His hair is down to the shoulders and it looks shabby because he does not wear a net and combs it only twice a day. After the indoctrination, he asked me to trim it. 'It's too dangerous around our heavy machinery,' he said. 'One fellow was almost pulled into a large belt.' I trimmed it off, but wondered if this really was a problem. And if so, sould other people be told about it?"

According to the National Safety Council, long hair on men is a problem. This organization made a survey of 174 industries and one in eight reported one or more accidents involving long hair. The same firms reported only one in 14 long hair accidents involving women. This is understandable because few women work with heavy equipment.

BUSHY BEARDS, sideburns, and mustaches also were hazards. Sparks from machinery or welding torches can set the hair on fire. We are not adovcating changes in the hairstyles of men, but they should be aware of the hazards when working around gears, revolving shafts, pulleys, belts, and similar machinery. The National Safety Council should be congratulated on making this survey.

A FEW WEEKS ago, I saw a girl get out of the rear seat of a car. As she slammed the door, she suddenly became aware that her long scarf was caught. She screamed and the driver waited until she freed the scarf from the door. If he had not heard her yell, she might have strangled.

Several people have strangled, including Isadora Duncan when her long scarf caught in the wheel of an automobile. Severe lacerations and multilations occur when the scarf gets caught in moving machinery. Examples of the long scarf syndrome have involved the rear door of a bus and the ski tow.

CAN'T MOVE WHEN EXCITED

O.D.R. writes: Whenever I get upset or excited, my legs from the knees down feel cold and stiff and I can't move. Could this be a form of nervousness?

REPLY

Yes. The nerves constrict the blood vessels and the ensuing decrease in circulation makes the legs feel cold and stiff. Restless legs, a bizarre condition is another possibility.

MORNING PUSHUPS

G.P.N. writes: Is it harmful to the heart to do 30 pushups every morning?

REPLY

Not to the normal heart. If you have this much energy, you must be well.

SWEETS AND ARTHRITIS

B. K. writes: Is eating sweets bad for arthritis of the hands?

REPLY

No, but the knees and ankles might suffer if the individual gains weight.

U.S., Latin America Join To Curb Drugs

By JAMES N. GOODSELL
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Latin American and United States teamwork on curbing drug traffic is beginning to yield results.

Early this month Brazilian authorities in Rio de Janeiro made the largest seizure of drugs on record in Latin America, and Peruvian authorities across the continent in Lima arrested a chemist regarded as one of the most important figures in drug manufacture in Latin America.

In both instances, cooperation with other governments in Latin America and with United States authorities was a key factor.

The Brazilian incident involved the search of a Moore-MacCormack ship, the Mormac Altair, bound from Buenos Aires to New York, during a scheduled stop in Rio.

Argentine authorities tipped off the Brazilians to the possibility that a cache of heroin was aboard the ship. Moreover, three Argentine federal police agents flew to Rio to be on hand when the Brazilians searched the ship.

For the investigators, it was a profitable search. They found 132 pounds of pure heroin, valued by various authorities at somewhere between $15 million and $45 million, the difference resulting from questions of supply and demand, where the sales are taking place, etc.

The seizure, coming on the heels of the discovery of 101 pounds of heroin in Buenos Aires and 53 pounds in Caracas, Venezuela, in August, is part of stepped-up efforts to curb drug traffic.

Intelligence work by the United States Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs was a factor in all three incidents, as it was in the Peruvian arrest of a Chilean chemist who made cocaine in a clandestine laboratory in northern Chile.

His arrest by Peruvian authorities, which was accompanied by the seizure of 55 pounds of cocaine, was made possible, at least in part, by cooperation from Chilean authorities, and a Chilean detective was with the Peruvian when the arrest was made.

These incidents suggest the degree of cooperation among Latin Americans in the effort to curb and halt the drug traffic.

Moreover, they indicate how Latin America has become a major conduit for drugs flowing into the United States — some of it from elsewhere and some of it made in Latin America.

United States officials in various Latin American countries have indicated in recent months that they are receiving an increasing amount of help from hemisphere nations in the effort to control narcotics traffic.

Trudeau Given Birthday Party

HANMER, Ont. (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre E. Trudeau celebrated his 53rd birthday Wednesday with four cakes, repeated good wishes and a long, hard day of campaigning.

He ended the day of campaigning through Ontario with a cranky performance at a question-and-answer session at Hanmer, outside Sudbury, Ont. Annoyed by a faulty sound system, he twice looked as if he were going to walk out, but he did not.

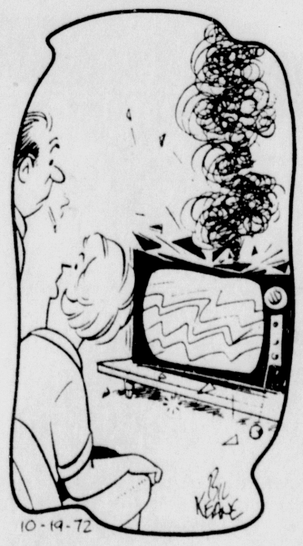

The crowd of about 2,000 in the local high school auditorium twice stood to sing happy birthday to the prime minister.

Dubrovnik Visit Canceled By Queen

BELGRADE (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth of England canceled a scheduled trip to the seaside resort of Dubrovnik today and flew instead to the Montenegrin capital of Titograd.

British embassy officials said stormy weather on the coast caused the queen, making her first visit to a Communist country, to change her plans.

Guilty Plea To Charges Of Burglary

Richard James Giakovmis, 19, of Fairfax has pleaded guilty to two charges of burglary in a plea bargain involving eight cases.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court accepted the change of plea which calls for the youth to spend a maximum of nine months in jail with credit for any time he may spend at Napa State Hospital or the California Rehabilitation Center.

Sentencing was set for Nov. 13.

As part of the negotiation, misdemeanor cases of vehicle tampering, driving without a license and reckless driving and three traffic citations were to be dismissed in municipal court yesterday, but those cases were continued to Nov. 9 for possible dismissal.

Giakovmis admitted breaking into a Fairfax home on June 12 and breaking into a car in San Anselmo June 28 in an effort to steal the seats.

SONGS OF THE FORTIES

John Gilliland, of Mill Valley, a radio announcer who was just a youth in the forties when the big bands packed ballrooms throughout the nation and dancers danced cheek-to-cheek to the smooth music of Glen Miller, has become entranced with the era. Gilliland, in preparation for two long broadcasts of music from the forties, interviewed artists of that era and some of their comments are in a story on the young announcer and the era in Saturday's Marin Magazine.

Cox Calls Next Weeks Crucial In San Rafael Campaign Speech

By NELS JOHNSON

Flashbulbs popped. High school girls sighed. Several dozen youths sporting shiny, red, white and blue Nixon-Agnew campaign hats rushed up for autographs and group photographs.

The occasion was a campaign appearance yesterday at San Rafael's Republican headquarters by Edward Cox, President Richard M. Nixon's handsome, 26-year-old son-in-law.

Cox, on the last leg of a three-day campaign swing through California, waded through the group of about 30 young Republicans, shaking hands and urging a renewed effort in the drive to reelect the President next month.

"Are you another young Republican for the President?" he asked one clean-shaven youth. "That's great. Just great," he beamed.

"I just came to shake his hand . . . he's so pretty," confided one girl, adorned with a huge Nixon button.

In a brief speech, Cox said the next three weeks were crucial in the effort to assure his father-in-law another four years in the White House.

"Registration is important. We've got to locate the President's supporters and register them," he declared. "But most important is getting out the vote on Nov. 7."

Cox warned campaign workers of the "danger of complacency," claiming that since Republicans "know they're in the majority" some Nixon supporters might stay home on election day.

"We want a mandate from the people," he said.

Later, en route to a waiting helicopter at the Civic Center, Cox told reporters that the major issue of the presidential campaign is "the proven leadership and experience of President Nixon." The well-pressed, conservatively dressed Cox cited Vietnam, the Moscow-China trips, the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks and revenue sharing as examples of Nixon's leadership and statesmanship.

He said the President had handled the Vietnam War with wisdom and courage. "The President is anti-war — he wants to end the conflict there," Cox said.

He said that President Nixon was appalled by the so-called Watergate caper. "He feels that what happened at the Watergate has no place in politics, Cox said, commenting on charges that Republicans bugged Democrat campaign offices.

Cox declined comment on presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger's latest round of peace talks.

What's it like to be married to the President's daughter?

"I really can't say," he said.

Hoffa Seeking Trial Overturn

CINCINNATI (UPI)—Attorneys for Jimmy Hoffa asked a federal court Wednesday to overturn his 1964 jury tampering conviction on grounds the key government witness at the trial committed perjury.

Lawyers representing the paroled former Teamsters Union president contended witness Edward Grady Partin of Baton Rouge, La., was a government informer, but the Justice Department refused to acknowledge it.

Attorney Herman Mellman of St. Louis told a three-judge panel of the U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals the government installed an electronic listening device in an auto driven by Partin to obtain evidence against Hoffa.

The court took the motion under advisement.

Schmitz Hits Sales To Russia

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — John G. Schmitz, American Party nominee for President, said today some precision American machinery being sold to the Soviet Union could help the Russians "improve the aim of their missiles."

The California congressman said in a speech prepared for a nundraising dinner tonight:

"If you were confronted, face to face, by a Communist with a rifle who has said he intends to bury you, would you sit down with him and help him adjust his sights better? This is exactly what the Nixon administration is doing."

He said the "one major purpose" of 164 special precision internal grinding machines being sold to Russia under administration approval is to produce precision miniature ball bearings. These, he said, are essential to guidance systems needed for accuracy in firing of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

"What this amounts to, is that the finest products of American machine tool technology will be shipped to Russia so that the Kremlin can improve the aim of their missiles," Schmitz said.

Schmitz said a similar shipment planned in 1961 was blocked by President John F. Kennedy.

Mailliard, Boas To Make Two Appearances

The first two confrontations in Marin between the two candidates in the Sixth Congressional District, incumbent Republican William S. Mailliard and Democratic nominee Roger Boas, have been scheduled next week.

The two will face one another at noon Tuesday at Peacock Gap Country Club at a luncheon of the Women's Auxiliary to the Marin Medical Society. Reservations are being handled by Lee Strauss, 17 Cortes Court, San Rafael, and are available to the public as well as members.

The second joint appearance will be at 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 27 in the sanctuary of the Redwood Presbyterian Church, Larkspur. The meeting, sponsored by the fellowship groups of the church, will be open to the public.

Report Says Spy Suspect Tried To Join Campaign

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Times reported today that a lawyer linked to efforts to spy on Democrats apparently tried to join Sen. George McGovern's California primary campaign.

The Times reported previously that several persons had alleged that the lawyer, Donald H. Segretti, tried to enlist them in attempts to interfere with the Democratic campaign.

However, records of volunteers reportedly found in the files of McGovern's Santa Monica headquarters were "the first solid evidence that Mr. Segretti himself had sought to become involved directly in the McGovern campaign," the Times said.

The Los Angeles Times, meanwhile, reported today that records it had obtained showed Segretti spent thousands of dollars travelling in 1971—while still in the Army—to cities where Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, then the leading Democratic contender, was preparing primary campaigns.

The New York Times reported Wednesday that at least 28 telephone calls charged to Segretti had been made to the White House; the home of Dwight L. Chapin, an aide to President Nixon; and the home or office of E. Howard Hunt Jr., a former consultant to the White House who has been charged with the alleged bugging of Democratic national headquarters in Washington.

An index card in the Santa Monica records showed that a person who identified himself as Segretti came to the office and volunteered to join in a bicycle parade for McGovern three days before the June 6 primary, the New York Times said.

The newspaper said that another index card indicates Segretti agreed to distribute leaflets June 5. It said Both index cards show Segretti's name, home telephone number and address.

The Los Angeles Times said Segretti visited at least 11 cities, some of them repeatedly, in the second half of 1971. The visits began at least three months before he was discharged from the Army at Ft. Ord, Calif., in September of that year, the newspaper said.

"The purpose of these trips however could not be learned, nor is there evidence to suggest that Segretti's visits...were related to these state primaries that were several months away at the time," the Los Angeles newspaper said.

Resolution On Nixon's Defeat Upsets Council

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —The California AFL-CIO was asked today by leaders of its pollitical arm to retract a resolution urging the defeat of President Nixon.

The executive council of the state AFL-CIO's Council on Political Education (COPE) made the recommendation to the COPE membership at a special meeting called to consider a directive from AFL-CIO President George Meany to rescind the anti-Nixon resolution.

But the COPE council also urged that the AFL-CIO's national Executive Council "meet as soon as possible to reconsider the no endorsement position and take all appropriate steps to insure the defeat of Richard Nixon."

Twilight Baseball Is Pitchers' Game

Twilight World Series baseball tried to make it perfectly clear last night in the Oakland Coliseum: you can't expect a slugfest, especially in the first few innings.

Baseball, lovingly referred to as our national pastime, is not meant to be played in the period between night and day. I don't want to take anything away from the pitchers, but the elements were on their side. Until the lights take over in the later innings, that little white baseball is not the easiest thing to see. Just ask Johnny Bench, Cincinnati slugger who is still looking for the ball. He was left at the plate three times on called third strikes.

IN ALL, THERE were 21 strikeouts in the game, 14 against the Reds and 7 against Oakland. Oakland batters managed to get the ball out of the infield three times, all putouts by Reds' center fielder Bob Tolan. The three A's hits all remained in the infield, probably covering less than a total of 100 feet. Heck, Campy Campaneris can throw his bat farther than that. Cincinnati left fielder Pete Rose and right fielder Cesar Geronimo were lucky to stay awake the duration of the game.

Cincinnati pitcher Jack Billingham said after the 1-0 victory it was mostly his sinker which throttled the A's. The 6-foot-4 right-hander was originally signed by the Dodgers in 1961 and didn't make it up to the majors until 1968. Then came trades to Montreal and Houston and finally Cincinnati.

BILLINGHAM WAS in complete control of the A's throughout the 2-hour, 24-minute game. "I was hitting the corners really well," he said. "I don't think I made a bad pitch all night."

Reds' manager Sparky Anderson pulled Billingham in the bottom of the ninth, no outs and a 3-0 count on A's first baseman Mike Epstein. At the time, second guessers in the press box were mumbling that Sparky should keep Billingham in the game.

Anderson said later he felt he was one pitch late in pulling his hurler. "Jack was getting tired." When someone asked what he said when he went to the mound to relieve Billingham, Sparky answered, "All I said was 'Give me the ball.'" He's not much of a conversationalist on the mound.

ANOTHER MOVE which made Anderson come out smelling like a rose (no, not you Pete) was when he ordered Billingham to walk Epstein in the sixth inning to load the bases with one out.

Sal Bando obliged Sparky by grounding into a double play to end the A's only serious threat all night.

The Reds scored the game's only run in the seventh inning, Geronimo tapping a grounder past second base. Tony Perez scored from second base, but not before slipping and falling to the wet turf after rounding third base. A's center fielder George Hendrick scooped up the ball and threw to shortstop Campaneris. Campy's back was to the plate and he didn't see Perez fall. Players were screaming for Campy to throw home, but because of all the crowd noise, Campy said he had not heard a thing. Some observers felt Hendrick hadn't charged the ball fast enough.

BUT WILLIAMS stuck up for all his men on that play. It was too wet for Hendrick to charge the ball any faster, said Williams, and the soggy ground stopped the roll.

"Geronimo didn't hit the ball that good," said Williams. Then catching himself, he added, "but it was good enough to win the game."

The attendance of 49,410 last night fell short of the A's record of 50,182 set last June 12 on a Family Night promotion. That record cannot be broken during the series. Why? Because of all the seats being taken up by the press, of course. Write on, you scribes, write on.

JUST ONE OF THE GUYS

Gerri Scherer, a 16-year-old girl, watched the Northglenn High School football team exercise in Denver yesterday after she was refused permission to join the squad. Colorado high school rules prohibit girls from playing on prep football teams, but she will try again next year as a senior. Meanwhile, Miss Scherer will serve as team manager this season.

BRISTOL

Phillies Manager Choice

OAKLAND (AP) — Dave Bristol, who already has managed in both the American and National Leagues, is the choice to be the new manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, The Associated Press has learned.

The selection of the 39-year-old Bristol, was learned Wednesday from sources who are here to attend the World Series between the Cincinnati Reds and the Oakland A's.

Bristol, who managed the Reds four years and the Milwaukee Brewers 2½ seasons, is scheduled to be officially named manager the last week of October or the first week in November.

Paul Owens, the Philadelphia general manager, did not deny that Bristol was his choice for the job, but said he still had other candidates to interview for the position. Bristol has confirmed that he has talked to Owens.

Frank Lucchesi began the 1972 baseball season as the Philadelphia manager but was fired in June. Owens then replaced him and held both the manager and general manager posts. He gave up the manager's job at the end of the season.

Muddy Field For Tam-Novato Go

Novato and Tamalpais high schools each believing the muddy field at Novato will give the other team the advantage, collide tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in a Marin County Athletic League football game.

"A wet field usually helps the weaker team," said Novato coach Al Scott, whose undefeated Hornets will be seeking their fifth straight victory of the season and third straight in the MCAL.

"A wet field usually helps the bigger team," said Tamalpais coach Mike Davlin, whose featherweight Indians are 1-4 on the year and last at 0-2 in the MCAL.

DRAINAGE

"The field has zero drainage," said Scott. "It's like quicksand. You stand on it, and your shoes disappear."

So do yardage totals and large scores. Under similar conditions last week, Novato barely defeated inspired Drake, 7-0, as tailback Mark Magers ran for 107 yards and the game's lone touchdown.

With an offensive line which outweighs Tam's defenders by about 12 pounds a man, Novato may keep it on the ground again, although the temptation to throw into Tam's wounded secondary is a great one.

INJURIES

"Alvin Price (a halfback) has a bad ankle, so we'll save him for offense," said Davlin. With backs Rodney Williams and Alvin Hall injured in previous weeks, Tam's secondary will be a patchwork affair.

Scott has made two changes in Novato's defense which rob the Hornets of 55 pounds in the line; thus if Davlin is right about weight being an advantage, Tam is in luck. Mike Holtzinger (165) will replace Mike Asciutto (200) at middle guard and Bob Clay (195) takes over for Paul Kessler (215) at left tackle.

TAM ATTACK

Tam likes to play ball-control on offense with hard runners Price and Fred Adams, but can throw if necessary to split end Dennis Morini, the MCAL's leading receiver. Tim Nowell, recovering from a shoulder injury, is able to spell any of three defensive backs or quarterback starter Steve Gaddis.

The lineups:

Marin Tar Runners Win Pair Of Meets

College of Marin's cross country team won a pair of meets yesterday at Suisun, Solano County, beating Santa Rosa, 23-32, and Contra Costa College of San Pablo, 17-44.

Marin's Lee Hotchkin won the race, covering the hilly four-mile course in 22 minutes and 14 seconds. Marin won four of the first five places, Bob Bunnell third, Vian Collier fourth and John Streett fifth.

Water Polo Victory

Redwood High School's water polo team whipped Berkeley High 23-10, yesterday in a non-league match at Redwood. Warren Lager scored 10 goals for Redwood and Tom Schinder scored nine more.

BARUNA VENTURE

Kettenhofen Favor To Sailing Friends

Just a little favor among old friends, you understand. They asked Ernest N. Kettenhofen if he wouldn't be kind enough to go down, pick up their new boat, and sail it back.

The Sausalito businessman said "yes," so he and the rest of his eight-man crew will depart tomorrow for Fiji island in the Pacific, to sail the famous $250,000, 73-foot yawl Baruna back to the California Maritime Academy in Vallejo.

The Baruna was given to the Academy by its owner, Southern California land engineer John W. McIntyre, and will be used for training midshipmen at the Academy, and also for fund-raising and promotional purposes, Kettenhofen said.

"I'm a graduate of the Academy, a member of its board of governors, and licensed ship captain," said the 55-year-old Kettenhofen, a former Marin County supervisor. "That's why they selected me to do it. I've owned sailboats all my life, including a 45-foot ketch right now, and I've been captain of five ships."

Kettenhofen intends to accept delivery of the boat on behalf of the Academy Saturday and begin his six-to-eight-week journey back to the continental United States next Wednesday.

The route will take him to Samoa, Fanning island and Hawaii. He expects to arrive in the Bay Area about Dec. 10-15.

All seven of the other crew members are personal friends of Kettenhofen, and four are Marinites. They include Lawrence Stewart of Sausalito, a professor of English literature on leave from College of San Mateo; John Ziegler of Mill Valley, an importer; Greg Lowry of Sausaltio; and Kettenhofen's son, Jamie. Two other members are Kettenhofen's attorney, Robert Reeser of Oakland, and the foreman of his Lake County ranch, Marvin Jones.

The boat was built in 1938 in New York, and was first brought to the West Coast in 1954 by its then-owner, Jim Michel. It has participated in many events, including Trans-Pacific races and long-distance races to Acapulco and Mazatlan.

WORLD SERIES

Reds Alive Against A's

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN
UPI Sports Editor

OAKLAND (UPI) — Suddenly, defying history, the Cincinnati Reds are alive again in the 1972 World Series and have a chance to deadlock the Series if they can follow up with another victory over the Oakland A's tonight.

The fourth game tonight at 5:15 and tomorrow's fifth game, 12:30 p.m., will be nationally televised on NBC channels 3 and 4 with no Bay Area blackouts. No rain is expected for the games tonight and tomorrow according to weather reports.

"We're on our way," trumpeted Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson in the wake of Wednesday night's 1-0 pitching battle triumph that cut the A's' lead in the best-of-seven Fall classic to two games to one.

"Watch us now," said Anderson. "I still think the same as I did after we came here to Oakland trailing, 2-0, in games —we are going to win the Series in seven games. They've got a real good club but we've got a real good club, too, and you're starting to see it now."

For tonight's 5:15 p.m. fourth game at Oakland Coliseum, Anderson named fireballing lefthander Don Gullett (9-10) as his get-even pitcher and Manager Dick Williams of the A's also picked a lefthander, Ken Holtzman (19-11), the winner of the opening game of the Series in Cincinnati last Saturday.

The Reds, who are bucking baseball history which says that no team ever has lost the first two games of the Series at home and come back to win the world championship, won their first game with the help of, of all things, the noise of the Oakland crowd.

It happened in the seventh inning when Cincinnati scored the game's only run on a single by Tony Perez, a sacrifice by Denis Menke, and another single by Cesar Geronimo.

Perez was on second base when Geronimo, who had gone 0-for-9 in the Series up to that point, laced into a pitch from A's starter John "Blue Moon" Odom and rapped it into short center field for a single. Perez came around third on a wide turn heading for the plate and suddenly he slipped and fell on the soggy turf—a souvenir of the rainstorm that postponed the third game from Tuesday night to Wednesday night.

In center field, George Hendrick had run in, scooped up the ball, and threw it to shortstop Bert Campaneris. Instinctively, Campaneris looked to first base to keep Geronimo from advancing—he hadn't noticed that Perez had fallen and he never thought he had a play at home.

Catcher Gene Tenace was screaming for the ball. From the dugout, Williams was hollering, too. Campaneris never heard 'em—crowd noise.

"I hear nothing," said Campaneris. "I was looking at the ball and at Geronimo."

But the moment was lost, and with it the game. Because meanwhile Jack Billingham was mowing down the A's.

Billingham gave up only three hits, none of which left the infield, which prompted Anderson to claim with a laugh that he pitched "a no-hitter." Only three balls were hit to the Reds' outfield, all of them caught by center fielder Bobby Tolan.

Billingham needed ninth-inning relief from Clay Carroll — or, anyway, Anderson thought he needed it—after he had thrown three balls to leadoff batter Mike Epstein. Carroll threw a strike, then got Epstein to ground out, and got the next two batters, too, to end the game.

"I knew I had to keep the ball low against Oakland, and that's what I did," said Billingham.

"Jack was just great," said Anderson. "He'll get another start in the Series, probably in the sixth game."

The Reds' triumph spoiled a brilliant pitching effort by Odom, who fanned 11 batters in the seven innings he worked and gave up three of the Reds' four hits. Cincinnati got one more hit in the eighth inning off Vida Blue, who was ineffective in brief relief, but then were closed out the rest of the way by Rollie Fingers, who pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in that eighth.

And the victory got Johnny

Time For Big Red Bats To Break Loose

OAKLAND (UPI)—The time has come for the big bats of the Cincinnati Reds to break loose.

"We're relaxed now," Sparky Anderson said Wednesday after his team posted a 1-0 victory over Oakland and made it a 2-1 World Series in favor of the Athletics.

"I think they're in for a surprise now," he said. "We haven't broken loose yet and I'll be surprised if our offensive attack doesn't bust loose."

The Reds, with their top three hitters in a miserable 3-for-33 slump, counted on some stout pitching from sinker ball specialist Jack Billingham to get back into the series.

Billingham gave up just three scratch hits before giving way to relief ace Clay Carroll in the ninth.

With his sinker working to near perfection, Billingham, who came to the Reds last winter from Houston, allowed only three balls to be hit out of the infield.

"I knew I had to keep the ball low to the Oakland guys," the tall right-hander said. "The main thing was to get them to hit the ball on the ground. That, I did."

So effective was Billingham's sinker that centerfielder Bobby Tolan handled the only three balls hit to the outfield.

Anderson declined to go beyond his starting pitcher tonight, young Don Gullett.

But he repeated to newsmen crowding into his dressing

History Defied: Reds Alive Again

Bench, the Reds' super-star, off the hook because he was in the running to be the "goat" of the game.

He made an error on a throw to first on a bunt and on the same play neglected to call time before complaining to the umpire, which led to the runner at second base advancing to third on a throwing error by Joe Morgan. It was the big jam of the game for the Reds, who got out of that sixth-inning pickle when Billingham got Sal Bando to rap into a double play.

More than that, Bench fanned three times—including once when the A's made a sucker of him on a fake intentional walk, quite a trick to pull on possibly the greatest catcher of the generation.

It happened with two on and one out in the eighth just after Fingers relieved Blue. The count went to 3-and-2 and here came Williams out of the A's dugout. Very plainly, by the gestures, he was telling Fingers not to risk a dangerous pitch to Bench but to walk him intentionally.

Catcher Tenace held out his arm in the usual gesture for an intentional ball—then jumped behind the plate as Fingers caught the edge of the plate with a slider for called strike three.

On third base, runner Morgan had spotted the ruse and was yelling, "Look out, Johnny—they're pitching to you." Later he admitted, "I should have called time."

"I was half-fooled," Bench admitted.

Redwood Harriers Triumph

Redwood High School's cross country team swept the first four places yesterday in defeating Tamalpais and San Marin in a double dual meet at Redwood's home course around Phoenix Lake.

Pete Sweeney led the winning varsity runners over the three-mile course, a winning time of 15:34.7. He was followed by Mike Killeen, Dave Brainerd and Jan-Eric Moller. San Marin's Gary Lathrop was fifth.

Redwood's team score over Tam was 17-41 and since San Marin didn't field a full team, it forfeited its matches with Redwood and Tam.

Tamalpais' Kim Baez won the frosh-soph meet with a 12:04 clocking on a 2¼-mile course. Redwood defeated Tam in that division, 24-31, with San Marin again forfeiting because of a "short" team. Kate Keis of Tam won a special girls race.

In other Marin County Athletic League cross country action, San Rafael High's varsity and frosh-soph teams defeated Terra Linda and host Drake. In varsity San Rafael downed Terra Linda, 27-30 and undermanned Drake forfeited. Team scores in frosh-soph were unavailable.

World Speed Record Bid By Slovak In Reno

The previous record of 469 m.p.h. stood for almost 30 years until broken in 1970 by almost 20 m.p.h. by Darryl Greenemayer.

room, "we're on our way. Watch us now. They're going to see something now."

The Reds got a hint of what was to come even before the third game started.

Reserve catcher Bill Plummer, who caught Billingham in the pre-game warm-up, told Johnny Bench, "Jack's sinker is exploding."

Plummer wasn't kidding," Bench said. "It was unfortunate that Jack got off to such a slow start this year. He really came around after mid-season and was one of our best pitchers over the second half.

"He showed you what kind of pitcher he really is. Oakland is the kind of team Jack is really effective against because he can spot his pitches. He just pitched eight super innings tonight."

Billingham turned it over to Carroll with a 3-0 count on Mike Epstein and none out in the ninth.

Carroll, described by Anderson as the best reliever in the majors, got Epstein on a ground out and then set down the next two batters to wind it up for the Reds.

"All Sparky said was not to think about the 3-0 count and to throw strikes," Carroll said.

With Pete Rose, Joe Morgan and Tolan handcuffed, the Reds counted on two other players who were involved with Billingham in the Houston trade.

After Tony Perez singled in the seventh, Denis Menke laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt and Cesar Geronimo made his first World Series hit abig one by drilling a single to center.

'Mac' Lane's Father Dies In Oakland

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers announced Tuesday that the father of running back MacArthur Lane died in Oakland Monday night.

Lane and his family left for Oakland for his father's funeral. The Packer front office said funeral arrnagements are incomplete and that Lane will probably miss several days of practice this week.

Pre-Olympic Champs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first winners involved in the summer Olympic games in Munich were three American youngsters who won their medals even before the international competition began. Top-winning gold medalist was Nancy Miller, 14, of Elkhart, Ind. Silver medal winner was 11-year-old Keith Schleicher of Plantation, Fla., while his brother, Kevin 14, took third place and won a bronze medal.

Golfer Ellsworth Wins At Napa

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

NAPA, Calif. — Ken Ellsworth, 29, a professional from Harbor City, Calif., shot a six-under-par 66 on the Silverado Club's south course Wednesday to win the $500 first prize in the Kaiser International Pro-Amateur competition before today's $150,000 Kaiser Open begins.

He was followed by tour regulars DeWitt Weaver and Babe Hiskey, who both shot 67 on the same course.

Leading the half of the field playing on the longer north course were former Masters champion Charles Coody, and one-time national Professional Golfers Association King Dave Marr. Both shot 68, two shots higher than Ellsworth.

Three others fired 69s on the north course, Jimmy Wiechers, Bob Zender and Juan (Chi Chi) Rodriguez. Only 12 pros broke par on the north as defending champion Billy Casper had 71 and Jack Nicklaus had par 72.

ABA San Diego Team Gains Center Smith

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association have picked up center Garfield Smith, who was released last week by Boston.

The 6-9 veteran will be third center on the club, but nobody else will have to be cut since the team is within the league player limit.

SPORT SHORTS

Boxing

MEXICO CITY — The World Boxing Council (WBC) Wednesday gave world heavyweight champion Joe Frazier 48 hours to negotiate a title match with top challenger George Foreman.

If Frazier fails to sign for the title bout, he will be stripped of the championship and if Foreman fails to accept it, another boxer, probably Muhamad Ali, will be named the official challenger in the heavyweight division, the WBC decided.

The action was taken because Frazier, although he's been "a good champion" in the words of WBC president Ramon G. Velazquez of Mexico, hasn't fought the No. 1 challenger in the division for 18 months.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

A Save For Dave

By LEE TREVINO

Until Dave Hill showed us how to handle it, none of the touring pros had much luck with putts from against the collar of a green. Like where the grass is an inch or so higher than the putting surface, and your ball is kissing it.

Try to use a putter and the blade tangles up in the grass. We tried to stroke the ball without grounding the putter, but you'd either pinch grass between the putter and ball, or top it, or chop it too firmly.

Hill watched guys even try to chip those putts. Then he thought about using a wedge from the collar. Grass couldn't hang on the rounded flange.

Dave's system was to lay the back of the wedge flat on the ground with the face completely open. This raises the leading edge of the blade about half an inch off the ground, and the flange slides through the grass easy.

Use a natural putting stance and stroke. The edge of the blade will hit the ball square in the belly. Then think kind thoughts of Davey Hill, who recognized an idea when its time had come.

Sonoma Football Factor

Even if it doesn't rain this weekend, the weather could help determine the outcome of a tight Sonoma County League football race.

Saturday at 8 p.m., Rancho Cotate High School of Rohnert Park hosts Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa on a muddy Durst Field in Petaluma in a SCL first place showdown.

In other local weekend football action, Petaluma travels to Napa tomorrow at 8 p.m. to continue its quest for a North Bay League title, St. Mincent hosts North Central League II foe Point Arena on Durst Field at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, and host Tomales meets NCL II opponent Upper Lake in its homecoming at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Although Rancho Cotate has the more impressive statistics in league play (with a 20 to 15 point per game output, while lagging in defense with six to four points per game allowed), the muddy conditions at Durst Field should have a more telling effect on the outcome of the game.

The playing field conditions should be terrible. That might give the Cougars a slight edge, as it would cut down considerably on the Cardinals' quickness, a key strength of the visitors.

Gals' Golf Tourney In Tucson Set Back

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Rain has moved the schedule at the $30,000 Ladies Professional Golfers Association tourney back one day.

The Pro-Am was to be held today, but now will go Friday, weather permitting.

Saint Coach Roberts Not Optimistic

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— New Orleans Saints' Coach J.D. Roberts is not optimistic about his club's encounter with the San Francisco 49ers Sunday at Candlestick Park.

"It's not impossible for us to beat the 49ers although we can't be counted on to do it," Roberts said.

The Saints, the youngest club in the National Football League, have lost all five of its league games.

"We're trying to rebuild with young players, and I think we're going to succeed," he said.

Wily tight-end Dave Parks, a 49er in 1965 and 1966, is one of the handful of veterans making the trip here with the Saints.

But it has not been a perfect season for him, either. Parks has accounted for two of the 21 pass drops by the Saints in their conference matches.

Unitas On Bench In Major Colt Change

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

OK, armchair coaches, let's size this one up:

You're playing a team for the second time. In the first game, your quarterback passes for 376 yards but your defense is burned for 196 yards. So what adjustments do you make for the return match?

It may not sound too logical but if you're the Baltimore Colts, you go with the same defense but you change the quarterback.

John Unitas, who burned the New York Jets for 376 yards while the Colt defense was giving up 496 yards passing to Joe Namath, will be on the bench Sunday when the Baltimore Colts invade Shea Stadium Sunday to battle the Jets.

Unitas, who had been able to guide the Colts to only one victory in their first five games, got caught in the dispute between General Manager Joe Thomas and former coach Don McCafferty.

Thomas figured, "as long as we're losing anyway, we might as well build with younger guys." The younger guy Thomas especially wanted to use was quarterback Marty Domres, who was obtained from San Diego earlier this year.

McCafferty's insisted on using Unitas and that played a role in his dismissal on Monday when John Sandusky was named the new coach.

In the other games Sunday, Dallas is at Washington, Cincinnati is at Los Angeles, Buffalo is at Miami, Denver is at Oakland, Atlanta meets Green Bay at Milwaukee, San Diego is at Detroit, St. Louis is at the New York Giants, New England is at Pittsburgh, New Orleans is at San Francisco, Philadelphia is at Kansas City and Cleveland is at Houston.

In the Monday night TV special, the Minnesota Vikings, who've been a real disappointment this year, will face the Chicago Bears.

Strong Harrier Shows By Rancho, Petaluma Teams

The North Bay and Sonoma County leagues held cross country center meets yesterday in Vallejo and Rohnert Park, and if the results are any indication, Southern Sonoma should have two league champions.

The center meets are held yearly to acquaint the runners in each league with the championship course. The scoring is unofficial and the results don't count in league standings.

Petaluma High School showed in Vallejo that it was definitely the class of the NBL with five of the first ten finishers, while Rancho Cotate hosted the SCL meet, and beat Piner of Santa Rosa by five points, with Sonoma a distant third.

Drum-type Brakes
Any American Car and Most Foreign Cars.

We do a lot more than reline your brakes...here's what we do:

We replace your worn linings with new bonded brake linings on all four wheels.

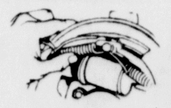

Inspect your brake drums for contact with the linings.

We examine your wheel cylinders and master cylinder for leaks.

Brake shoe return springs are checked for proper tension.

Next, we inspect the brake fluid lines for leaks or weak points.

Because wheel bearings can be badly damaged if the original grease has dried and caked, we clean and repack the outer bearings on both front wheels.

The final step is to add heavy duty brake fluid and road test your car.

As you can see . . . your money goes a long way at Firestone. It buys you prompt and dependable brake service by expert brake mechanics. Why not give us a try?

Financial Home Run For Mr. Stoneham?

Horace Stoneham may have hit a post-season financial home run for the Giants who dropped $1 million at the Candlestick gate this year.

Two years ago Stoneham told stockholders of National Exhibition Company (legal owner of the Giants) that "real estate has to be our salvation!"

During the past two years Stoneham has been conducting negotiations with Marubeni-Iida (America) Inc., a subsidiary of the $5 billion Marubeni-Iida Co., Ltd., of Tokyo, which has offices throughout the world, including one in Los Angeles that does $45 million business a month.

MARUBENI IS interested in developing 850 acres owned by the Giants at their Arizona spring training base of Francisco Grande.

Last weekend Stoneham, majority stockholder and president of National Exhibition Company, flew to Tokyo for a high level conference with top officials of Marubeni's home office. It was a fast 72-hour roundtrip for Stoneham who returned optimistic from his 14,000-mile jet flight.

Stoneham conferred with Katsumi Shimaya and Yoshiro Shimao. Shimaya is general manager of Marubeni's Overseas Development Division. Shimao is the Marubeni executive who initially started the negotiations with Stoneham two years ago.

A VALUE OF $10 million was put on the Francisco Grande property which includes a high rise hotel, convention headquarters, two showcase motel units of 50 rooms each, an 18-hole golf course and four baseball fields.

If the deal goes through, Marubeni would pay $5 million to National Exhibition Company which would transfer title of the Francisco Grande property to a separate company whose directors would be chosen from Marubeni and NEC.

The separate company would develop the unimproved acreage at Francisco Grande into a model community of homes fronting the golf course, condominiums and a shopping center.

THE FACT THAT Stoneham would make a flying weekend trip to Tokyo indicates that two years of talks with Marubeni representatives finally have reached the decision stage.

Marubeni, like Mitsui and Mitsubishi, two other multi-billion dollar Japanese firms, have vast treasuries of surplus profits to invest. Mitsui already has invested many millions in condominiums and golf courses in Hawaii. Mitsubishi similarly has made big overseas investments.

Even though it is a $5 billion outfit, Marubeni is smaller than Mitsui and Mitsubishi.

Stoneham has repeatedly dodged interviews about his real estate talks with Marubeni but they have been no secret to his board of directors of Cational Exhibition Company. Stoneham has brushed off such attempted interviews, saying "the tail isn't wagging the dog yet."

Mount Tam Hillclimb Sunday

About 70 cyclists, including 1971 U.S. senior pursuit champion Mike Neel of Berkeley, are expected to compete Sunday in the 10th annual Mount Tamalpais Hillclimb Bicycle Race, sponsored by Clover Dairy.

The 14-mile race from Stinson Beach to the Mountain Theater will begin at 10 a.m. There will be two divisions, senior and junior, and cyclists will be competing for prizes of about $500 worth of merchandise. The field will include state junior champion Keith Bierra of the Belmont Bicycle Club; Marc Horwitz of Marin Cyclists, who set the juniors record of 45:02 in the race last year; and Neel, seniors record holder and defending race champion at 43:07.

The race is under the auspices of Marin Cyclists. The public is invited to watch and to participate in a photography contest, and a $20 gift certificate will be awarded by Marin Cyclists for the photo "to best capture the spirit of the race."

Idaho Regents' Loop Decision

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — The University of Idaho board of regents today plan to decide whether to seek to pull the school out of the Big Sky athletic conference.

School officials declined comment until the regents had made school policy official.

Numerous members of the athletic staff, particularly the football staff, have advocated the move in recent years. Idaho is the only school in the Big Sky conference playing in the university division in football. The rest are in the college division.

Marin Booters Win

PREP NOTES

Strong Redwood Runners In Soquel

By LEW CODDINGTON

Redwood High School, its lust for cross-country championships spilling beyond the boundaries of Marin County, will run against five other powers from Northern California in an invitational meet Saturday.

This effort comes on the heels of a victory in the California State University, Sacramento, Invitational last Saturday. (How much easier the title was when the school was named Sacramento State.)

"It was the first time a Marin team has won one of those Saturday invitationals, at least in 'modern history,' " said Redwood coach Doug Basham. "In the last 10 years, I'm sure."

This Saturday, Redwood will run in the Soquel Invitational, put on by Soquel High School near Santa Cruz. The five other participants — Mt. Pleasant of San Jose, Leigh of San Jose, St. Francis of Mountain View, Merced and San Carlos — are all major powers.

Redwood also is eying the North Coast Section title after a fourth-place finish last year with many of the same personnel. The results of the Soquel meet will give another indication of how the Giants can fare against top competition.

Redwood runner Pete Sweeney, incidentally, has compiled a remarkable record of consistency by finishing third in each of the six meets he's run this year. In a dual meet, that may afford only minimal satisfaction, but in a major invitational like Sacramento State, it's an achievement.

TANGLE — At this point, it is still possible for the MCAL varsity football race to end in a five-way tie. Nothing implausible would have to happen, either.

If San Rafael defeats the two contenders remaining on its schedule (Terra Linda and Novato), and if San Marin, Novato and Redwood all break even in games against each other, then the five teams will have two defeats each. Barring an upset by Drake or Tamalpais, they'll tie for the title.

MISPRINT — The Novato gridder walking around with the name "Lite" on his jersey is not a new face, but is really gold ol' Mark Lipe, victim of a typographical error. Novato is the only school in the MCAL with names on its jerseys, a fact which probably pleases coach Al Scott more than it pleases Lipe.

GIFT — San Marin linebacker Dave Azevedo, who underwent abdominal surgery last week, is out of the hospital, according to coach Bob Martin, and recovering rapidly. Before he left, he was presented with a football autographed by all the Mustang players and showing the score of San Marin's 18-12 upset victory last Friday over San Rafael.

Another injured gridder, junior varsity defensive back Greg Ford of Tamalpais, is in satisfactory condition at Marin General Hospital.

Tackle Bob Tessin of Redwood and running back Layne Cozza of Marin Catholic, both originally expected to be out for the year with injuries, have recieved doctors' clearances and will begin working out again shortly.

Raiders' Sub Davis Does Not Mind Role

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland Raiders running back Clarence Davis says he doesn't mind being a substitute against the Denver Broncos Sunday — as long as he gets to play as much as he has the past two weekends.

"As long as I contribute when I come in, I'm not that concerned with starting, because if you don't play good ball you won't be playing at all," Davis said Wednesday.

Since returning two weeks ago from an injury, Davis has alternated with Charlie Smith and has rushed for 92 yards, caught three passes for 45 yards and scored three touchdowns. In the same span, Smith has rushed for 192 yards, scored one touchdown, and caught six long passes for 123 yards.

"We'll keep going the way we have been," Coach John Madden said. "How long each plays is determined somewhat by game situations. Last week it was something like 34 plays to 28 with Smith playing more. . . It'll be about the same, half and half, but it's not a set thing."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

BankAmerica Bond Conversion Advised

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate your reviewing BankAmerica Realty Investors. I bought a package deal $3,000 in bonds and 30 shares of common stock. I have never invested in anything but regular stock so I am a little leery of this. Is this stock listed on any exchange? — H.K.

A. The common stock is traded Over-the-Counter, currently at about $28. The bond, which is convertible into common at $21 a share, recently changed hands at $1,310. Thus, your original investment of $2,700 has appreciated 77 per cent in 27 months, almost triple the advance in the Dow Industrial Average for the same period. For the year ended July 31, 1972, this real estate investment trust reported a 27 per cent gain in net income, covering interest costs 2.65 times. With the bond trading now within 1 per cent of its conversion value, you might be wise to exchange for common shares. For one reason, the indicated return on the common is a generous 6.6 per cent versus 5.2 per cent currently on the bond. Furthermore the appreciation potential for the common is greater now that the bond has reached exchange parity. Conversion is advised.

Q. Can you advise me on one of the Shareholders Mutual Funds — Enterprise? I paid $10 and it is now about $7.. — W.H.

A. In the days prior to the 1969-70 bear market this fund was one of the hottest performers. The spectacular rise was based on a preponderance of OTC stocks in the fund's portfolio. Many of these were "letter" stocks — unregistered securities — for which values are difficult to pin down. With the bear market these speculative issues plummeted as did this fund. Present management takes a more conservative approach and the fund's portfolio reflects this.

More than 65 of the common stocks now held by Enterprise are listed on the New York or American stock exchanges. The number of issues held has been sliced from about 700 to 250. I would suggest holding this fund for partial recovery.

Coast Holdings Tell Earnings

Pacific Coast Holdings Inc. of San Francisco, parent company of Bell Savings and Loan Association, reported net earnings of $653,700 for the first nine months of this year, a 113 per cent increase over the $307,000 earnings for the same period last year.

Earnings per share also rose 113 per cent, to 64 cents, compared with 30 cents for the first nine months last year.

Third quarter earnings came to $246,700, or 24 cents per share, compared with $147,000 or 14 cents for the third quarter last year.

BankAmerica Gives Quarterly Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO — Directors of BankAmerica Corporation today authorized a quarterly dividend of 29½ cents a share on the corporation's capital stock.

The dividend is payable Nov. 30 to shareowners of record Nov. 1.

Reports Weighed, N.Y. Prices Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) —Prices on the New York Stock Exchange were mixed in morning trading today as investors weighed reports from Washington about the gross national product and manufacturers' inventories. There were no new Vietnam developments.

Declines led advances, 579 to 556, among 1,541 issues on the tape.

Volume ran over 6 million shares compared with 8 million shares for the same period Wednesday.

Prices were mostly lower on the American Stock Exchange.

Corte Madera Center Is Sold; To Get Restaurant, Theater

A new movie theater and a new restaurant are being planned in the Corte Madera Shopping Center at Tamalpais Avenue and Highway 101.

This was disclosed simultaneously with the announcement that the 27-acre Corte Madera Center has been sold by the previous owners, Premier Properties Inc., to the Churchill Fund of Beverly Hills, composed of Southern California investors. The purchase price was not disclosed.

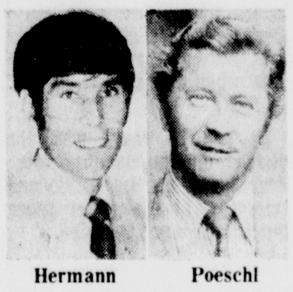

Marin Management Co. of San Francisco, headed by President Erwin D. Mieger of Sausalito, continues to manage the shopping center for the new owners. Mieger was one of the principals in Premier Properties Inc. but is not connected with the Churchill Fund, except to manage the shopping center.

Mrs. Jeanette Olofson, property manager for Marin Management Co., said the new owners hope to build new structures along the periphery of the shopping center to house the new movie theater and restaurant. She said all such plans are subject to approval by Corte Madera city officials.

The Corte Madera Center, built in 1957, includes such tenants as Montgomery Ward, J.C. Penney, F. W. Woolworth, Thrifty Drug Store and W.T. Grant.

LE BEAUMONDE, a new women's dress shop at Strawberry Town and Country Village at Alto, will sponsor a fashion show at 8 o'clock tonight Thursday at the windjammer restaurant in Tiburon.

In charge of the fashion show is Andi (Mrs. Dennis) Valo of Mill Valley, manager and buyer for Le Beaumonde, which opened three months ago. Owners of Le Beaumonde are Charles Labue and Wayne Krugman of Mill Valley, who also own the Little Chix dress shop in the same shopping center.

Hermann Poeschl

BLIZZARD SKI Club of Northern California, formerly located in Mill Valley, has opened in San Rafael at 1108 Tamalpais Avenue between Mission and Fifth Avenues.

Director is Rick Hermann, 27, a resident of Marin for 17 years who has worked for the Blizzard Ski Club for six years. He was promoted to director of the club's Northern California division in May.

Blizzard Ski Club takes youngsters aged 8 to 18 to Squaw Valley each Saturday during the winter and instructs them in skiing.

"This year, we've added some new wrinkles to the program, including trick skiing clinics and racing instruction," said Hermann. All instruction will be handled by the Squaw Valley Ski School, under contract to Blizzard.

Parents and youngsters interested in the Blizzard Ski program are invited to a "coke party" at Season's Ski and Sports Shop in San Anselmo on Oct. 26 at 7:30 p.m. and at Marinwood community Center on Oct. 27 at 7:30 p.m. Featured will be refreshments, ski movies and a ski equipment checkup by Season's staff of experts.

CONDOMINIUM PROPERTIES Inc. of San Francisco, headed by William H. Poeschl of San Rafael, has been named to do a nationwide marketing study for Big Sky, Montana, a ski and summer resort south of Billings. Chet Huntley, former NBC newscaster, is chairman of the board for Big Sky, developed by Chrysler Realty.

Condominium Properties will make a study of potential buyers of the year-round second homes at Big Sky, the design of homes, and the pricing.

Frideger Lyon

EDWARD J. FRIDEGER of San Anselmo has been appointed manager of the new Marin County branch of Varner-Ward Leasing Co.

The newest branch office of the car leasing firm is located at 383 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley where 25 new 1973 models are now on display.

A resident of Marin for 22 years, Frideger joined Varner-Ward Leasing in 1963 and managed the company's Oakland office since 1966. Robert B. Varner of San Rafael is president of the San Francisco-based leasing company.

HARRY LYON of Novato, vice president in charge of sales for Kelleher Lumber Sales in San Rafael, attended a special three-day redwood seminar last week at the Simpson Timber Co. operations in Arcata.

Lyon was one of 22 distributors selected from throughout the country to get more information on redwood, its characteristics, and reforestation policies of the Simpson Timber Co.

FIRST CALIFORNIA Co., San Francisco investment securities firm, announced that three Marin residents have been named to its management committee.

Appointed as senior vice presidents are Edward L. Ripley of Belvedere, George H. Klein of Tiburon, and Gordon D. Williams of Novato.

INSURANCE FOR MUDSLIDES, landslides and other land failures in new home developments is now available in San Francisco through a new company called Land Stability Insurance Co.

Scott A. McKown of Mill Valley is vice president of Risk Analysis and Research Corp., which will act as underwriting manager and loss prevention consultant for the new company. The company will insure homes and home sites in new developments against land failure. McKown said such coverage has not been available since 1957. Earthquake damage will not be covered because such coverage is available elsewhere.

Initially the company will insure only new developments. However, as experience and loss data are compiled, the company may branch into developed property. Initially, the maximum limit of liability for any single lot will be $50,000.

ROY'S PHILLIPS 66 is the new service station which took over the former St. Clair's Phillips 66 Station at 1001 Bridgeway in Sausalito.

New owner is Le Roy I. Peterson of Los Ranchitos, who moved his service station from San Francisco to Sausalito to be closer to his home where he and his family have lived for the past 13 years.

After 22 years as Phillips 66 dealer at Army and Bryant Streets in San Francisco, Peterson heard that his friend, Elmer G. St. Clair of Mill Valley, was retiring from his Sausalito service station. He bought the station from St. Clair last week.

Roy's Phillips 66 is open seven days a week, 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays, 8 a.m. to midnight on Saturdays, and 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sundays.

FULLER & SONS Hardware at 1535 E South Novato Boulevard in the Nave Center in Novato is conducting a close-out sale, with hopes of winding up the business at the end of this month. If inventory remains, the sale will continue into November.

Henry and Shirley Fuller of Novato have owned the store ever since they bought it from Milton Johnson (now of Santa Rosa) eight and one-half years ago. The Fullers said business dropped to the point where they can no longer operate. Fuller will continue working as warehouse superintendent for Baker and Hamilton wholesale hardware in San Francisco.

Novato School Employee Ends a 20-Year Career

A NEW LEAF — Turning the leaves of her calendar, Ruth R. Craig looks ahead to Oct. 31, the date on which she will end 20 years of service to the Novato schools.She has watched the school system grow beyond anything she could have predicted in 1952.

(Independent-Journal photo by Alfred M. Arn)

By TERRY NEWELL

On Oct. 31 Ruth R. Craig will put away her pencils and cover her typewriter at the Novato Unified School District administration office for the last time.

Mrs. Craig is retiring after serving Novato schools for 20 years, watching them outgrow a fledgling district to become the huge unified district it is today. There are now more students in the district's schools than there were residents of the area when she started on Oct. 15, 1952.

In her 20 years with the district, she has acquired some grey hairs, but her smile and friendliness make her seem much too young to retire.

She has had a varied career with the district. She was hired by Supt. William J. J. Smith to set up a business office. Prior to that, the county superintendent's office did the bookwork for the Novato district.

Mrs. Craig started her career with the district in the old school on Grant Avenue. She made out the payroll and kept its records; she set up a purchasing order system and kept the budget control records. In short, she did everything in the business office.

When she started, the district consisted of the Grant Avenue School, Marion and Olive schools, and was constructing Hill Junior High School. All high school students went to San Rafael High School.

As the district grew, it hired Eugene DeBrecht to be its business manager and Mrs. Craig became his secretary. She watched as the rift grew between Smith and the board, resulting in Smith's resignation and subsequent litigation to regain his position.

When the board hired James G. Bunker in 1962 as superintendent, he chose Mrs. Craig as his secretary.

So for the past 10 years, Mrs. Craig has been secretary to both the superintendent and the board of trustees.

She has attended every board meeting except one each year while on vacation. That totals more than 1,000 board meetings. A rough estimate would place the number of words which her nimble fingers have typed at somewhere between 75 and 100 million in board minutes, documents and letters.

She was born in the little town of Live Oak in the Sacramento Valley, April 15, 1911. She attended Sutter High School, and Healds Business College in San Francisco. She held several secretarial positions in San Francisco.

She married Henry Neil Craig 37 years ago. They have three children, Zina Rose Kesing of Santa Cruz, Lovetta Harrisof Pleasant Hill and Clifford Neil Craig of Sacramento. They now have five grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. Craig live on a half acre at 35 Stirrup Lane, Novato. Gardening is one of Mrs. Craig's hobbies.

Her other hobbies include playing the organ and — recently — golf.

"I have no definite plans for my time when I retire. I want to enjoy my home, my husband and friends."

If she gets lonesome for the typewriter, she could easily write the history of the Novato School District. She saw the district unify in 1954 and the three unsuccessful and one successful attempt to unify with the San Jose Elementary District. The district now has 12 elementary schools, three junior high schools and three high schools. It has approximately 12,000 students.

In addition to the growth of the school, Mrs. Craig has seen the growth of her circle of friends in the district and community. Nothing expresses the esteem in which she is held more than the comment of a fellow employee:

"Be sure you put in what a gracious person she is. It is a pleasure to work and be around her."

Longer Terms Are Suggested

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Members of the three governing boards which control California's three-tiered public higher education system would all have 12-year terms under recommendations of a special citizens committee.

That would mean reducing the terms for University of California regents from the present 16 years to 12 years, lengthening the terms for State University and College trustees from eight to 12 years and lengthening the terms for community college boards of governors from four years to 12.

The proposal was made Tuesday by the Select Committee on the Master Plan for Higher Education. To enact the proposal would require an amendment to the State Constitution approved by the legislature and voters.

Author Has No Doubts Alioto Met Mafiosi

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The defense completed its case Wednesday in a $12.5 million libel suit against Look Magazine, with co-author Lance Brisson saying he believes San Francisco's mayor met with Mafia members.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto filed the suit against the now-defunct magazine, contending that Look incorrectly linked him with the Mafia.

In the story, Brisson and coauthor Richard Carlson said Alioto had met at the Nut Tree restaurant near Vacaville with six Mafiosi to discuss the formation of the First San Francisco Bank of which Alioto was board chairman.

James Boccardo, attorney for Alioto, asked: "You never really believed Alioto, a lawyer, a man of integrity and the mayor of San Francisco, would meet at the Nut Tree..."

"I believed it then and I believe it now," Brisson interrupted.

"Did it go through that intelligent brain of yours that this champion of the underdog, a multimillionaire who has donated $750,000 to charity, needed six hoods to form a bank," Boccardo asked.

"It is absurd," Boccardo declared. "You must have believed that these men had to have a piece of the bank so they could buy guns to go rob somebody or buy a Porsche."

Brisson declared he had "no serious doubts whatsoever" about the facts in the article.

He also asserted that Alioto kept open his channels of communication to men accused of Mafia connections after becoming Mayor.
